

To Order Allied Troops to Germany if Terms Are Not Accepted

FOCH CALLED IN SECRET SESSION

British Field Marshal Is Summoned to Paris To Confer on Military Action

Allies To Occupy Essen
and Frankfurt if Protocol Is Not Signed

LONDON, Dec. 5.—There was a persistent rumor in the stock exchange this morning that the supreme council of the peace conference had threatened Germany that, unless the final peace terms were agreed to, allied troops would occupy Essen and Frankfurt. Up to this time, the market has not been affected by the report.

Foch at Secret Session

PARIS, Dec. 5.—(Havas)—Participation by Marshal Foch in the secret meeting of the supreme council of the peace conference yesterday, clearly indicated that the council considers military action in case Germany should commit any new infraction of the treaty terms, according to newspapers here. During the meeting, says the Echo de Paris, Premier Clemenceau and Marshal Foch stated the unexpected departure of the German delegates from Versailles and the complicated points raised by the enemy leave no doubt whatever about the necessity of taking action.

It is remarked by the Petit Parisien that Germany considers it has gone too far and the newspaper says an unofficial note has been received from Berlin announcing that new negotiators will leave soon for Versailles.

LOOKS LIKE SKATING FOR CHRISTMAS

If cold, slippy, winter weather continues for another week there will be skating at Christmas time, said John W. Kernan, superintendent of parks, today. The hydrants at Shedd park have been repaired and the department will turn on the water to flood the area just as soon as it appears that a prolonged cold snap is in progress. There is a small patch of rain water ice at the far end of the park now being used by kids after school hours, but it is not very smooth, al-

STRIKE SETTLEMENT DRAWING NEAR

The Saco-Lowell shop strike will come to an end today and the men will return to their work on Monday morning if the conference of shop officials and a committee of 20 strikers with a department of labor conciliator produces a favorable and acceptable basis of settlement.

Two similar conferences already have been held this week and it is learned that considerable progress was made toward settlement. In fact, after the conference on Wednesday, when deliberations were postponed until 2 o'clock today, it was general opinion that the end was in sight. As the situation stands today, it is a question of production on the side of the officials versus a question of wages by the operatives.

A report of the conference will be returned to the body of strikers at a meeting in Grafton hall tonight and either accepted or rejected at that time. If accepted, it is probable that the strike will be called off and the shop will resume full operation on Monday. If this is the case, the strike will have been in force for three weeks lacking one day.

THREE CLASSES MOBILIZED

Czecho-Slovakia Orders
Three Military Classes to the Colors

21 Divisions of Czecho-Slovaks Advancing Toward Hungarian Frontier

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 5.—The Czecho-Slovakian government has ordered the mobilization of three military classes, says a despatch from Vienna to the National Tidende here. A Prague despatch, dealing with the same situation, says that 21 divisions of Czecho-Slovaks are advancing towards the Hungarian frontier.

The issuance of orders to 21 Czecho-Slovak divisions to proceed to the Hungarian frontier, was reported in a news agency despatch from Vienna on Thursday. It was added that six regiments had already left for the border.

Czecho-Slovakia apparently has been exercised by the reports of the monarchical developments in Hungary, following the evacuation of Budapest by the Rumanians and his aggressiveness reported displayed recently by Hungarian frontier forces. Recent advices from Prague announced an attack by a Hungarian frontier detachment on Czecho-Slovak troops. The Hungarians were ultimately driven back across the border, it was stated.

SWEEPING CUT IN TRAIN SERVICE

11,000 Tons of Coal Will Be Saved Daily by Greatest Reduction in History

Additional Industries Face Shutdown—More Drastic Conservation Rules

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Efforts of Governors of at least 10 states to have sufficient coal mined to provide for domestic consumers and absolutely essential industries, marked the progress today of the strike of bituminous coal miners.

Restrictions have been placed on consumption of fuel throughout the country from New York city to the Sierra Nevada mountains as the general situation at the mines showed virtually no improvement and the miners maintained their attitude of hospitality toward the proffered 14 per cent wage increase.

Effective at midnight Sunday night, the most sweeping reduction of railroad service in history—reduction in passenger service of one-third in "train miles" on all railroads diverging west, southwest and northwest from Chicago—had been ordered. Regional directors of the central western regions estimated that that step alone would save 11,000 tons of coal daily. Other curtailments of railroad service were being considered today.

Drastic Conservation Rules

Additional industries faced shutdowns and more drastic conservation rules for cities that would bring them on parity with Chicago and Kansas City, were in prospect. The strict supervision of the use of fuel and power, first ordered at Kansas City last week, was surpassed at Chicago, which went on a six and one-half hour business schedule. Full force of the new restrictions here was expected to be felt today, after much confusion yesterday when they were only partly observed.

At the mines the situation generally

Body Warmth

It is hardly possible to insist too earnestly upon the supreme importance of an abundance of fat-nourishment during the winter to keep up energy and body-warmth.

Scott's Emulsion

is an easily assimilated fuel-food that is of particular advantage to those who feel winter's cold over-much. Scott's Emulsion nourishes the whole body and sustains strength.

Scott & Borden, Incorporated, N. Y.

was unchanged. A small addition to the net production was looked for, however, when Oklahoma put in effect the Kansas idea that daily is producing several carloads of coal—volunteer operation of mines under military protection.

Preparatory to state operation, 15 Missouri mines had been seized under a gubernatorial proclamation.

750,000 Face Loss of Work

Looking toward possible settlement of the coal strike on a state basis, the governor of Ohio has called a conference of representatives of the operator and the approximately 42,000 Ohio miners. Should the strike continue another 10 days it would throw out of employment 750,000 men in Ohio, it was estimated.

In Tennessee, Gov. Roberts had called a meeting for tomorrow of operators and miners to consider steps to end the strike without state seizure of the mines.

Relief for domestic consumers in Montana, where possibly the most actual suffering has been reported, was in sight with the announcement that coal was enroute from Canada. Portions of Wyoming and Nebraska still

Cut Use of Electricity

Except for the order cutting off bunker coal from ships flying foreign flags, the first conservation measures along the eastern seaboard, were in effect today with the curtailing of the use of electricity at New York. No trains in the eastern region will be taken off unless "absolutely necessary," A. T. Hardin, regional director, announced.

Chicago's down town streets at night resemble those of a village so far as illumination is concerned. Only street lights are turned on. The confusion prevalent yesterday due to misunderstanding of the six and one-half hour business day rule was expected to be missing today, when virtually all business houses were due to open at 11 a. m., and close at 5.30 p. m. Office buildings were permitted to remain open only between 9 a. m. and 2.30 p. m.

Theatre box offices reported increased applications for seats. They ascribed the added business rather to the fact that many workers would not have to report for duty until late rather than to the fact that the number of performances had been cut to six a week, five evenings and one matinee.

LONDON, Thursday, Dec. 4.—Bolshevik forces are making a general advance along the entire Denikine front, and have captured the towns of Kaseletz, Romay and Borenia, while fierce fighting is proceeding for the possession of Bielgorod, according to a Bolshevik official statement received here. These towns are in the governments of Tchernigov, Poltava and Kursk, northeast of Kiev. On the eastern front, the statement declares, the Bolsheviks captured, on December 1, the city of Kairsk, 150 miles east of Omsk. Many prisoners were taken, it is said. Southwest of Omsk, the Bolsheviks are said to have repaired the Siberian railroad near Akmolinsk, and are advancing toward Slavgorod.

MODIFICATIONS IN PEACE

is stated, to enable her delegates to Congressional investigation of the beginning with one and one-quarter

The nation, and especially the south, was at about this time shocked by the fact that the president had casually invited Booker T. Washington, negro educator, to lunch with him. No public comment ever was made by Roosevelt on this act, which his closest friends always looked upon as an error of judgment. But in this letter to a man who knew the old southern negro as did none other, the president expresses the somewhat wishful hope that sectionalism might lose its bitterness through an appreciation of the childlike qualities of the real negro.

The Art of Uncle Remus
(To Joel Chandler Harris)
White House, Oct. 12, 1901.

My Dear Harris:
It is worth while being president when one's small daughter receives that kind of an autograph gift. When I was younger than she is, my Aunt Annie Bulloch of Georgia, used to tell me some of the brer rabbit stories, especially the brer rabbit and the tar baby. But I don't think I am even fonder of your other writings. I doubt if there is a more genuinely pathetic tale in all our literature than "Free Joe." Moreover, I have felt that all that you write serves to bring our people closer together. I know, of course, the ordinary talk is that an artist should be judged purely by his art; but I am rather a Philistine and like to feel that the art serves a good purpose. Your art is not only an art addition to our sum of national achievement, but it has also always been an addition to the forces that tell for decency, and above all for the blotting out of sectional antagonism.

A Ride and a Pillow Fight

Dear Kermit:
I was much pleased at your being made captain of your eleven. I would rather have you captain of the third eleven than playing on the second. Yesterday afternoon Ethel on Wyoming, mother on Yaganka and I on Renown had a long ride, the only incident being meeting a large red automobile, which much shook Renown's nerves, although he behaved far better than he has hitherto been doing about automobiles. In fact, he behaved so well that I leaned over and gave him a lump of sugar when he had passed the object of terror—the old boy eagerly turning his head around to get it. It was lovely out in the country, with the trees at their very best of the fall coloring. There are no red maples here, but the Virginia creepers and some of the dogwoods give the red, and the hickories, in the class gave me real pleasure. I have sympathized so much with your delight in physical prowess and have been so glad at the success you have had, that sometimes I have been afraid I have failed to emphasize sufficiently the fact that of course one must not subordinate study and work to the cultivation of such prowess. By the way, I am sorry to say that I am falling behind physically. The last two or three years I have had a tendency to rheumatism, or gout, or something of the kind, which makes me very stiff.

Renown is behaving better about automobiles and the like. I think the difference is largely in the way I handle him. He is a very good-natured and gentle horse, but timid and not overwise, and when in a panic his great strength makes him well-nigh uncontrollable. Accordingly, he is a bad horse to try to force by anything. If possible, it is much better to give him a little time, and bring him up as gently as may be to the object of terror. When he behaves well I lean forward and give him a lump of sugar, and now the old boy eagerly puts around his head when I stretch

Study and Play
White House, Oct. 24, 1903.

Dear Ted:
I am really greatly pleased at your standing so high in your form, and I am sure that this year it is better for you to be playing where you are in football. I suppose next year you will go back to your position of end, as you would hardly be heavy enough for playing back, or to play behind the center, against teams with big fellows. I repeat that your standing

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

Hello, little people! Did you ever have a pair of green shoes? "Nick" and "Nancy" have in "The Adventures of the Twins," the wonderful new story by Olive Roberts Barton. Today's story deals with the Magical Mushroom.

Nancy and Nick were very sad, for Jocko, their pet monkey had run away. He had taken his little black shoe-button eyes, and his red coat, and his long, long tail and disappeared altogether. They had been sitting under a big chestnut tree. Suddenly they heard someone calling; the voice was very near. The children listened closely and this is what they heard:

"Please pick me so the cows won't step on me! Won't you please pick me!"
"Why, it must be that mushroom talking," said Nick in surprise. "There isn't another thing round anywhere."
"I'll pick you," said Nancy, suiting the action to the word. "Is that what

"Why, it must be that mushroom talking," said Nick together. The twins (Nancy and Nick were twins) looked everywhere for him, but all they could find were a few gains of sawdust on the porch, and a few more grains near the gate, and some more down by the apple-tree in the crooked lane. Jocko had a little rip in one side where the cloth was sewed and Nancy's heart ached as she thought of how careless she had been not to mend him, and how thin he must be getting.

They ran to the end of the lane and started through the meadow toward the woods. But half way across they out my hand. Meinstein I have ridden very little, because I think one of his forelegs is shaky, and I want to spare him all I can. Mother and I have had the most lovely rides imaginable.

Quentin's First Fall

Dear Kermit:
Yesterday I felt rather seedy, having a touch of Cuban fever, my only unpleasant reminiscence of the Santiago campaign. Accordingly, I spent the afternoon in the house lying on the sofa, with a bright fire burning and mother in the rocking-chair, with her knitting, beside me. I felt so glad that I was not out somewhere in the wilderness, campaigning or hunting, where I would have to walk or ride all day in the rain and then lie out under a brush at night!

When Allan will come from the trainer's I do not know. Rather to my surprise, Ronald has won golden opinions and really is a very nice dog. Pickney loves him, and he sits up in the express wagon just as if it was what he had been born to.

Quentin is learning to ride the pony. He had one tumble, which, he remarked philosophically, did not hurt him any more than when I whacked him with a sofa cushion in one of our pillow fights. I think he will very soon be able to manage the pony by himself. Mother has just taken the three children to spend the afternoon at Dr. Rixey's farm. I am hard at work on my message to congress, and accordingly shall not try to go out or see any either this afternoon or this evening. All of this work is terribly puzzling at times, but I peg away at it, and every now and then, when the dust clears away and I look around, I feel that I really have accomplished a little, at any rate. I think you stood well in your form taking everything into account. I feel you want?"

"Oh, thank you," said the mushroom. "I never meant to grow in a cow field. I'm so afraid of being trampled. Didn't I hear you talking of a lost monkey? Perhaps I can help you for I'm magical, you know. So if you hide me back of that big stone, I'll tell you all about it tomorrow and by that time I'll have the green shoes." After that it wouldn't say another word, and the twins left it wondering what a mushroom should want with shoes anyway.

Public Health Authorities Say
Take Exercise

The death rate after the age of 40 is increasing in spite of more sanitary modes of living and greater protection against communicable disease. The expectation of life after 40 is less than it was 30 years ago. This is due largely to diseases of degeneration. The muscles, arteries and other organs of those who as a result of sedentary occupation or indolence take too little exercise degenerate. Heart disease, kidney disease and other ills follow.

Take exercise. Take daily exercise. Have a hobby that gets you out of doors. Walk to your business, to your dressmaker's, walk for the sake of walking. Join a walking club and keep your weekly score of miles. Keep chickens, make a garden, wheel the baby or play golf or any other game, but take two hours out door exercise every day. Gymnasium work is good for those who like it and can afford it, but you should avoid heavy athletics. Don't try to be a "strong man," the champion athletes often dies young. Be a moderate persistent, daily exponent of exercise. You may not burn the family carriage, as Benjamin Franklin suggested, but at least, as he advised, walk, walk, walk.

Answered
Q. My child was operated on four years ago for adenoids and enlarged tonsils, and though the tonsils give us no trouble the adenoids have returned. What shall I do?

A. It is unfortunately true that even after an operation, adenoids may recur. However, if the resulting obstruction is considerable, you will probably be well advised to follow the direction of your physician and have the child operated on again. The consequences of failure to remove the obstruction are more to be feared than the operation.

Q. Will you please tell me what is good for chronic diarrhoea?
A. It is not possible to say, offhand, just what is good treatment for chronic diarrhoea. Everything depends on the cause of the trouble and that can only be determined by a physician after a careful examination. Be sure, therefore, to consult a good physician and follow his advice.

Edward Everett Hale in 1862 discovered what has been thought to be the first use of the name "California" in a Spanish novel, the Sergas de Esplandian, written about 1500, but now a scholar in Berkeley has found evidence that the author of the novel took "California" from the Chanson de Roland of the 11th century.

NO HEAT IN N. Y. CARS DURING RUSH HOURS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—New York's subway and elevated riding millions began this morning to carry their own heat with them as a coal conservation measure. Acting under orders of Public Service Commissioner Nixon, the subway and elevated managements abandoned for the rush hour periods their winter practice of heating trains. The explanation was given that when trains were crowded the passengers throw off enough bodily heat to keep each other warm.

The expedient was made effective for two weeks between the hours of 6.30 and 9.30 a. m., and from 4.30 to 7.30 p. m. daily. Officials of the companies said it meant a saving of approximately 1000 tons of coal a day, or 20 per cent. of the entire amount used by the lines.

Beginning tonight, it was announced the Great White Way in the theatrical district will go into a partial eclipse. Big electric signs will be operated only between the hours of 7.30 and 8.30 p. m.

SINBAD CLUB DANCE

One of the most enjoyable dancing parties of the season was held in the associate hall last evening when the Sinbad club, an organization of popular Lowell young men, staged their annual social and dance. A large crowd turned out for the event. Miner-Boyle's orchestra was there, too. The committee in charge was: General manager, James Ahearn; assistant, James McFadden; floor director, Paul Dineen; assistant, Henry F. Doran; chief aid, M. Bradford.

71,000 K. OF C. MEN IN U. S. SERVICE

A nation-wide canvass made by the Knights of Columbus for data for their official history, now in process of publication, has just been completed. It reveals the fact that instead of 50,000 members of the organization having served in the army and navy during the war, over 71,000 knights were enlisted, and the proportion of enlistments was maintained everywhere on the basis of total membership. Newfoundland having the same proportion as New York state.

More than four hundred knights died in their country's service, the majority of these on the battlefield, and five Knights of Columbus secretaries lost their lives while in overseas service. The first American to be killed in the war, Lieut. William Fitzsimmons of Kansas City, was a Knight of Columbus and what is said to be the last death at the front was that of Rev. Chaplain John O'Flaherty, also a K. of C. Many distinctions were won by K. of C. including the first distinguished service cross, awarded to Lieut. Henry Meyerling of Chicago; James Kelly of Washington, D. C., and Daniel J. Quinn of Maine, won the congressional medal of honor. Admiral William S. Benson and General John P. O'Ryan are among the high officers members of the K. of C., the long list of civilian members who rendered distinguished service includes John D. Ryan and Edward N. Hurley, Corporal Michael Hennessy, said to be Sergt. Alvin's York's runner-up as the bravest American, is a knight.

Four Members of Crew Drowned

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Four members of the crew of the two-masted schooner Mary E. Lynch were drowned today, when an unidentified tug struck and sank the vessel, which was lying off the foot of 32nd street in the Hudson river. The captain of the sunken vessel, Andrew M. Francis, was rescued. He and the other members of the crew, all negroes, live in Miami, Fla.

Curator Wilkie of the Melbourne (Australia) zoo tells this: During the period of cold weather, a pair of heated woolen blankets were thrown into a cage containing a python. In the morning the blankets were gone and the snake was found sleeping the sleep of a gentleman who had died the night before.

Nancy Doesn't Like "Lady" She'd
Rather Be Mrs. Astor

Lady Astor visiting a coal mine during her campaign. Below are Lady Astor and her husband.

BY ZOE BECKLEY
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

PLYMOUTH, England, Dec. 4.—The first woman to invade the sacred floor of the house of commons in England, is an American "Gibson Girl," Lady Astor, who says:

"I'm proud of my Virginian blood." She hopes to get rid of the "lady" business before long, and become again plain "Mrs. Astor" or "Nancy" as Plymouth still addresses her.

She disclaims any ambitions toward a political career and goes to parliament to carry on her husband's work while he is trying to get rid of his unwelcome "viscount" title, so he can run again.

"And I shall not oppose him," says "Nancy." Plymouth will now be represented in the house of lords by Lord Astor and in the house of commons by his wife.

The late Lord Astor is probably turning in his grave. His sacrificed friends, threw over his American citizenship and endured the scorn of the nation of his birth to get a British title.

His son, who stepped into the title automatically, doesn't want it and is moving heaven and earth to get rid of it—aided by "Nancy."

"I find," says the new Lord Astor, "that it will require a special act of parliament." It is expected that this legislation will be introduced by his wife.

Although Lady Astor goes to parliament in the hope that her husband may soon replace her, she does not intend to simply "sit there."

She is a foe of slums, sweatshops and Bolshevism and, she says: "I will be fighting every minute for what I think is right, though I don't propose to be talking all the time." Her social work in Plymouth, where she is often termed "Lady Bountiful" and her happy personality made her popularity. The old custom in the commons is for members to wear their hats, but to remove them when rising to address the house.

A woman can't be expected to be forever removing and readjusting her hat, so the house will probably pass a resolution cancelling the hat formalities in the case of women members.

Whether she will be called "the noble lady" or "the honorable member" remains to be settled.

"I don't care," says Lady Astor. A room has already been selected for the first woman member and it will be refurbished and refitted after centuries as the exclusive domain of man.

The coldest period of the day is usually a few minutes after sunrise. This is owing to the fact that when the sun first strikes the earth it causes the evaporation of a chilling moisture.

HIGHLAND CHURCH ELECTS OFFICERS

The Highland Congregational church people met last night for the annual election of officers and transacted business at the close of the fiscal year. The pastor, Rev. Arthur S. Beale, presided as moderator and the work as reported was considered very satisfactory from the standpoint of progress. James Bradley was elected a deacon for three years, to fill the place made vacant by the removal from the city of Frederick R. Cobb. Mrs. Fred Ingham and Mrs. Charles Morgan were elected deaconesses for four year terms. Alfred M. Caswell was re-elected collector and other officers chosen included: Frederick A. Spear, auditor; Miss L. A. Wallingford, clerk; Arthur E. Noyes, associate clerk; Frank B. Wiggin, associate treasurer; Rev. Mr.

Beale, chairman of the committee on religious education; prudential committee, Fred Ingham, James Allister, Harrison E. Byam, William Rawlinson and Arthur H. Armstrong. They will serve with the present members, Geo. S. Gilman, John A. McEvoy, John H. Preston, William H. Harvey. To the board on religious education, Rev. A. S. Beale, A. B. Woodworth, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Mrs. James Bradley and Mrs. A. M. Caswell were appointed. The new members of the hospitality committee are F. B. Wiggin, Donald W. MacLean, Miss Helen Buttrick, Mrs. James Cheney, Miss Lillian Allister, Miss Rachel Woodworth, Mrs. A. F. Grant, Miss Gladys Dodge, Miss George Clifford and Miss Ethel Lombard. Members for the press committee were elected as follows: Ralph Knowlton, Robert McMaster, John Lamberton, William Harvey and Royal C. Hope. To the ushering committee were appointed, C. A. Morgan, Ralph Knowlton, Mark Avery, Raymond Ingham and Arthur Kilpatrick. Those elected to the music committee were George S. Gilman, James Allister, Miss Clara Fenton, Miss Margaret Spear and Miss Cora Buckland. To be Andover delegates the following were elected for one year: A. B. Woodworth, Mrs. F. B. Wiggin, Mrs. Clara Evans, Mrs. Francis C. Knowlton and Mrs. Emma J. Chapman. Next year's nominating committee was elected as follows: Miss Ruth Bradley, Mrs. Clara Buttrick, Mrs. Amy Woodworth, A. F. Grant and A. B. Woodworth. Much interest is being shown in China in motorcycles, due to the fact that they can travel on the narrow paths used by foot passengers and for wheelbarrows, although there are but few roads suitable for automobiles.

PILGRIM FAIR AT THE GRACE CHURCH

The three-day Pilgrim Fair now in session at the Grace Universalist church, which is being held in commemoration of the landing of the Pilgrims 200 years ago, will come to a close this evening with a splendid supper and the presentation of a romantic comedy in four acts entitled "A Rose of Plymouth Town" by an all-star cast. This afternoon an entertainment for children was given in which the Misses Marguerite and Verna Barr played the stellar roles. Last evening's program consisted of several vaudeville acts in which both local and professional artists appeared. Among the local entertainers were Miss Dorothy S. Leeds, Miss Linda Weinbeck, Herbert S. Lewis, Miss Virginia Byam, Miss Margaret Martin and Mr. Ellis.

MUST SPEND 3 BILLIONS

New R.R. Equipment Needed
To Avert Still Higher
Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—New railroad equipment costing approximately $3,000,000,000 must be bought within the next few years if the American people are to avert a still higher cost of living, said Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, before the reconstruction conference of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents here today.

Mr. Elliott, who spoke on the subject, "The Efficient Transportation Machine, a National Necessity," said that there could be no higher function for the great life insurance companies at the present time than to make it plain to all the people that "our railroads must not be crippled but on the contrary they must keep abreast of the times and be prepared to serve the great and growing future of the country."

The speaker said that without an increase in freight and passenger rates, a very large number of railroad companies would face bankruptcy and that very few of those who escaped would be able to pay stockholders. The year would end, there was every indication, he said, with a deficit of perhaps $350,000,000 for all railroad operations. The country cannot have an efficient transportation machine nor can investments in railroad securities be protected, he said, unless the roads are given higher compensation to maintain them efficiently.

The speaker said that the Association of Railway Executives in a recent questionnaire to some 6000 editors, asked them to express their opinion on government ownership and control, and that 53 per cent replied that their communities were in favor of the return of the roads to their owners. He said that everyone of the 53,223,731 life insurance policy holders in the United States were vitally interested in the solution of the transportation problem because among the assets securing their policies were nearly $2,000,000,000 of railway securities. These policy holders, with the rest of the 105,000,000 people in the country, he said, desired to see a continuous development of the railroads for the purpose of increasing the food and fuel supply and the production of articles necessary for clothing, shelter and our modern American life.

Declaring that even today, in the months of heaviest business, that the nation's transportation machine was operated virtually at capacity and that there was "a small margin of safety," Mr. Elliott said that the American standard of living must decline if the general development of the railroads were checked. "The people cannot survive without the railroads and our railroads cannot survive without our people," he concluded. "They go hand in hand for good or ill."

F.D. GARDNER

CALLS GOVERNORS

CHICAGO—Gov. Frederick D. Gardner, of Missouri, has called the governors of the bituminous coal mining states into conference to determine what action should be taken to insure sufficient production of coal. The conference recommended to the federal government a fuel board with an administrator for each state.

After working on a farm for 16 years without an accounting, a farmhand of Jefferson City, Or., suddenly sued his employer, claiming that his labor has been worth a dollar a day—"found." He admitted that he had received a little money, once in a while, "just to keep him going," but the boss, who is wealthy, never bothered about a definite settlement. A jury of Lane county farmers has awarded the farmhand $1200 and the attorney's fees for his 16 years' work.

Over $500,000 has thus far been saved for Uncle Sam in building the great dreadnaught California at the Mare Island Navy yard, instead of by private contract. The huge hull has just been launched. Equal in length to the New Mexico, and one foot wider, she is America's largest warship. QUESTION RAISED BY VOTE FOR LICENSE

SALISBURY, Dec. 5.—In this city there has been raised a question which will undoubtedly attract wide attention throughout the state, especially in those cities which, at their municipal elections, voted license.

According to the legal department of this city, Salem, by voting for license Tuesday, resurrected for duty the license commission of the city, which commission under the law, must organize March 1 and are entitled in this city if they saw fit, to put in their claim, to $300 compensation each, with $100 additional to the chairman, even though, due to national prohibition, they cannot grant licenses.

The granting of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors is covered by chapter 100 of the revised laws. Section seven of the law tells the story in brief, when, after stating that if a city does not vote license, the powers and duties of the license commission are then invested in the mayor and aldermen, the following is found:

"If said city shall, at a subsequent annual city election, again vote to authorize the granting of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor, the obligations imposed by the provisions of the preceding section (relating to salaries, etc.) shall be revived and shall attach to said city from and after the first day of March next, following such vote and from and after said date the power and duties of the mayor and aldermen relative to licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor and licenses of inn-holders and common victuallers shall revert to the licensing board appointed in said city."

The voters of Salem Tuesday went on record in favor of a license regime for the first time in 10 years. However, with the national prohibition amendment working there can be no sale of intoxicating liquors and no licenses can be granted. What a license commission will have to do under the circumstances is a matter of conjecture. Intoxicating liquors cannot be sold, therefore, it is useless to grant any licenses.

Yet the law says that following a vote for license the license commissioners shall organize. But if the prohibition law prohibits the granting of licenses, for what could they legally collect their $300 fees to which, having organized for business, it is claimed, they would have a strictly legal claim as having complied with the law and being "ready for business."

of three. So our party—which included C. Raven, Smithsonian naturalist, and Dr. H. L. Shanks, government agricultural explorer, and myself—two had to walk. The lot fell to Dr. Shanks and I.

We walked 10 miles, to the elephant shambles and back—half the distance before breakfast.

Down in the "kloof," or valley, we were in the worst danger. For there, like the water holes that attract the elephants, up the other side we went, all absolutely lost in the thorn jungle, excepting Mayor Pretorius—who seems to possess an almost supernatural sense of direction, an ability to find his way in the thickest and darkest bush.

Kafir boys armed with axes and bush knives went ahead of us, bowing a path. Our faces and hands were scratched, our clothes torn and our shoes looked as if they had gone through a buzz-saw by the time we reached the first elephant.

The giant lay on his side, a bullet hole under his right eye. The major had shot him at six paces. In his death agony the mammoth had thrashed the bushes down so that there was a clearing.

A crew of boys left behind had started skinning, and the place looked like a shambles. Elsewhere through the bush, between this spot and the place a quarter of a mile distant where another elephant had been killed, and for a greater distance, we laboriously followed the "spoor" (trail) of the one that had been wounded and escaped. Great, thick patches of blood could be seen. Trees and bushes had been uprooted, as if a steam shovel had ploughed through.

followed up the hunt the day after Major Pretorius had bagged three of the mammoths.

One huge bull elephant had escaped the day of the hunt. The major had wounded him in two places, probably fatally. The bleeding beast was roaming the bush, uttering terrifying screams and trumpeting forth a fear-some cry for revenge.

He had to be faced, though. When you shoot an elephant you can't bundle him into your game bag and go home. You have to leave him, miles from camp, and go out the next day. Skull, skeleton and hide have to be retrieved for scientific purposes. Tusks must be obtained for museums or commercial dealers. And the meat has to be preserved for food.

Horses were at a premium in Major Pretorius' camp the day after we had grandstand seats at the slaughter

Order To Discontinue Strike Obeyed

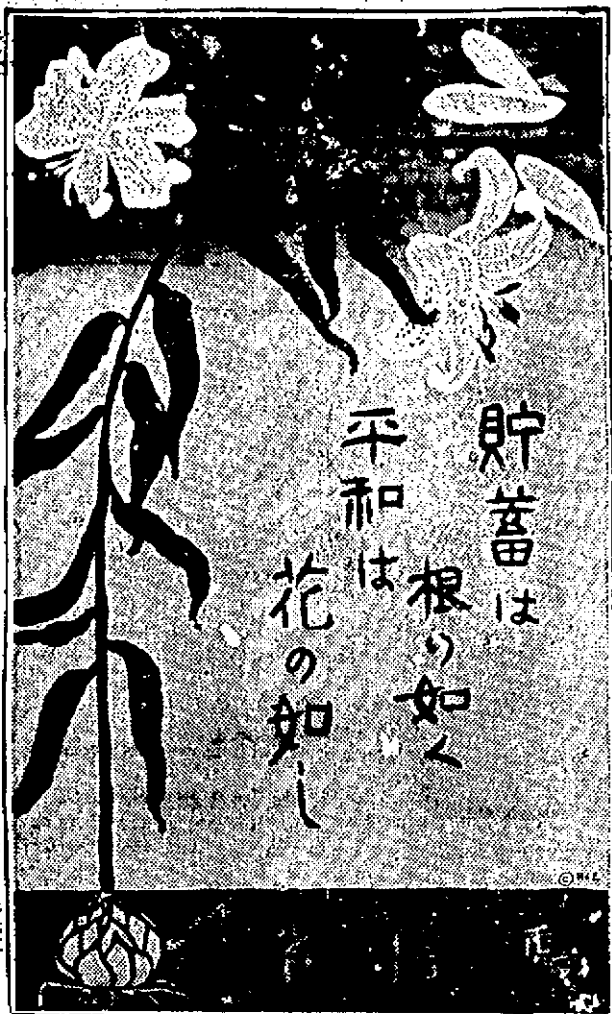

ROME, Dec. 5.—The order for the discontinuation of the general strike called after the recent disturbances following the opening of parliament, has been generally obeyed. The strikers, as a unit, resumed work here and in the other affected towns.

PRES. WOOD PLANS TO BUILD NEW TOWN

ANDOVER, Dec. 5.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, announced yesterday some of his plans regarding the development of Frye Village, hereafter to be known as Shawshen Village. This sparsely settled section of Andover, which has had only a few hundred residents for many years, will have, it is estimated, a population of 5000 inside of two years and the real estate valuation will be increased by nearly $3,000,000, it is expected.

Pres. Wood, who last year created Aberfoyle, a handsome estate consisting of a modern residence and garage surrounded by trees more than 30 years of age, clusters of birches, handsome shrubbery and an artificial lake where only a year ago was a hayfield, has enlarged his plans for the development of his property. What Pres. Wood has started will be continued by the American Woolen company.

Practically every old house in Frye Village Center has been removed to another location and remodeled, it being Mr. Wood's idea to provide as many comfortable homes as possible in the section which he is developing. In place of the older structures modern single and double houses have been built, many of them of brick, valued from $12,000 to $15,000.

A new postoffice building to contain a large general store and several offices. A community ice house and a community laundry are projected. The wooden bridge over the Shawshen river is to be replaced with a wide, modern concrete structure, handsomely decorated. A new Boston & Maine railroad station is to be built at a point convenient for residents of the village. A brush and broom factory to replace the old mill at the village is being built and eventually a five-story yarn mill will probably be erected.

New streets are being laid out, sewer and water pipes laid, concrete walks constructed, and all electric and telephone wires are being put underground.

To provide homes with a view to relieving the acute housing problem, prompted Pres. Wood to start the houses and after beginning on a small scale he gradually elaborated the scheme until practically a new town is in prospect. It is understood that eventually many American Woolen company officials now at the Boston offices will have quarters in an office building at Shawshen village.

Pres. Wood is selling the houses he is building practically at cost and makes arrangements whereby employees of his mills can pay for their homes by the month, the rent including a payment on the principal so that in a few years the parties will own their homes clear of indebtedness. One feature of the development of Shawshen Village will be a handsome drinking fountain for animals in the village square a gift to the town from Mr. and Mrs. Wood, in memory of their daughter Irene, who died about a year ago. Speaking of the fountain, which is to be beneath some huge elm trees and which is to be unveiled in the spring, President Wood said: "Irene was fond of animals and I think she would have liked to have placed a fountain right in that spot for them if she had been spared us. My wife and I feel that it is something she would like."

Has He Found a Cure for Asthma?

Simple Prescription Gives Instant Relief—Makes Breathing Easy

In New England, where Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis and other diseases of the throat and lungs are so prevalent, remarkably successful results are being reported following the use of a new form of treatment known as Oxidaze, a physician's prescription.

Oxidaze is a harmless but powerful combination of curative essential oils concentrated and compressed into a small tablet. One of these tablets slowly dissolved before going to bed seems to have the effect of releasing the muscular constriction of the bronchial tubes, opening up the air passages and regulating spasmodic lung action. This enables the patient to breathe easily and naturally while lying down and to get a comfortable night's sleep.

So much interest has been shown that local druggists, including Lowell Pharmacy have secured a small supply and state that they are authorized to refund the money paid for the first package if in any case this new treatment fails to give relief. Oxidaze is pleasant to take, contains no harmful, habit forming drugs and is not expensive. It makes their test an easy matter.—Adv.

POLO NOTES

Salem now right up there at the top will play Lowell at the Crescent rink tonight and a great game is expected.

Salem and Lowell are looked upon as two of the speediest teams in the league and all contests between these two clubs have been closely contested and a straight fight up to the final sound of the big horn.

Capt. Hardy, who is now playing at top form, has his club battling all the way and the fans down in "witchville" are confident that he will direct the team to the pennant.

WILL RIDE TO HOUNDS ON 13th

On Saturday, Dec. 13, the good people of Billerica will be aroused by the baying of hounds the call of horns and the rumble of pounding hoofs, but be not alarmed, for it is simply will members of the Middlesex Sportsmen's association riding to hounds on the trail of the fox. For that is the day on which the association has voted to hold its first annual fox hunt and the rolling land of Billerica has been selected as the hunting ground. The association now has more than 1000 members enrolled, but good neighbors of Billerica, they do not all ride to hounds on the same day.

NATIONAL CLUB WINS

The National club football team composed of boys from Lincoln street and vicinity defeated the Eagles of the Highlands on the Highland club grounds by the score of 55 to 14. The winners put it all over their opponents, showing wonderful form in all the fine points of the game. They battered down the opposition line and reached down the field with little effort. They also displayed much class at executing the forward pass, and other overhead plays. Paul Sullivan proved a tower of strength for the field running, bucking and open the Eagles. John Sullivan and Daley also showed much ability in playing their positions. The other members of the National club contributed their share to the great victory.

EAST AND WEST CLASH IN

HAVERHILL STADIUM

Arrangements are all made, contracts are signed and everything is in readiness for what promises to be one of the biggest intersectional football games ever played between two high school elevens in New England when Englewood high of Chicago meets Haverhill high at the big stadium in Haverhill next Saturday. That the contest will be a hard fought one is assured, particularly when the record of both teams is considered.

Englewood high invades the east with the enviable record of not having been defeated in the past five years. There are those, however, who believe they will have to look to their laurels as they are to compete with a team fully capable of giving them battle and it will be no great surprise if Haverhill pins another scalp to its long list of victories.

Haverhill high has played 12 games this year and have scored 166 points against their opponents' 45. They defeated Dean Academy 2nd, Lynn Classical, Peabody, Brookline, Lawrence, Lowell, St. John's, Fitchburg and Adams. They played a tie game at the opening of the season with Dorchester and were defeated by Manchester and by New Hampshire state freshman teams.

Haverhill has been coming stronger every minute for the past six weeks and their final clash when they defeated Adams high, champions of the championship of western Massachusetts by a score of 34 to 0, evidences of the fact.

Parish of Haverhill High is one of the greatest open field runners and doers who has been brought out by any high school team this year. He considered the Eddie Casey of school elevens.

Legasse is one of the most consistent line plungers and ground gamblers ever seen on a high school campus and Carbone, captain of the team, is one of the best offensive and defensive full backs Haverhill has ever developed.

Englewood is in perfect condition, according to a telegram dated Dec. 2, which also states that they are practicing for their game in Haverhill next Saturday. Haverhill also is in perfect condition and when the clash comes the supremacy of eastern and middle western football will be determined.

The game will be called at 2 o'clock sharp.

CARPENTIER WON IN FIRST ROUND

French Champion Knocks Out Britisher in 1 Minute and 14 Seconds

Wins Right To Meet Dempsey—Prince of Wales Among Notables Present

THOMAS B. LOVE
VINDICATED

HOLBORN STADIUM, RINGSIDER, London, Dec. 5. (By A. P.)—Georges Carpentier, the French champion, knocked out Joe Beckett, champion of England, last night in a brief and decidedly one-sided fight for the heavy-weight championship of Europe.

Seventy-four seconds, as announced by the official timer, sufficed to decide whether Carpentier or Beckett should meet Jack Dempsey, the American heavyweight, for the championship of the world in June.

From the moment the referee, B. J. Angio, called time, Carpentier had the battle entirely in his own hands. Beckett never had a chance of hitting the Englishman, who landed blows with enormous strength whenever he felt inclined.

Terrific Swing Ends Battle
Amid absolute stillness most of the spectators could hear the terrific crack of the swing that put Beckett to sleep. There was a roar of cheering as Carpentier assisted Beckett to his corner, where the Englishman opened his astonished eyes and saw the opponent being carried on the shoulders of some of the enthusiasts around the ring—and the Frenchman was smiling happily.

The contestants presented a notable difference in appearance when they stepped and were introduced. Beckett, swarthy and muscular, Carpentier, white-skinned, with slight figure, Carpentier looked about him as though accustomed to his surroundings; Beckett seemed somewhat nervous.

Winner Receives Ovation
Beckett with a sort of bulldog determination forced Carpentier almost to the ropes. But this was a diversion for a moment only, for the Frenchman stepped back and then forward and with all his strength and the full weight of his body, swung his right hand at the Englishman's jaw and Beckett went down and out.

Carpentier helped to carry Beckett to the Englishman's corner. Beckett's eyes opened as this was done and his second said to him: "Joe, you're out."

Beckett was unable to understand it all for a moment, but he seemed to comprehend when the crowd began to invade the ring.

Carpentier was hoisted to the shoulders of the first of the crowd that reached him. Everybody in the stadium was cheering, including the Prince of Wales, while tens of thousands of persons who had gathered outside in the street were shouting their tribute to the victor.

After the fight Beckett said to the newspaper men: "I hadn't started to fight when I got it. I didn't realize what had happened. I was just in the first round when he slipped in."

Carpentier's Career
Georges Carpentier was born at Lens, France, Jan. 12, 1894. He began boxing when only 12 years old. This was in 1901, when boxing was beginning to be popular in France. He was both skilful and aggressive, and in 1906 scored many victories, defeating among others, Charles Ledoux, the French bantamweight champion.

Carpentier took on weight quickly, and two years later he was meeting and defeating men in the welterweight division. The Frenchman scored his first sensational victory in 1909, knocking out Jim Sullivan, the English middleweight, in two rounds at Monte Carlo in 1912.

At Ghent the following year, Carpentier, after being knocked down twice by Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight, knocked out the British representative in the fourth round. The fact that a French lad, 19 years old, and only a middleweight, had knocked out the cleverest English heavyweight seemed to some of the latter's backers a fluke.

Carpentier dispelled this doubt, however, when he went to London and knocked out Wells a second time, ending the bout in the opening round. Forty days afterward Carpentier fought Pat O'Keefe, the English middleweight champion, and scored a knockout in the second round.

Joe Jeannette, the American negro heavyweight, defeated Carpentier early in 1914, but after that and prior to the declaration of war between France and Germany the French champion won decisions from Kid Jackson and Gunboat Smith, in each case winning on a foul.

A few hours after the Smith fight, Carpentier, who was in England, returned to France on the night boat in answer to his country's call to arms and the following day was in uniform. During his early ring career Carpentier grew rapidly from a bantamweight to a light heavyweight and beat the European champions in each class as he progressed. His popularity among the French people was unbounded and he amassed a fortune variously estimated at from $200,000 to $500,000. Most of this money he invested in coal mines near Lens, where he was born, and lost everything there by the German invasion.

During the war Carpentier was conspicuously daring as an aviator. He was frequently commended by his superior officers and among the many decorations conferred on him was the military medal, the highest war honor that can be given to a French soldier.

Dempsey Ready
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, said last night that Georges Carpentier's victory over Joe Beckett in London was no surprise to him, as he and his manager, Jack Kearns, had picked the French champion to win.

Dempsey said Carpentier was more scientific and harder hitting than Beckett.

"I am ready to fight Carpentier or any other fighter in the world, if I get my chance," said Dempsey.

Carpentier, in all probability, will be his next opponent and the meeting probably will come off next spring.

A Simple Way to Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

ACCUSE BECKETT OF "SHEER STUPIDITY"

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Experts, in commenting on last night's fight, in which Georges Carpentier of France knocked out Joe Beckett of England, in the first round, concur in saying that victory went to the best man and that Carpentier won by his speed and cleverness.

Beckett's manager says Carpentier "brought off a million to one chance," but this is not the view of the Londoners. The Daily Mail's critic accuses Beckett of "sheer stupidity."

"Beckett had by a long way the best sport wiles," the Daily Mail's expert writes. "He was superior in height, weight and reach. He is a great fellow physically, but the less said about his 'game' the better. Perhaps he was over confident, but anyway, he gave his opponent a chance which no novice would have offered. The blow with which Carpentier won was too simple for words. It could have been easily avoided, and the counter to it would have been an extremely dangerous blow. Yet Beckett walked right into the danger zone. What he did was simple and stupid, and there is no excuse for him."

After Carpentier had been carried around the ring, the Prince of Wales cordially shook his hand and congratulated him. The prince also shook Beckett's hand, saying: "Better luck next time."

NO PROSPECT OF CUT IN COST OF LIVING

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Reduction of the high cost of living seems only a "remote possibility" to William A. Day, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York. Mr. Day describes the present situation as betraying "a passion for expenditure in the pursuit of pleasure and costly non-essentials which has no parallel in history."

These assertions were made by Mr. Day in the course of an address he delivered here today before the reconstruction conference of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

"The war," said Mr. Day, "thrust upon us an unnatural and unbalanced prosperity and has left us a legacy of inflation, speculation and excessive improvidence. A large volume of easy money has found its way into the pockets of many people to whom a substantial cash surplus was a new and tempting possession." This, he added, had been followed by a great passion for expenditure and pursuit of pleasure by those of improvident and self-indulgent tendencies.

"With so many people in this spendthrift mood, so many outbidding each other for some of the necessities and most of the luxuries of life, any material reduction in the high cost of living seems a remote possibility. Every individual and every organization of individuals," concluded Mr. Day, "must assist in bringing our people back to the practice of rational economy."

Despite what Mr. Day characterized as "the present unparalleled passion for needless spending," he said there had been an unprecedented increase in the amount of life insurance written in the United States in the present year. Statistics gathered for the Association of Life Insurance Presidents placed the total volume of new insurance for the year at $7,712,000,000, compared with $4,600,000,000 for the heaviest previous year, 1918. This amount, Mr. Day said, would exceed all the insurance outstanding in all the companies 20 years ago.

In explaining why this great increase occurred, Mr. Day said the heavy death toll from the war and the influenza epidemic had brought almost every household in the United States face to face with the uncertainties of life and had given a great stimulus to life insurance.

EXCITEMENT IN ITALIAN CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

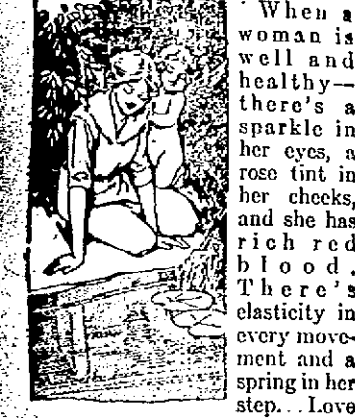

ROME, Dec. 4.—The chamber of deputies opened yesterday amid great excitement, socialist deputies being present in larger numbers than on Tuesday and the Catholic party members all appearing in their seats.

Socialist Deputy Treves resumed his protests against what he termed the indignities suffered by his companions and declared he represented the wishes of all parties who understood the grave hour through which the country was passing.

Catholic Deputy Mauri, in reply, admitted the situation was serious and deplored reported violence, urging that a union of all parties was necessary to bring about a spirit of pacification.

All of the Catholics applauded, but the socialists denounced Mauri, crying: "Long live the pope-king," alluding ironically to the loyalty of the Catholics to the pope up to a few

NATURE'S MIRROR

When a woman is well and healthy—there's a sparkle in her eyes, a rose tint in her cheeks, and she has rich red blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in her step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health—but when she is pallid, dull eyed, languid, she has no magnetism nor does she appeal to any man.

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

Premier Nitti, in a short statement, agreed with Social Deputy Treves that the hour was grave for Italy and declared it was for that reason he sought the union of all Italian forces.

Former Premier Vittorio Orlando then assumed the presidency of the chamber, to which position he was recently elected.

The newly elected president attempted to conciliate the opposing parties and said he trusted he would be assisted by all the socialists. The latter interrupted shouting: "Not by us."

This retort aroused the resentment of the remaining members of the chamber and in reply to their expressions of disapproval, Socialist Deputy Barberis shouted: "If you don't like us get out. We will go on alone."

LOWER CAR FARES IN THREE TOWNS

As the result of action on the part of Mayor Perry D. Thompson the public trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. have agreed to put into effect at once a reduced car fare rate in the towns of North Billerica, Tewksbury and Collinsville. From now on, or as soon as Manager Thomas Lees of the local division is able to put the new schedule into ef-

No More Catarrh

This Simple Home Treatment Has Stood the Test of Time

Every fall and winter, for more than twenty years, thousands of people have made it a daily practice to breathe the air of Hyomel and so keep themselves free from Catarrh, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat and Influenza.

This is certain and you should try it. If you will breathe Hyomel daily, as directed, it will free you and keep you free from all these troubles or it won't cost you a cent.

Any reliable druggist can supply you with the Complete Hyomel Outfit, including a hard rubber pocket inhaler. The inhaler will last a life time and extra bottles of the liquid Hyomel cost but a few cents. A few drops of oil in the inhaler will last for days and its pure, soothing, antiseptic, healing air, breathed deep in the air should keep you free from coughs, colds, influenza and catarrh all winter long. Pleasant to use, takes but a few minutes daily and is guaranteed to satisfy or money back.—Adv.

fect, the car fare between those towns and Lowell will be 12½ cents instead of 15 as is now the case. The $1.00 ticket, good for 16 rides, which is in use on the local lines, will hereafter be good in the suburbs mentioned.

However, the trustees cannot see their way clear to comply with Mayor Thompson's request that the reduced rate also be put into effect in Chelmsford because of the loss sustained by the railway company alleged to be due to "unfair jitney competition between North Chelmsford and Lowell."

In his letter of last Monday the mayor also asked that the last cars on local lines leave Merrimack square at 11 o'clock on Sunday nights instead of 10.30 as is now the rule, but the trustees reply that this cannot be put into effect at once due to the coal shortage occasioned by strikes.

The trustees' letter as received by the mayor late yesterday afternoon was as follows:

Dec. 3, 1919.
Hon. Perry D. Thompson, Mayor, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir:
The public trustees have considered your request for reduced car fare for North Billerica, Tewksbury, Collinsville and Chelmsford, and directions will immediately be given to Manager Lees to put into effect experimentally a 12½ cent rate between Lowell and

High street, North Billerica; Lowell and Tewksbury Centre postoffice; and Lowell and Collinsville.

This reduced rate will be effective only by the use of the 16 for $1 punch ticket now in use in the Lowell central zone without transfer privilege.

On these three lines the conductor will punch the ticket twice for through passage.

We regret very much to inform you that it will be impossible to extend this reduced rate ticket to the Chelmsford lines on account of the loss sustained by the unfair, jitney competition between North Chelmsford and Lowell.

You may have noticed that at a recent town meeting the people of Chelmsford decided not to accept the jitney act or to do anything to restrict

In regard to the later service in Lowell on Sunday night, we are obliged to inform you that on account of the acuteness of the coal shortage situation it would be impossible to take any steps in that direction just now as we feel sure it would not meet with the approval of the public officials in charge of the distribution of fuel.

We earnestly hope that the reduced rates for Billerica, Tewksbury and Collinsville will work out as successfully as you assured us the reduced rate local ticket would when we had our conferences on your initiative in Boston recently. Very truly yours,

HOMER LORING,
Chairman of Public Trustees.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED AT FINAL CONTEST

A record crowd is expected at Assembly hall on next Tuesday evening when the grand final event in the big Merrimack Valley dancing championship contest for $200 in prizes will be held. The contest has attracted interest throughout the section and it is expected that many out of town people will come here to see the champion of the valley.

Rarely has such rivalry existed between the representatives of the various sections of the city. Dancers from all districts will be among the competitors on Tuesday night and their friends plan to turn out in large numbers to cheer them on to victory.

The couple winning first place in addition to being proclaimed the title holder will also receive $100 in gold. The couple that finishes second will get $50 and the third $25. The other part of the purse has been distributed during the elimination contests—Minor-Doyle's famous orchestra will furnish music and Barney Horan will supply cabaret features.

URGE PASSAGE OF WATER POWER BILL

Mayor Perry D. Thompson received a telegram today from Cornelius F. Burns, chairman of the legislative committee of the New York state mayors' conference, now being held in Troy, N. Y., urging his honor to take up with the senators from this state the desirability of passing in congress the federated water power bill, so-called, as one means of conserving the country's coal supply.

The telegram says that a number of governors and mayors have already taken action in urging the passage of this bill and that by the concerted efforts of states and municipalities it can be put through. The telegram in detail follows:

"The serious coal situation confronting the nation today has brought to our attention most forcibly the need of conserving our fuel supply. This can best be accomplished by utilizing other and more economical sources of power. The foremost of these is water. It is nothing short of criminal to have the surplus waters of the country running to waste when their utilization would mean a tremendous supply of electrical energy, the absence of which at this time is placing in jeopardy our industrial life.

"It is urgent, therefore, that the federated water power bill become a law without further delay. Concerted action by the municipalities and states can bring this about and, if I may, I would respectfully request that you urge upon your representatives in the senate the necessity of favorable action upon this most important measure. Many governors have already complied.

"CORNELIUS F. BURNS,
Chairman, Legislative Committee, N. Y. State Mayors' Conference."

SEALED VERDICT

RETURNED BY JURY

A sealed verdict in the sum of $521.25 was returned this morning by the jury in the case of Smith vs. Bernstein, which was tried yesterday at the civil session of the superior court. In the case of Bernstein vs. Smith, which was tried jointly with the other case, a verdict was returned for the defendant.

The next case to go on trial was an action of tort in the sum of $3500 brought by Mary A. Sawyer against Lucy A. Bennett. In this case the plaintiff claims that through a libelous letter sent by the defendant, she was greatly injured in her feelings and reputation and that she suffered great distress of body and mind.

organizations as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Community Service club and Girls' Friendly societies.

As has been before stated Lowell's quota has been proportioned as $9000. C. D. Redway of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, has been named treasurer of funds secured. Three-quarters of the local solicitation will be applied to work in Lowell, while the remaining one-fourth will go to the state and national work.

Campaign headquarters have been established in Room 14, 196 Merrimack street where some person always will be ready to give further information. Rev. Arthur W. Lyons has charge of the Lowell drive as district manager for the section of the state which extends from Somerville, through Lowell and surrounding towns and as far as Lynn.

At present there is one anti-tuberculosis nurse in Lowell, Miss Anna Reisch, who has headquarters at the Lowell Guild, 17 Dutton street. It is proposed, however, to enlarge the work by securing a second nurse to operate with Miss Reisch. Such a nurse would go from house to house, seeking out cases which demand attention and turning the patients over to nurses of the Lowell Guild. She does no actual bedside nursing. She will necessarily be an expert diagnostician and will follow up cases of dangerous health conditions by making arrangements for the transfer into the country of the person or persons whose health is endangered by such conditions.

This is distinctly not a Red Cross campaign and this national organization receives no benefit or return from the sale of the anti-tuberculosis seals. The Red Cross, as in other years, simply furnishes the seals for the National Anti-Tuberculosis League to sell through its state, city and town agencies.

UNUSUAL CASE AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

A case embracing four actions of tort which are returnable in the superior court on the first Monday in January next, will be the first of its kind to go to trial in this city, according to several local lawyers. The plaintiffs are Josephine and Edmund Gondek, who are suing for $5000 each and John and Mary P. A., who are suing for $2000 and $1000 respectively.

The cases are the result of an automobile accident, which occurred at ledge hill in Braintree on the evening of June 22, 1918, when an automobile owned by the Cudahy Packing company of Nashua, N. H., and operated by Hector Larivee, crashed into a wagon owned by the Gondek family and in which rode the four above mentioned members of the family. The horse was killed, the wagon was demolished and the occupants of the vehicle were injured, while the operator of the automobile, Larivee, was killed.

Suits were brought against the Cudahy Packing company by the Gondek family and the cases were tried at the local session of the superior court in November, 1918, verdicts amounting to $1600 being rendered for the plaintiffs. On the ground that at the time of the accident Larivee was intoxicated and was not in the performance of his regular duties, the defendant company appealed the cases to the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts with the result that the verdicts were set aside.

Qua, Howard & Rogers appeared for the Gondek family and through them the family is now bringing suit against several former Lowell liquor dealers who, it is claimed, sold the liquor, which caused Larivee's intoxication, the suit being brought in accordance with chapter 100, section 55 of the revised laws, which provides:

"That any person who is injured in person or property by an intoxicated person or in consequence of the intoxication of any person shall have a right of action in his or her own name jointly or severally against any person or persons who by selling or giving intoxicating liquor have caused in whole or in part such intoxication."

It is claimed that on the night of the accident there were three other persons riding in the automobile with Larivee and that they testified at the inquest held over the death of Larivee that the latter secured liquor in

It is printed alongside of the address made in Glasgow last evening by Andrew Bonar Law, in which he said he believed the allies had the power, and if necessary, will exercise it, to insure ratification of the Versailles treaty by Germany. This suggested that steps to exert pressure on Germany might be imminent.

"There has been enough solemn finger wagging at the Germans who have come to believe it safe to defy the allies," says the Daily Mail, in commenting on the situation. "A wise and merciful course would be to tell them plainly that if within a fixed time they do not comply with the allied conditions and fulfill the treaty terms, the blockade will be renewed."

12,000 U. S. Troops on Rhine

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The supreme council of the peace conference this morning considered further the note to be sent to Germany regarding the signature to the protocol of the peace treaty, but did not complete the document.

The secret meeting held by the supreme council yesterday with Marshal Foch and General Weigand, the marshal's assistant, in attendance, has provoked a great amount of speculation as to eventual military action across the Rhine in case Germany does not reply satisfactorily to the final note regarding the protocol.

The American troops on the Rhine now number about 12,000 men. No question has as yet arisen whether they would participate in any action undertaken by the French and British.

Field Marshal Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, chief of the British imperial staff, arrived in Paris today.

though absolutely safe, for the entire depth of water is frozen.

A number of new ideas may become realities this winter in connection with municipal skating. Of course, Shedd park will be the mecca as before and everything will be done there for the comfort of the skaters. A number of benches have been placed around the skating area and a big pile of dead wood has been collected for bonfire purposes. There will be no hut this year, for the department has found that such is not advisable unless a keeper is stationed there continuously and this is not possible.

If the Merrimack freezes sufficiently for skating, the park department may open the municipal bath house on the boulevard side of the river for the accommodation of skaters and this indeed would be a good move. The South common pond presents a different problem. There is ice there now, but it has been cut up and is not smooth. Last year, Supt. Kernan drew off that water and left the cement bottom bare for polo and the boys took to it so well that the same treatment may be applied this winter.

The ponds in the surrounding towns have shown a tendency to freeze, but in most instances at present there is just a skim of ice. A week more of clear, cold weather, however, will put them in excellent condition.

The park department issues a warning against premature skating on surfaces which are not safe beyond the semblance of a doubt. Shedd park always is safe, but the river never ceases to be treacherous and deplorable accidents may easily be averted if patience is applied and sufficient time given for a good freeze.

It is possible that the park department will attempt one or two ice carnivals this winter, after New Year's and if so, professional speed and fancy skaters will be invited to participate. One such carnival was held at Shedd park last year and was entirely successful when the brief time for preparation is considered.

For Mayor

JOHN J. GILBRIDE

Tax Rates Don't Count—in the Mayor's Office

The atmosphere at City Hall must be peculiar. Two years ago, when he was running for the honorable office of Mayor, Perry D. Thompson made many representations in connection with the tax rate of Lowell. It was to come down and all that sort of thing.

In his extravagant advertising campaign, he now assumes the jocular mood when he alludes to Lowell's tax rate of $26.00 on the thousand. He would laugh it out of court, so to speak. He says the tax rate is a stock argument, and he asks the voters of Lowell to pay no attention to it.

Lowell tax payers very well know (for they have recently had very good reason to know) that sound or unsound business administration invariably reflects itself in the City's tax rate. It is the one great test of the business efficiency or reckless financing. When Mayor Thompson came into office the tax rate was $23.40. Last year it jumped to $23.80. This year it is $26.00. It seems quite amusing to Mayor Thompson.

BUT IN ADDITION TO THIS UNPRECEDENTED TAX RATE IN OUR MUNICIPAL HISTORY, LOWELL PROPERTY OWNERS HAVE, WITHIN RECENT TIME, RECEIVED TAX BILLS INDICATING A VERY MATERIAL INCREASE IN THE VALUE OF THEIR HOLDINGS. IN OTHER WORDS, THE HIGH TAX RATE OF $26.00 IS IN REALITY MUCH HIGHER.

"The stock argument," as Mayor Thompson terms it, may be highly amusing in some quarters, but to recently stung tax payers, it is very different, and it is attributed principally to gross extravagance, flagrant mismanagement and a general misconception of the things that the Lowell electorate should have at City Hall.

MR. THOMPSON, DON'T JOKE ABOUT THE TAX RATE. IT IS A VERY SERIOUS MATTER TO MANY LOWELL PEOPLE.

PAWTUCKETVILLE

The people of Pawtucketville at their banquet on Wednesday evening gave a splendid demonstration of their devotion to the returned soldiers and of appreciation of the services rendered, especially by those who made the supreme sacrifice.

One very gratifying aspect of the movement is the measure of good will it has established among all classes in the district. In this respect, the people are following the example of Rev. Fr. Hally of St. Columba's church and Rev. A. G. Lyon of the Pawtucketville Congregational church, who have become fast friends and are in frequent conference upon the work of this movement and other matters of interest to the district.

The committee has set out to raise $5,000 for a monument to be erected on the parkway near the northerly approach to the new bridge, and judging from the unanimity and enthusiasm with which the project is taken up by all the people, it is quite likely that this amount will be exceeded and that the monument will be even better than that which the committee has in contemplation at the present time.

This movement for a monument in honor of the war heroes of Pawtucketville is combined with one for the beautification of the approaches to the new bridge on the north end, in order to make attractive location for the proposed monument. There is little doubt that the city government will comply with the popular demand for improvements in that locality. These necessary changes will benefit the city as a whole, while they should be made as soon as possible in deference to the people of Pawtucketville who will furnish the monument, the main attraction.

SCHOOL DEPT. SALARIES

There is much criticism heard in reference to the action of the school board in fixing the salaries of members of the administration office of the department, as compared with the salaries fixed for special teachers.

For example, Mr. Thornton receives $2400 per year as attendance officer, while Henry L. Williams, in charge of the supply department, receives $2500. Looking down the list we find that Fred O. Blunt, special teacher in music, is to receive $2000 a year; Miss Hagan $1550; Miss Edwards, special teacher in drawing, also $1550, while Miss Lee, supervisor of primary schools, receives $1800.

The average reader on looking over these figures will naturally reflect that it is rather unfortunate that Mr. Blunt wasted time and money on a musical education when he might have secured a position in the supply department, or as attendance officer at a more lucrative salary. This is another instance in which the school board does not show a proper sense of appreciation of special training in technical branches. Mr. Thornton may be a very efficient attendance officer, and no doubt he is; and Mr. Williams has had considerable experience at the head of the supply department, but it would be an easy matter to find men to fill either of these offices very acceptably, whereas it would be a difficult task to find a special teacher in music, so well qualified for the work as is Mr. Blunt.

In regard to some of the other salaries paid to the teachers mentioned, it may be remarked that if the same positions were filled by men, the salaries would undoubtedly be pushed up to a higher plane.

It seems that whenever it is noised around that the school board has any intention of increasing salaries, there will be a few on the inside who will get more than they deserve while many on the outside will get less than they deserve. Justice does not seem to rule in fixing salaries in the school department.

HEALTH EDUCATION

From Boston we receive a circular setting forth the plans of a certain organization called the "Health Education Committee," whose aim is to promote an adequate health education program in our elementary schools. Already it has planned to secure the passage through the legislature of bills providing for a uniform public health campaign in the schools. It is the intention of the committee to secure, if possible, a measure that will make it compulsory upon cities and towns to furnish adequate instruction and supervision, so as provide each pupil with a minimum of 60 minutes of systematic health instruction, physical exercise and recess play during each school day. The school committee, according to the plan, may arrange for the use of the school buildings and grounds after regular school hours as community centres for the promotion of healthy recreation.

In view of the overladen school curriculum at present in force, we cannot see how an hour a day can be devoted to health education. It seems that while the motives of this committee are undoubtedly above criticism, yet the plans could not be carried out without eliminating some of the important branches now taught or at least cutting down the time given them.

Nobody will object to the opening of the schools as community centres for the promotion of healthy recreation. Indeed much good might be derived from some plan of that nature and if the children can be given physical exercise after school hours, so much the better, but to compel cities and towns to devote an hour a day to this work seems utterly impracticable under present conditions without a very radical change in the curriculum.

THE LICENSE VOTE

The unanimity with which twenty cities of Massachusetts voted in favor of license last Tuesday, is quite remarkable. No less than eight cities swung from the dry to the wet column, some of which had voted "no" on the license question for years. This vote indicates one of two things. Either dissatisfaction with the present law prohibition or else as a protest against the constitutional amendment on the ground that it is a violation of state rights.

The state of Rhode Island has shown a disposition to fight national prohibition as an unwarranted interference with her domestic affairs. Whether she is right in taking the stand will be decided in due time by the supreme court of the United States.

One of the provisions of the constitutional amendment is that the law shall be enforced by the concurrent action of the federal and state governments. Under this arrangement, if any state should refuse to concur in its enforcement, such for example as Rhode Island, then the federal government could not enforce the law in that state.

Whether this phase of the legal question will invalidate the amendment will be duly considered by the supreme court. It is well to await that decision before jumping at conclusions. "The mills of the gods grind slowly but exceeding fine."

SMOOT'S PLAN

Senator Smoot of Utah, ranking republican in the senate appropriations committee, is apparently bent upon a great shake-up in the War Risk Insurance bureau. He says: "I propose to save in one fell swoop, the salaries of 8,000 to 9,000 clerks and have the work done better." Smoot is one of the republicans who believe that nothing done by democrats can be well done. He approved the policy of spending vast sums to maintain "smelling committees" in continuous performance not only here but in Europe in search of democratic misfeasance as material for political capital. But they have not succeeded to any great extent.

They have discovered at great expense that the war expenditures were enormous and that in certain cases work of various kinds might have been done for less perhaps if there had been time to spend in dickering over sub-contracts and if there had been republican bosses in charge of the job. They did such a splendid "job" in the Spanish-American skirmish that they surely could have given a great demonstration of efficiency and economy in the world war. The republicans having lost their old tariff and gold standard shibboleths are apparently at a loss for an issue but in a whole year of persistent effort they have found nothing to serve their purpose.

DANIELS' REPORT

The annual report of Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, for the fiscal year, including operations and recommendations to December 1, 1919, is at hand and while its contents embrace an interesting review of the work of the navy during its stupendous task of transporting the army forces to and from France, the value of the report itself is secondary to the instant thought that it has been printed with extravagant waste.

The bound report contains 266 pages, 148 of which carry printed matter while 148 are blank. In other words, every other page in the report is a blank sheet of white paper, printing being set on but one side of a sheet only, undoubtedly for the convenience of newspapers wishing to print any part of the document.

Paper is exceedingly high in cost and newspapers all over the country have been forced to increase the price of single copies until the old fashion one-cent daily practically has passed out of existence. Not only could the secretary's report have been published for much less, if both sides of a sheet were printed, but in book form it would present a much more readable document.

BANDITRY DOESN'T PAY

The capture of William L. Carlisle, escaped convict, polished train robber and man of "letters" just about brings to an end the career of a bandit who may well rank with Fred Whitlock, who in 1886 held up a "Frisco train and relieved an express messenger of $63,000 and immediately began a literary career, ridiculing the efforts of posesses to arrest him. Carlisle now faces the electric chair, or some other exterminating agency and when that day comes, this king of present day literary train robbers will pay the penalty of attempting to do two things well at the same time. Carlisle might well have patterned his career after the lives of the Younger brothers, the Cummingses, the James boys and others who rode with the band in the heyday of its existence and who were successful in train robbery but did not dip into literature. Such careers, however, are very short and then comes the penalty—death or a life of suffering in prison. The most simple minded can readily see that the business of banditry does not pay.

WOMEN IN POLITICS

The world now so widely interested in woman suffrage will watch with deep interest the course of Lady Astor in the British parliament. The question is whether she will display the breadth of view necessary to deal intelligently with matters of great moment. She will be a disappointment indeed if she does not prove quite as intelligent as her husband or some of the other "noble lords." Mrs. Glendower Evans went to England to defeat Lady Astor but she didn't do it. It was this same notoriety seeker who appeared at Lawrence as an advocate of the demands of the strikers, to lead the syndicalists, but she soon discovered that the people of Lawrence wanted no intervention from her or any of her kind. She did not get into the lime light in London. She should go over to Russia and help Trotsky and Lenin to extend the "blessings" of the soviet regime on the ruins of Russian civilization.

THE COAL STRIKE

If the coal miners now on strike hold out much longer it will be up to congress to adopt measures that will treat such strikes in the future as criminal conspiracies against the health and safety of the public. It might be well for congress at the present time to define certain public utilities in which strikes will be forbidden. The employees in such cases might be held under contract to obey the rules and regulations of the company same as firemen and policemen. The people of this country are not yet ready to submit to a form of anarchy that threatens not only to paralyze industry but to cause widespread suffering and death. It is incumbent upon the government to protect the people against the recurrence of any such calamity.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Mr. Otto Hockmeyer is a most enthusiastic advocate of Community Service as a means of bringing vast benefits to the entire community through organized effort.

His plans are for the good of Lowell, and if carried out, they would give us a better and a happier city.

Our people would know their neighbors and respect them as friends rather than hold aloof from them as if they were unworthy of recognition. This is certainly a movement calculated to unite all classes for their common good and the promotion of true Americanism.

SEEN AND HEARD

It is going to take some pretty heated political argument to make any impression on these bleak, December days and evenings.

The first Christmas card was printed by a man named Jobbins, colored by hand, and sold by Joseph Cundell, London publisher, in 1844.

It's always been a lot of fun to play Santa Claus and this year The Sun and Girls Community Service club offer an even wider and better opportunity.

Scandinavians invented the Christmas tree. It was due to a desire to get the forests cut down for plowing. German emigrants brought the Christmas tree idea to America.

A lot of people have claimed the discovery of Santa Claus, but a thorough investigation leaves it about 80-50 between the little boy and the individual who has toys to sell.

A Chicago hotel in the process of making sweeping reductions in the prices of rooms and food says "we are going back to a basis of reasonable profits." Boy, oh boy, what an admission!

Probably the greatest Christmas invention is that combination of the X-ray and mind reading device which may be turned upon a friend at this time and a clear picture of what he's going to give you for Christmas is made. This makes it possible for you to get him "something just as good." Also, it guards against foolishly wasting a lot of money on a fellow who is only going to send you a Christmas card. When the invention gets into the hands of our little boy he can stop prying open the closet door to see if Santa Claus is hiding anything there. And Friend Wife will know we're not going to buy that set of furs, but a comfy chair for her, which we can use, too, of an evening, and then we bet she won't be treating us so fine before Christmas! However, this knowing-advance is going to take a bunch of joy out of pre-Christmas life, isn't it?

Eight Breeders

Rev. Charles Stolz, staff writer on religious topics for the Newspaper Enterprise association of which The Sun has exclusive service here, writes as follows on "Words as Fight Breeders":

"As coals are to burning coals, and wood to fire, so is a contentious man to kindle strife"—Proverbs 26:21.

Words create quarrels. They are great fight-breeders. Frowns and scowling faces and wicked eyes help, and sometimes they are the beginnings of quarrels, but not until somebody uses words does the trouble begin.

They kindle the spark. Then they feed the flames. Words—just words.

Sometimes when they are used with a smile they make the fire burn fiercer.

And when a sneer is added to the spoken words the fire rages.

We urge the man who knows how to keep the fires of hate burning because he knows how to use flaming words.

"As coals are to burning coals, and wood to fire, so is a contentious man to kindle strife."

If no words are added to the flames of passion strife soon ceases. But words—contentiously spoken—stir up the fires which bring hatred and malice into the hearts and faces of those who would otherwise soon be reconciled through silence.

Blessed is the man who can hold his tongue.

"The tongue is a fire."

It is hard to control it.

Once it gets started—and it is next to impossible to hold it back.

Don't give it a start.

Check it. Hold it. Bridle it.

A Business Letter (Copyright, 1919, N.E.A.) (By a Young Member)

Dear Sir: Your bill received.

I write that word, it thrills my pen. You see we named him William, but I said at once we'd have to cut

That name in two.

To make it do.

But grandpa said "For heaven's sake, don't."

For every Will becomes a Won't.

And grandpa said, "Don't make it Willie."

For that's so girly-like and silly.

And so we call him "Bill," so though it's quite ridiculous, you know.

He is so sweet, it seems a shame

To call him such a rough, coarse name.

Yet, as I said, it gives a thrill

Even to write the name of "Bill."

I thought at first the sum was large

And looked to find the overcharge.

(And then I thought Of all I'd bought

To make him comfy in his nest,

And all, of course, the very best,

For with a baby such as he

Who's just as good as he can be,

It surely would be monstrous hard

To stunt him of his just reward.

Why, mother; yes and mother-in-law,

They say they both

Will take their oath

That he's the best they ever saw!

I note your "please remit to date."

And much regret you've had to wait—

(But that reminds me—)—I'm sure

Those scales of yours are very poor.

For last time I was in your store

He'd lost a half a pound, or more,

And any dunc

Can see at once

The child's as strong as Hercules,

And fat! you ought to see his knees,

How round they are! And yet so strong

That he can push a chair along.

We think, within a week, he'll walk,

And oh! it's fun to hear him talk.

He says real words and seems to know

Just what they mean sometimes, although

He runs them into another.)

Yours most respectfully,

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The death of Henry Clay Frick, the famous iron master and art collector, has a bit of purely local interest for this city in addition to the general interest which the death of such a widely known man inevitably produces. Many Lowell girls especially those employed in our mills, will recall pleasant week-ends spent with Miss Helen Frick, the iron master's daughter, at one of the family mansions at Wenham, known as the Melville place and popularly called "the house with the iron railings." Miss Frick had taken a deep interest in doing things for others and many an enjoyable time was staged for girls from this city, Lawrence and Boston during the summer season. Mr. Frick's estates along the North Shore were generally conceded the most extensive and pretentious of that section of the state and more than one automobile party from this city has stopped to admire the extensive collection of buildings.

ing said that the shortage was affecting him seriously. It seems that the local manufacturers and indeed practically all of them in the state depend upon a certain Roxbury firm to supply the cedar boxes that keep the cigars in good condition for fancy smokers. On account of the recent strike of cigarmakers in a number of cities, this firm had to let up to some extent in its output and now with the return to the weed rollers to their benches the box company finds itself swamped with orders. The demand is away ahead of the output and just to make matters worse a number of the employees went on strike the other day owing to trouble over the employment of one of their number. But it is expected that the trouble will be settled soon and that the business will go at normal stride.

Tea requires a rainfall of 60 inches, and irrigation will not serve in lieu thereof, as a somewhat humid atmosphere is needed.

RELIEVE MORE GUARDS FRANK C. AUSTIN DEAD

Motor Corps Last Unit in Boston To Leave Tomorrow—Police in Control

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Orders relieving the first motor corps of the state guard from further duty here at 6 p. m. tomorrow, were received today. The direction of traffic, to which the unit was assigned soon after the police strike was called on Sept. 9, will be taken over by the new police traffic division.

With the relief of the motor corps the work of troops in the police strike emergency will virtually be ended. A small number of guardsmen will be retained a few days longer, but they will be held in reserve. Police officials said today that every position made vacant by the strike had been filled and that there was a nucleus for a reserve force.

The motor corps, the last unit of the state guard to hold intact here, was one of the first to answer the call for troops to take over the guardianship of the city. It introduced several new features in traffic regulation, many of which, it is understood, will be permanently retained by the police.

Key West, Fla.—"For five years I suffered from irregularities, with terrible pains and an awful weakness in my back. The doctor gave me different medicines but they did me no good. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I found it to be the best medicine I ever tried because it made me well, and I can now do my housework. I am telling my friends about it."—Mrs. J. M. CAMUS, 726 Caroline St., Key West, Florida.

Many women at some period in their life suffer from ailments peculiar to their sex and which in most cases may be readily relieved by this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. If you have any annoying symptoms you fail to understand, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The results of their 40 years' experience in advising women on this subject is at your service.

BANDEAU ENHANCED BY FEATHER FAN

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A feather fan is a lovely thing, but twice as lovely is the same fan when it is supported on tortoise shell sticks. It may be of green, white or black, in fact any shade to match a gown or suit a whim. Another ornament capable of lending great charm at a ball or theatre is a bandeau such as shown in today's sketch with the fan. This bandeau is of greenish gold and brilliants.

10 TEAMS TIED IN 6 DAY RACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Ten teams were tied for the lead in the six day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden at 3 o'clock this morning, the 104th hour. Each team had covered 1835 miles and six laps, as compared with the record of 2051 miles and five laps, made by Fogler and Hill, in 1914.

The Belgian team of Buysse and Splenssens and the Italian combination of Brocco and Verri were one lap behind the leaders. The Canadian-American team of Spencer and Chapman, and the French-Belgian team of Tiberghien and Chardon were two laps behind the leaders.

Most of the riders showed signs of fatigue today as a result of the wild sprints in which they engaged during the night. Goulet and Madden of Newark are leading in points scored as a result of the sprints.

What Famous Actors

Do for Their Teeth

No class values appearance so much as those of the stage and films, and their teeth come first. They want them clean and highly polished.

Cecil Lean, who has the most perfect teeth on the American stage, uses Albodon Dental Cream. So do Clio Mayfield, Emmy Wehlen, Mae Murray and the great star of the Folies, Eddie Cantor. They take no chances with potash and carbolic acid tooth pastes, with gritty things that wear away enamel.

Albodon is calcium carbonate, saponified and mixed with the well known antiseptic oils of cloves, cinnamon and eucalyptus, which authorities declare is the efficient and safe composition for women and children, and so naturally for you. It is in equal parts cleansing, polishing and antiseptic. A tube containing 35 brushings is sold everywhere with the guarantee that Albodon will satisfy your taste.—Adv.

HE HADN'T THOUGHT OF THAT

A Remarkable Cure

Walle Park, Minn.,
Nov. 28, 1919.

Dear Sir: Enclosed find money order for which please send me another large bottle of Sister Mary's Compound. I am sure am thankful to you the way it has helped my wife. She is feeling better now than she has been for last two years. Her cough is almost gone now and I think another bottle and she will be all cured.

With best wishes,
F. C. WILLEKE,
Box 94, Minn.

Mrs. Willeke began taking Sister Mary's Compound March, 1918. Discouraged at times, yet never faltering in the absolute faith placed in the Compound she continued persistently to take it—the result of that persistency is plainly evident in the above letter.

William Stowell of Los Angeles, motion picture director of the expedition. The injured members of the exploring party are:

Philly Horne, of Los Angeles, photographer, cut and bruised.
Henry N. Kohler of Los Angeles, photographer, body injuries; not serious.

Edward M. Thierry, N.E.A. correspondent, head lacerations, bruises and shock.

Henry C. Raven, naturalist, and Dr. Homer Leroy Shontz, biologist, were not with the expedition into the Enge forest, but are in Rhodesia. Edmund Heller, naturalist, and George Scott, chief photographer, are in Belra. The expedition, in a special coach, had left Sakania for Elizabethville with a freight train of six cars. A tank car was uncoupled at a siding 50 miles north of Sakania. The brakes became loosened and the tank car, running down grade, overtook and crashed into the rear of the freight train.

Native wood cutters exfiltrated the injured and carried them to their huts where they remained for 16 hours without medical aid. Two hours after a physician had dressed their injuries, the relief train from Elizabethville reached the scene of the accident, and more than 24 hours after the accident the living victims were brought to the hospital in Elizabethville.

Several natives were killed. White members of the train crew escaped with injuries.

Elementary Accounting Course To Be Given at Lowell Textile School

Arrangements have been made between the state department of university extension and Lowell Textile school as a result of which the school will this winter give a course in elementary accounting for the benefit of residents of Lowell, Lawrence and vicinity.

The class will be open to every person qualified to take such a course. The instruction will be free. A small charge will be made to cover cost of material and texts furnished the students.

The course will include instruction in bookkeeping, classification of accounts, trial balancing, interest and discount, business forms, adjusting entries and theory of depreciation, and for those ambitious to climb up this particular ladder, will be the first step in a three-year course which will qualify a student for the certified public accountant examination in this state.

The course will be given to meet an increasing demand in business for persons qualified for filing accurate income tax returns and for persons who understand the various systems of accounting.

Previously accounting courses have been available principally to those living near large educational institutions, but Lowell educators convinced the state authorities that there are many in Lowell, Lawrence and vicinity, who would appreciate opportunity to enter such a course.

Announcement as to the time when the class will meet and hours, will be made later. For the present, however, enrollments can be made by application to James A. Moyer, instruction department, university extension, state house, Boston.

JOCKEY BRADY TOOK GOLDINE

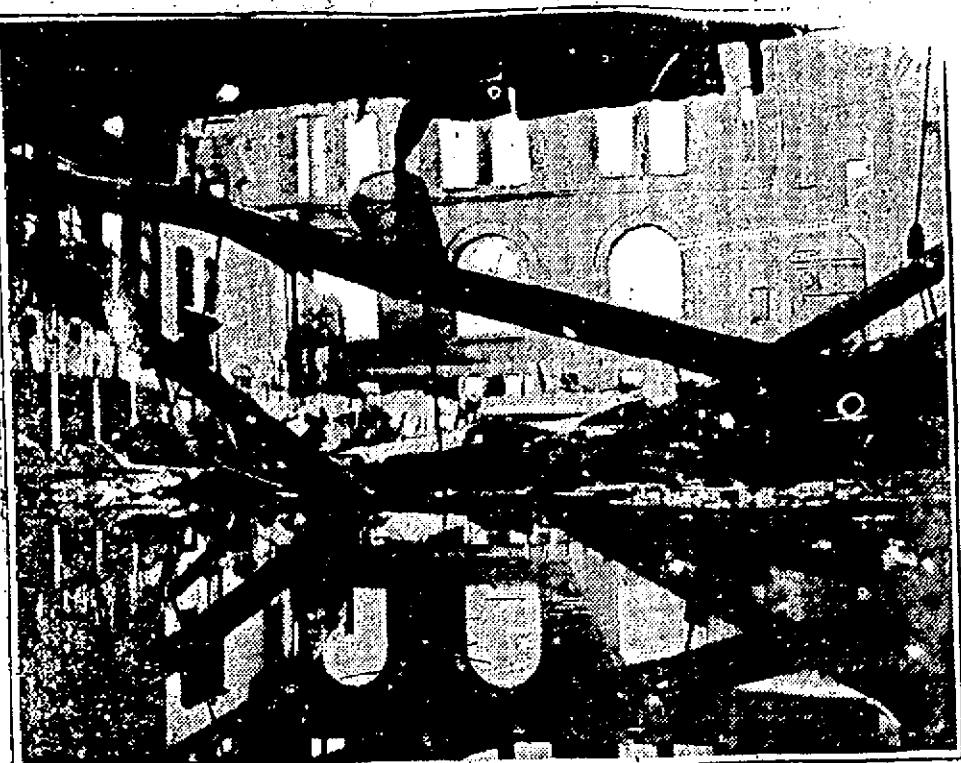

John Brady of 592 Gorham st., Lowell, Mass., better known as Jockey Brady, for 10 years holder of the ban-tam weight title of New England and one of the best jockeys in the racing game has joined the ranks of Goldline boosters. This is the reason, as Jockey tells it: "I had stomach and nerve trouble for the last few years and couldn't find anything that would help me. I was a nervous wreck and my appetite went back on me. I was so nervous that I trembled constantly and couldn't sleep well. When I did sleep I had the most frightful dreams. When I would get up in the morning I wouldn't feel any better than when I went to bed. I heard of Goldline and what it was doing for people, so I tried it. Now I sleep fine, my appetite is good and I feel strong in every way. The doctors are all gone and I feel strong and rested after a night's sleep. It's a wonderful medicine."

Remember GOLDLINE is sold in Lowell by Carter & Shuburne, F. H. Butler & Co., W. A. Chase, J. F. Howard, Wm. H. Kiernan, Frank J. McNabb, Wm. H. Noonan, R. F. Weston, F. W. Crawford Co. URGES LARGE AMERICAN PURCHASES AND INVESTMENTS IN CANADA

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Sir Henry Drayton, Canadian minister of finance, at the annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents here yesterday, urged larger American purchases and investments in Canada as a means of overcoming the present depreciation in Canadian exchange.

"While Canada is prosperous," said

P. S.—Something big on next week. Watch your step THE OVERALL STORE OF LOWELL

the minister, "the Canadian dollar is at the moment at a discount, and a serious discount when the value of the Canadian dollar, the prosperity and assets of the country are considered. The depreciation, while very real, is merely the effect of present trade balances and does not reflect in the slightest upon the intrinsic value of Canada's obligations."

"The depreciation of the Canadian premium in New York funds is simply owing to the fact that we do too little business with you and you do too little business with us. I wonder if the extent of Canada's purchases in the United States are realized. Your statistics show that your total trade with all Southern American countries amounted for the year 1919 to $569,274,565, the balance of trade against you being $167,423,303. On the other

Read these letters—they tell the story of RED PILLS

Took RED PILLS nine years ago. Still well

I took RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women nine years ago, as I was then suffering from general weakness brought on by overwork. I was sick in bed and was beginning to get discouraged, as I was growing weaker every day. I had gas on the stomach, and that combined with sore back made me suffer terribly. I had consulted several physicians, who were unable to help me any, and so I then took RED PILLS, which relieved me altogether in a very short time. I am now perfectly well and happy.

—Mrs. EMILIA DESILET
77 Clinton Street, Woonsocket, R.I.

Extreme Weakness

RED PILLS have helped me of extreme weakness from which I had been suffering. My mother had recommended them to me, knowing through experience of their beneficial properties, and now that I have become familiar with the good results obtained through their use, they have been my favorite remedy for the past sixteen years.

—Mrs. DELIA LAVIGNE
547 Silver Street, Manchester East, N.H.

Keeping her strength up with RED PILLS

Truly, RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women are the ideal medicine for weak and sick women who wish to keep up their strength, especially for mothers who have to bring up a family. I myself used them at different times during my life, and always with the most satisfactory results. They helped me at each confinement, and my children were all strong and healthy. Now when I see any of my friends who are weak and sickly, I cannot recommend them anything better than RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women.

302 Moody Street, Lowell, Mass.

A recent confinement had left me in such a weakened condition that several of my friends advised me to give RED PILLS a trial, stating that they were the surest remedy, and one which would be sure to give me prompt results. I had taken but a few boxes when I began to notice that I was getting stronger, and it was not long before I was well again and enjoying good health. Now, when the occasion arises, I am always anxious to recommend RED PILLS to Weak and Suffering Women.—Mrs. ETIENNE CHAMPAGNA
461 Rimmon Street, Manchester West, N.H.

RED PILLS are for Women only

They are always sold in boxes of fifty pills, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. See that the name of the "FRANCO-AMERICAN CHEMICAL COMPANY LIMITED" is on every box.

For the same year with Canada to do as much business as possible with us. I think we all realize that two of the very necessary essentials in any proper re-establishment are firm currencies and standard exchanges. I am quite sure that you would much sooner see the exchange situation righted by additional American purchases in Canada rather than decrease Canadian purchases in the United States. Temporarily, and from time to time, these adverse balances may be easily rectified by the investment of America's large surplus reserves in Canada, and this solution is one which is probably as much in the hands of the presidents of great American companies as in anybody's. The field for investment in Canada is very large. There is still great room in Canada for development."

THE ARCTIC HAS ITS OWN FASHIONS

10 KILLED, 100 INJURED
IN ITALIAN RIOTS

ROME, Dec. 5.—(By the Associated Press).—Ten persons dead, more than 100 wounded and a thousand under arrest sums up the result of the general strike in Italy, called by the socialists as a result of the demonstration made against them at the reopening of parliament in Rome on Monday.

Resentment over the strike has spread throughout the country. Notwithstanding this, however, and contrary to the announcement made Wednesday in the chamber of deputies by the Socialist Deputy Treves that there would be a cessation of the strike at midnight Wednesday, a small element of the socialists imposed a continuation of the walkout in Rome yesterday as a sign of mourning for the socialist, Zampa, who was killed during the disorder in the capital.

Socialists and anarchists, carrying red and black flags and banners, participated yesterday in the funeral of Zampa.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come:

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The children's special matinee for the B. F. Keith theatre, tomorrow afternoon, should prove a big drawing card. Opportunity will be given to all kiddies to personally meet the elephant, the horse, the pony and the big dog. Capt. Gruber and Milo, Adelina have four perfectly trained animals, and they will be most pleased to have the children meet their pets. The act of the animals is called an Oriental spectacle.

This is one feature of the present week's big show. It is a highly entertaining one, too. But Eddie Borden with his friend "Sir" Frederick Courtney cause a lot of real laughter, and Olive Briscoe and Al Raub, in their mixture of song and talk are sure winners. "A Wife Saver" is the title of the comedy presented by H. B. Toomer & Co. and it has many odd situations. McDermott & Heagerty sing their own songs well and score a big hit, and the Parshleys are international instrumentalists with many good numbers. The Spanish Dancers are the very best ever seen on a local stage. And the most interesting pictures of Coney Island will strike home to many persons. It is, in short a bill of many good points.

THE STRAND

You will laugh yourself tired at "Fair and Warmer," the feature film offering at the Strand. May Allison, the screen star, was never more amusing than she is in this presentation. Peggy Hyland in "A Girl in Bohemia" is another high class picture offering and will surely appeal to the desires of patrons who favor superior grade of motion pictures. The rest of the bill is made up of excellent contributions. Don't forget that the Strand gives only special productions and not the regular run of program pictures. That's why the Strand standard is the best.

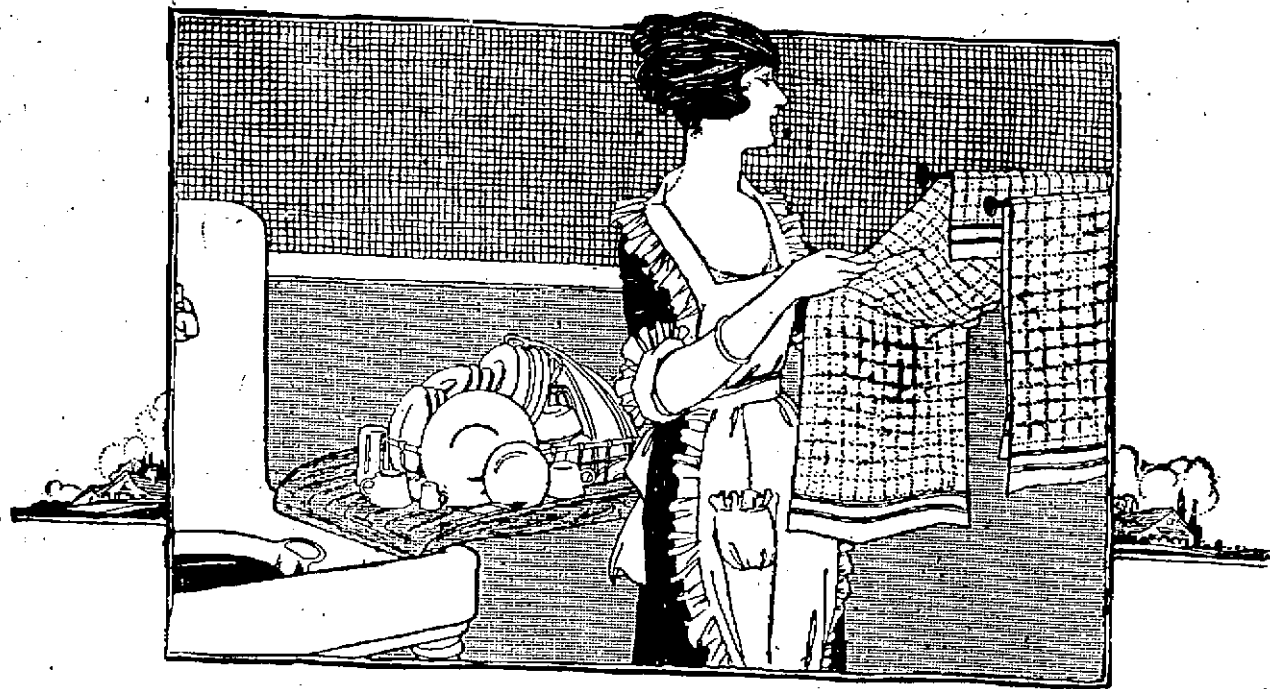

OPERA HOUSE

In the production of successful stock attractions, one of the essentials is attention to details. Director Kirk is insistent in making the little things contribute to the success of all presentations and in this measure he meets a demand that has invariably helped in a successful stock season. In this week's production of "Within the Law," this fact is forcibly reflected. Order your tickets early and avoid disappointment. Next week George M. Cohan's musical comedy, "The Little Millionaire," will be presented. This is the first musical effort of the season by the Players and will be looked forward to with anticipation of pleasure by the patrons.

CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT

An excellent program of music and readings was given at the Central Congregational church in Chelmsford last evening. It was in the nature of an inaugural recital of the recently installed pipe organ and a large and appreciative audience enjoyed it. The capabilities of the new instrument were capably brought out by Wilfred Kershaw of the Lowell First Baptist church, while violin selections by Frank B. Charles, readings by Mrs. Lilian Dodge Haskell and orchestral numbers led by William E. Adams, rounded out a splendid entertainment.

*Fresh Clean dish towels Every Day
without any bother of rubbing or boiling*

"EVERY good housekeeper washes her dish towels every day!" Your mother and grandmother drilled it into you. Yet how you have always hated this particular household task.

Dish towels get so greasy you have to rub them so to get them clean—you have to boil them in soap or soda. If you neglect to wash them, your supply runs short—you have to use soiled towels that leave the dishes smeary.

Now you can just soak your dish towels clean in bubbly, cleansing Rinso suds.

Drop them into the rich Rinso suds after the breakfast dishes are finished. Let them soak three hours. Then rinse them. And they will be clean and dry for the next dish washing.

Not a bit of rubbing—the pure Rinso granules are so high in cleansing value they loosen all the dirt. It rinses right out—even if you use cold water.

No boiling, except occasionally, if you wish to sterilize.

And your towels last twice as long as when you rub them so. And keep their crisp cross-bar coloring, that boiling fades so fast.

Use Rinso always for dish towels, and other especially hard things to wash. Use it for all your washing—it saves you endless work—it saves the clothes.

Get Rinso from your grocer. The easy directions are on the package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux.)

ACTIVITIES OF REDS IN MASSACHUSETTS

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Dec. 5.—Of the 48 states in the Union, Massachusetts ranks third among the centers where the activities of reds, Bolsheviks and other forms of communism and anarchy are the most pronounced.

This was the statement made today by a state official who for the past year has been making an investigation into the efforts of the radicals to overthrow the government of the United States and substitute in its place the soviet form of rule or misrule which now exists in Russia.

Scattered throughout the state are approximately 75 clubs and other organizations which are bending every effort toward this end, their membership being composed almost totally of alien workmen and women who have been in this country but a few years.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are being sent into this state and others from the Bolshevik government in Russia for the financing of the campaign, while additional thousands are being secured from the members of the organization here, and large sums also from wealthy Americans Bolsheviks.

The campaign is directed from Chicago, which, with New York, is the only other center tending this section in the soviet movement. A compact organization exists in all sections of the country, each section working in harmony with the other and all being under control of the central officers in Chicago.

In Massachusetts there are organizations in each industrial center in which the principles of Bolshevism are explained through lecture courses, literature printed in all the tongues, and even in schools maintained by the organization.

The leaders, who are sent here and there throughout the country by their directors in Chicago, are men of ability, who are adept at the art of winning converts through plausible, pleasing reasoning. The larger part of them are in the movement for all the money they can get out of it, while others are men and women who have endured political persecution in foreign countries, and still others are the intellectual radicals of this and the rest of the states.

"They appeal to the wage-earner for their support on the ground that if the "cause" is successful all money will be shared equally among the people and measures taken which will forever continue this in effect. They declare that the high cost of living is due to capitalist oppression and picture the wealthy, when the proletariat comes into power, as being forced to do the most menial work. Their hearers are impressed with the slogan: "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity."

to these arguments have any knowledge of the present form of American government or the possibilities it holds for the happiness of the people. They cannot understand English. They cannot read the daily newspapers. They cannot even talk with their fellow American workmen. Practically their only source of information is that which they may acquire from the Bolshevik agitation.

The principal exponents of the movement are Russians, Finns, Estonians and Lithuanians. It is made plain, however, that in referring to these nationalities no attempt is made to charge that all or even the greater part of the population of these races here in Massachusetts hold sympathy with the agitation.

Officials have difficulty in suppressing the activities of the radicals because of the rights of free speech prevailing in this country, but they have been able of late to check them to a considerable degree through the enactment of laws designed to that end.

A remedy suggested is the establishment of forums by the state at which competent instructors would explain to the foreign-born workmen in their own tongue the principles of American democracy. It is pointed out that few of those who attend the Bolshevik meetings are those who have had the advantages of American public or parochial school education. A campaign of education, it is said, would

CHURCH HAS ANNUAL PARISH SUPPER

The annual parish supper of the First Universalist church was held last evening and proved one of the most enjoyable events of the present season. Incidentally it marked the beginning of Rev. C. E. Fisher's 25th year as pastor of the church. Among the speakers were Dr. R. Perry Bush, of Chelsea; Rev. W. H. Morrison of Nashua, N. H.; Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the First Primitive Methodist church; Dr. Chauncey J. Hawkins, Rev. J. M. Cairns, Rev. H. E. Benton, Rev. A. R. Hussey, Rev. Appleton Grannis, Rev. J. M. Craig and H. A. Thompson, chairman of the board of trustees. Dr. A. S. Macleod acted as toastmaster. The musical program was provided by the church choir and Borjes' orchestra.

The supper was served under the efficient direction of Mrs. L. A. Darby, chairman of the United Workers' society of the church. Assisting Mrs. Darby on the supper committee were Mrs. W. O. Dickerman, Mrs. Eugene Dunbar, Mrs. William F. Hinckley and Mrs. A. E. Macleod.

LOWELL ELKS HOLD LADIES' NIGHT

Lowell lodge of Elks again came prominently into the limelight last evening when it staged its first ladies' night of the present season and gave pleasure to a large number of members and their friends. The program was adapted to the tastes of all and those present voted the affair one of the most successful the Elks have ever staged.

The evening's program opened with a concert by Broderick's orchestra and intermingled with dancing were some features with the Dion sisters.

Commissioner James E. Donnelly, in the honors. Mrs. Alice McLaughlin, accompanied and also gave a number of piano solos. Miss Agnes Götter in dancing specialties was also well received. Mayor and Mrs. Thompson were among those who enjoyed the evening's pleasures.

The committee in charge of the affair included: W. E. Turnbull, chairman; John F. Meehan, secretary; John J. McMahon, treasurer; Joseph Gilly and James E. Lowney.

To Ward Off Winter Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all winter, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Rough, chapped or discolored skin, inevitable in this weather, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear conspicuous at this season, because of alternating expansion and contraction of the skin, due to changing temperatures. You are advised to try this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drugstore and use like cold cream. This will help any complexion at once, and in a week or so the skin will look remarkably youthful and healthy.—Ady.

REVENUE COMMISSIONER ROPER'S REPORT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Estimates of $6,000,000,000 as the yield of the present revenue law for the first 12 months of its operation will be closely approached if not fully realized, Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper said yesterday in his annual report.

Payments of the first two installments, March 15 and June 15, brought into the treasury a total of $2,600,763,000, Mr. Roper said, while reports already in hand of the third installment, payable Sept. 15, fully support the bureau's estimate.

Commissioner Roper said the tobacco industry had developed into one of the greatest sources of federal revenue, the total receipts from this source alone for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, being $205,003,000, an increase of $13,500,000 over those of the preceding year.

An enormous increase in the number of cigars manufactured was shown by the reports, the total for the last fiscal year being approximately eight times larger than in 1910. In that year, 5,500,000 cigars and 8,000,000 cigars were manufactured, while in the last fiscal year the manufacture of cigars had increased to 45,500,000,000, while the number of cigars remained practically stationary. Discussing constitutional prohibition, Mr. Roper said that probably 50,000,000 gallons of spirituous liquors would remain in bonded warehouses when the constitutional amendment becomes effective Jan. 15.

During the year ended June 30, approximately 99,000,000 gallons of distilled liquor were produced from materials other than fruits, this figure representing a decrease of nearly 75,000,000 gallons from the previous year's production.

The effect of wartime prohibition has presented a problem which is causing revenue officials "serious embarrassment," Mr. Roper said. Holders of heavy stocks of liquor in bond were forced, under provisions of the last revenue act, to pay an additional tax Sept. 15. The law closing the saloons for the period of the war has left those interests with their products and without means of obtaining money to make the tax payments, he said.

"Under the law the discretion of the bureau is limited to extending the time for payment of these taxes seven months," Mr. Roper explained. "Serious embarrassment has resulted as to the course of action which should be taken in these cases to protect the interests of the government without imposing undue financial hardships on the taxpayers which presumably were not intended by congress."

The report revealed a menace in illegitimate traffic in drugs between this country and Canada and Mexico. Mr. Roper urged that some temporary arrangement be established which would put a stop to this smuggling.

Expenditures of the bureau during the last fiscal year, Mr. Roper said, were $20,573,711, an increase of $12,003,214 over the previous fiscal year. On this basis, he said, it had cost the government 0.513 per cent to administer the revenue laws and collect the second greatest tax bill the nation ever has laid.

AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY GIVES ITS POSITION ON LABOR UNIONS

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—In connection with the strike in the Assabet mills of the American Woolen company at Maynard, where several hundred weavers are on strike, as noted, Raymond S. Bartlett, chairman of the labor department of the company makes the following statement:

"The public is entitled to know the facts about the origin of the strike at the Assabet mills. At Maynard, The United States Textile Workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, demanded that we discharge some 45 of our employees who are members of the Amalgamated Textile Workers, a rival labor organization. This we refused to do. It seemed to us unfair and unjust."

"All our employees of whatever union or non-union, stand the same with us. We will see no injustice done to any. But because we refused to discharge these Amalgamated union men, simply on the ground that they were members of a union the United Textile Workers did not like, a strike has occurred."

"We must maintain our ground. We

NUCOA

What it is -
How made -
Why white -

NUCOA is table butter. It displaces cow butter—and does it without a single apology. If it were less buttery than that which you have been brought up to call butter, it would fail utterly. It is a great big success. Our five churning plants have a daily capacity of 300,000 pounds. Just think of it! Enough butter to spread nine million slices of bread—liberally. Never let anyone tell you that Nucoa isn't butter. What else could it be when it butters all this bread every day?

Let us tell you how it is made. We import the meat of the coconut from Ceylon, Java and the Philippine Islands. This is crushed and refined into a cream white butter. It could not be finer. It does not contain a trace of water. It is just pure coconut butter. Highly refined, rich, peanut oil is added. This is just like olive oil in color and texture. The richness and mellowness of peanut oil makes it very valuable. These two products are churned with cultured milk that has first been pasteurized. When it leaves the churn it is worked and salted the same as creamery butter. The one secret is efficiency and care.

Nucoa is white because the Dairy Interests succeeded in passing a law that took from us the use of the very color that all cow butter contains. We supply this color free. Process of coloring simple and easy. It takes but a minute. Directions surround each print. Branded oleomargarine to satisfy an old Federal Law passed before Nucoa was made. Work with your Congressmen against these discriminations.

Be Prepared For Influenza

CUT THIS OUT

Many medical men say we will probably have another epidemic this fall. Let us all hope and pray we will not. But at the same time let us be well prepared.

The flu as it is called, usually starts with a cold and tightness in the chest. If you even suspect there is a chance that you may be getting influenza take a good dose of laxative tea, such as Dr. Carter's K & B Tea or Celery King and send for your physician. While you are waiting for the doctor rub Begg's Mustard on throat and chest.

Rub it on freely and never mind if it does feel good and hot. It cannot blister even the tenderest skin.

But don't stop at throat and chest; get some one to rub this enemy of inflammation over your entire back and especially between the shoulder blades.

This is one of the most sensible precautions you can take against pneumonia, which often quickly follows the flu and is just what the doctor tries hard to sidetrack.

You can get Begg's Mustard for 30 and 50 cents in yellow boxes all ready for use at any drug store.

Remember it is made of real yellow mustard. Use it for sore throat, croup, chest colds, pleurisy, bronchitis, lumbago and all aches and pains.

BRIEF REPORT OF THE INTER-STATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The annual report of the interstate commerce commission, submitted to congress yesterday, is comparatively brief and makes few recommendations.

Federal control of railways during the last year, having taken over many functions of the commission, the report renews mainly recommendations made in previous years.

It is recommended that the power to award reparations for unreasonable or unlawful charges be placed wholly in the courts; that the powers of the commission be extended to holding corporations as well as those which actually operate interstate transportation lines, and that railroad operating rules be standardized.

The commission reports again that in many cases its work has been obstructed because necessary records and data could only be obtained from holding companies.

From its investigations of train accidents the commission's investigators concluded that the failure of engineers to obey signals and failure to provide adequate flag protection for trains continued to be the principal causes of collisions. The use of automatic train control was again recommended.

The investigators also found, the report says, that there was room for much improvement in the air brake equipment of trains.

AN ADDO ELEPHANT SNAPPED BY THIERRY

WORSE THAN AIR RAIDS

Wild Elephants' Charge
Scares One Stiff, Says
Sun Correspondent

By Edward M. Thierry
N. E. A. Staff Correspondent With Smithsonian-Universal Expedition
IN CAMP KENNELBOSCH, South Africa—Warlike German "frightful-ness" had nothing on the wild elephants of the Addo Bush.

The mammoths pursue the same policy. They scare you stiff.

I've been in air raids in France. And I've heard the hideous trumpeting of wild elephants outside the flimsy
wind-break of piled up branches around Major Prentious' camp here.

And I imagine the former is preferable. Here in this dense thorn bush
there is no escape from the enraged pachyderm. If he doesn't see you he sees you. And there is no escape.

You cannot outrun him. The almost impenetrable bush holds you. There are great areas of a dense growth of minosa and prickly pear, inextricably bound together with strong creepers.

Thorny branches are interlaced and stuck with barbs ranging from the almost invisible thorn to those that are five and six inches long.

These are the things Major Pretious is up against in his campaign to exterminate the 200 wild elephants
menacing civilization in South Africa.

The first night I was in camp with the Smithsonian African expedition the major was absent. He had been hunting all day, spending the night at his other camp at Addo station, 16 miles
at the other end of the thorn jungle.

In the middle of the night a couple of the kaffir sentries came running in with the news that the elephants were near. Simultaneously we heard a frightful noise in the distance—mad trumpeting and an ear-splitting screaming.

The man who knows only the circus
and the zoo elephant cannot conceive
the terrifying volume of sound one mammoth, or a herd, can develop.
There is no simile that is faithfully
descriptive. It's like all the fiends of hell turned loose. It beggars description.

Cold chills ran down our backs.
There really wasn't much danger of an unprovoked attack at night; that is to say, it would be against precedent, for, while elephants are essentially nocturnal prowlers, they rarely charge unless they are shot at, even if they do pick up the scent of human beings.

But we didn't stop to think of that.
We spent a quaking half hour till the trumpeting and screaming died away
and the camp dogs quieted down to the point where it seemed certain the elephants had rambled off in another direction.

Anybody who has been in the Addo
Bush knows what real fear is. Big game hunters have shied away from hunting here because the odds are all against the hunter.

Nowhere is the bush more than eight to 12 feet high. There are plenty of trees, but they are low and squat.
They look substantial, but they bend
under the slightest weight like so much rubber. These are the "spekboom" tree or elephant tree. The huge beasts eat
the soft, rubbery leaves and branches.

Climbing into one of these trees is time wasted. The elephant can reach up with his powerful trunk and drag
his victim out.

Though the elephant's eyesight is poor, his hearing and sense of smell are acute. And he covers about 12 feet in one strike!

When he grips his victim in his trunk he crashes him to the ground.
Then, if he has tusks, he jabs great holes through the body. Whereat he kneels on the victim. Then he wheels
ponderously and sits on the body, rolling his tremendous avoirdupois back and forth, utterly squashing it. Finally he stamps on it, battering it into the ground.

TWO SINCERE POLITICAL MOVEMENTS IN TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE (By the Associated Press).—There are only two sincere political movements in Turkey,
one for American help, the other for an independent country which should be left alone, says Halide Edib, Turkish woman novelist, poet and nationalist. "All the rest are movements fed by foreign money," she told the Associated Press correspondent.

Small, handsome, a brilliant conversationalist and speaker, Halide Edib,
a fiery advocate for a new and better
Turkey, is the best known woman of her country. A graduate of Robert College for Girls, an American institution, she speaks English well and has used it since the armistice to try to convert Americans here to her hopes.
In the way she worked with her husband, a physician, in the Red Crescent or Turkish Red Cross. One of her novels, "New Turania," a Turkish
"Looking Forward," has greatly moved
her people by its patriotic appeal.

"I don't think any nation in Europe

except perhaps Belgium would be disinterested enough, or would be permitted by the other powers, to take over the work that must be done here," she said. "So we have organized an American propaganda which is evident in all parts of the old empire. Even the humblest people realize the truth
of our contentions, and for that reason it has been easy to persuade them to favor an American control."

"The Americans haven't encouraged
us, and other nations have discouraged us, either by deportations or censorship of our press. We can't send anyone to America because the armistice prevents us from traveling.
Moustapha Kemal Pasha, who is an honest, sincere patriot, believes as we do."

"What Turkey needs is peace, modern agricultural development, as our soil is very rich, territorial integrity, wherein there are equal rights to Moslems and Christians and education. We need a uniform school system. There is a vast desire for education and many parents make many sacrifices while children educate themselves rather than go uneducated."

"The woman in Turkey is much more emancipated than is believed abroad,
and her education is part of our program. It is true that in the past we have ourselves been influenced by the Persian influence which took from our women their old freedom. It must be remembered that all our women are not to be judged by those of the city, who don't count for much. In the country our women have all the family responsibilities, they till the soil,

they care for the children, while the role of the man is more that of the soldier."

"Women in Turkey have their vanities, too, just like women elsewhere.
In my novel in which I pictured Turkey
as she should be I planned a new costume without the veil
somewhat like that of the Quakeress,
but after a time it was no longer worn because it wasn't found 'becoming.'"

"Much has been said of the Pan-
Islamic and Pan-Turanian movements.
Politically, I am for neither. The first refers to religious union and the second to the racial union of peoples inhabiting north Africa and Asia. These peoples are, loosely, Turks, Arabs, Tartars and Kurds. When the new Turk idea started the old imperialists objected that by it we would lose Arabia and Syria. We appear to have done so by the war. I believe in a cultural union of these peoples, however, and a continuance of our economic relations with Arabia, which were always close and natural."

"The national idea is to maintain the integrity of the Ottoman Turks,
who are people who change neither religion nor other ideas, and for that reason have always been the champion of the religion of Mohammed. We want also to see an independent Armenia, as we believe the latter will never rest until they have it. We want for our boundaries the lines of the armistice, that is Thrace, Asia Minor, to the Russian frontier, thence to the trading centre of Bagdad, which is about one-half Turkish though it is also inhabited by Persians, Kurds and Arabs
and thence to the Mediterranean."

"Inside of this territory we want Greeks, Armenians or anyone, so long as they do not agitate politically.

There should be no religious distinctions, we should abolish the old courts and have them uniform. We should take our patriarch out of our political cabinet and let him merely be head of our church system. The sultan should continue in his dual capacity as sultan,
politically, and as Caliph, religiously.
"With growing economic prosperity
Turkey would become a better country
but to accomplish what we need we can't go alone. We realize that we must have outside help, which would be respected by our people and the Christians, and which in reforming us
could bear any blame for the reforms.
Coming from an unprejudiced source
they would be accepted."

"The sultan has been frightened by the nationalist movement and by the suggestion that Americans would make us a republic, eliminating him politically. We are not so pro-Bolshevik as to wish to overthrow him, and for many years it would not be attempted.
"It is believed the British want Turkey because they have many Moslem subjects once independent who looked to the Caliph here, and that it is not in their interest to have the last Moslems independent. To make these last a subject people they would adopt the pretext of defending him, as in the case of the nationalists starting trouble."

legitimately collected is a penal offense.

SERUM PRODUCTION AT ITS HEIGHT AT TIME ARMISTICE WAS SIGNED

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—One of the most important contributions to the United States government hospitals was made this year, by 46 immunized horses at Princeton, N. J., in the form of serums for the treatment of meningitis, pneumonia and dysentery, according to the report on war activities of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, made public here today by Dr. Simon Flexner, director of laboratory.

At the time of the signing of the armistice, the report says, serum production for the treatment of the diseases named was at its height. The number of doses supplied increased from 3000 in 1917 to 25,000 in 1918, and it was estimated that the output for the first three months of this year far exceeded the entire output for 1918.

The total of 2035 bottles of serum was sent during the year to the army and naval medical schools, Washington; to United States army camps; naval stations and camps; American Expeditionary Force, Hygienic laboratory, United States public health service and the Royal Naval college in London.

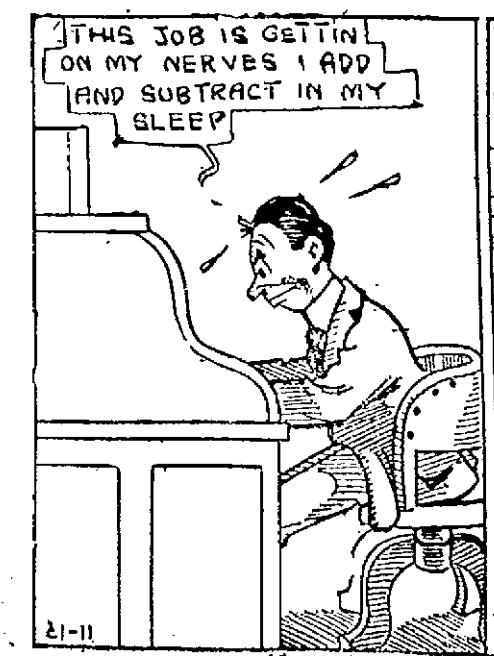

The report emphasizes the success attending the method on treating infected surgical wounds which Doctors Caryl and Dakin perfected and during the year, it says, instructions were given to 325 medical officers and enlisted men of the United States army and navy, to civilian surgeons and to nurses of the Red Cross and civilian hospitals. A special appropriation of $50,000 has been made, it is said, to enable the war demonstration hospital to continue in active operation until April 1, 1920.

"A permanent addition has been made to the measures now available for preventing gaseous gangrene, or for curing it when it arises in connection with the industrial or other accidents of civil life," says the report, anti-serums having been produced not only for the gas bacillus (bacteria) which it but also for other anaerobic bacteria occurring in cultivated soils. In the hospital of the Rockefeller Institute, the report says, researches on the streptococci, education during the epidemics of pneumonia following measles and influenza in the army camps, "will be carried to a conclusion because of their intrinsic importance and the menace which streptococcal infections present in civil life."

SANTA CLAUS BUREAU FOR POOR LITTLE GIRLS AND BOYS

Girls' Community Service Club and The Sun
Co-operate in Plan to Have Santa Claus

WANTED!

Volunteer Santa Claus To Fill Empty Stockings For Poor Little Boys and Girls
CHRISTMAS

Will YOU be one?
For many of us this will be a merry Christmas.

But for some there will be no
Christmas UN-LESS—

Many poor little children in this city will have a dreary
Christmas UN-LESS—

Some aged, infirm, sick people will go comfortless that day UNLESS—

There'll be aching hearts and tear-filled eyes UNLESS—

We, who are more fortunate, become Volunteer Santa Claus—to fill Empty Stockings—Christmas Eve.

C'mon, be a Good Fellow;
send in your contribution to the Santa Claus bureau or call at the Girls' Community Service club, fourth floor, Runels building, Merrimack square.

Hundreds of Lowell children, boys and girls to whom Santa Claus is very real, wake up before the sun on Christmas morning, peer into empty stockings and wonder in their childish way if there is such a person after all.
Will you take Santa Claus into these homes? Will you help and co-operate in one of the most comprehensive, humanitarian service plans ever launched in the city?

Will you, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen, give from your more bountiful supply that the lives of these children of Lowell may be brighter and happier on this Christmas day? Will you "get" by giving and help in the creation of a Christmas spirit such as the city never before has felt?

Through the Girls' Community Service club, with its membership of 1200 young women who are anxious to do things for the city and its people, and a co-operative feature publicity services offered by The Sun, the opportunity is given to an unlimited number of Lowell men and women to share in bringing Christmas happiness into hundreds of households and into the lives of thousands of children. The plan is this:

At the Community Club there has chance of misguided service into homes which are not actually worthy.

The girls of the club will furnish many of the gifts and see to it that many of the letters are answered in terms of real joy, but the demand will far exceed the limited resources of these girls and as they desire to widen the scope of the service to embrace the entire city, the opportunity to contribute is extended to every man, woman and child. At the outset, there is positive assurance that there will be no hit or miss system in vogue in the classification of the children's letters or in the distribution of the gifts. Utmost care and precaution will be used and the entire community will benefit. On the one side will stand the people who give and on the other, those who receive. No reciprocity will be expected other than that which comes to each individual in the knowledge that he or she has found much joy in being able to do something for a fellow being.

In connection with the desire of the Girls' Club to enlarge the scope of the plan, The Sun has offered the service of its volunteer Santa Claus blank, printed above. By clipping and filling out this blank as you desire to lend your aid to the bureau and forthwith sending or carrying it to the Girls' Club in the Runels building you are at once a part of a great community service plan. If you desire to bring Christmas cheer to one or more families in your neighborhood in your own way, then fill out one of the first two declarations and ask to have names of such families sent to you. On the other hand if you wish to contribute money toward a fund for the purchase of gifts by the club, send your check or currency to the club address. Again, if you wish to send gifts to be distributed wherever the club finds need, take such contributions to the club and they will be gratefully received.

All contributed checks should be made payable to Katherine L. Cronin, recreational director of the club, who will establish a Santa Claus bureau account at the Appleton National bank with George E. King, president of the bank and treasurer of Lowell Community Service. All contributions, with names of contributors if desired, will be published in The Sun as received and it is the desire of the club also that complete financial statements be given publicly, as well as lists of articles contributed for distribution.

The officers of the club who are working as an executive committee, with three associated committees, are:
Miss Sadie McAncon, acting president; Miss Anna O'Leary, secretary, and Miss Nellie Ryan, treasurer. The three committees are the Santa Claus bureau committee, the amusement and finance committees. The first and third named will conduct the several activities now planned for the purpose of raising funds for the securing of Christmas gifts, such as a Christmas bazaar, box sale, dance, etc.

The volunteer Santa Claus coupon will appear in The Sun every other day, or sometimes every day, between now and Saturday, Dec. 20. Do not read it and pass it by. Clip it, fill it out and send it at once.

NAVY READY FOR ACTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Despite the rapid demobilization of personnel since the armistice, the navy is ready to meet any emergency. Secretary Daniels declared today in discussing published reports that the navy would be found unprepared if called upon for active service at this time.

John Nash, 65 years old, of Philadelphia, watching workmen removing a pedestal of the Washington monument in Independence square recovered a two-cent piece which he threw into the soft earth under the pedestal as it was being put in place one summer day in 1869.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE AND SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach and bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost.
Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Epsom's (Doubtless Strong) Salt. To this home and add to it 1 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dizziness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must therefore be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.—Adv.

TO-END FEDERAL SUGAR CONTROL

Abandonment of Government Attempts To Control Distribution

Government Will Confine Efforts to Prosecution of Profiteering in Sugar

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Abandonment of governmental attempts to control the distribution and sale of sugar was announced today by Attorney General Palmer.

After the sugar equalization board is dissolved, Dec. 31, the government will confine its efforts to prosecution of profiteering in sugar, Mr. Palmer said. Explaining the department's policy for the future, Mr. Palmer said he had "neither the power nor the facilities" to control the purchase or distribution of sugar. This was said to mean the end of the program for bringing in fresh supplies of sugar from Cuban and other sources. Apparently little use can be made of the new authority conferred upon Mr. Palmer by the president, who designated him as food administrator.

GERMANY MAKES DENIAL

Answer to Entente Protest Against Development of German Army

BERLIN, Wednesday, Dec. 3.—The government today gave out the text of the entente note of Dec. 1 protesting against the development of Germany's military forces. The note refers to the formation of bodies outside the actual army, such as the public security police, the volunteer guard and the citizens' guard. In contradiction, it is declared, of the peace treaty. The note says the organizing of these bodies "may be interpreted as an intention on the part of Germany not to fulfill the terms of the treaty," and it requests the German government to abolish these forces or to reduce them in accordance with the provisions of the treaty.

According to a semi-official explanation issued here, the government denies any intention of increasing the army. It declares that the reduction of the army to the stipulated limit of 100,000 is in full swing and it expresses regret that there has never been a beginning of the mutual discussion with the entente on the subject of the strength of the police forces which Germany finds it necessary to maintain in the interest of public security, although Germany several months ago, suggested such a discussion.

England To Act Regardless of U. S.

PARIS, Dec. 4. (Havas.)—Terms of the tripartite agreement guaranteeing France against unprovoked attack by Germany, will be carried out by Great Britain regardless of whether the United States, the other participant, ratifies the pact, according to newspapers here, which state that negotiations to this end have been almost completed between the French and British governments. with Mexico, also will be presented to the president.

Senator Hitchcock, it was learned at the White House, communicated with Secretary Tumulty late last night regarding the conference and said it was not necessary that the president see the senators immediately but the president decided to have the conference today.

The senators will go to the White House after the president's cabinet has held a special meeting at which the Mexican situation will be discussed. The meeting was called today by Secretary Lansing, who spent nearly two hours before the foreign relations committee yesterday, discussing the Fall and Hitchcock resolutions and the Mexican question generally.

The request of Senator Hitchcock that the president see the senators, was referred to Mr. Wilson and approval of the conference was given by Rear-Admiral Grayson, the president's personal physician.

The foreign relations committee will not meet until Monday to receive the report of the senators as to the president's views on the

Mexican question. Decision to have the senators visit the White House was reached by the committee after Secretary Lansing had told it that the president had not been consulted in the present diplomatic exchanges with Mexico regarding the Jenkins case.

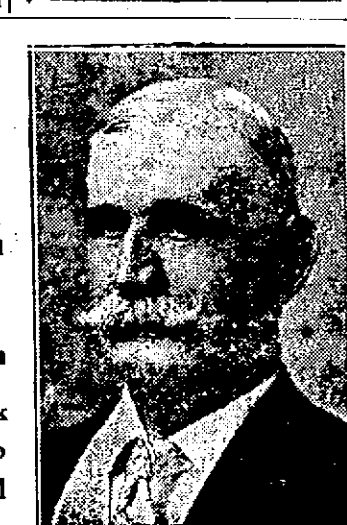

Immediately after arrangements were made for the conference, Senator Fall began assembling the evidence on which his charges against Mexican government representatives were based and preparing an abstract for presentation to the president. The senator plans to take all the evidence to the White House so it will be available for the president should he ask for it.

Although private advices received here yesterday said Carranza was preparing his reply to the latest American note, renewing the request for Jenkins release, state department officials said today they had received no official information on the subject. They added that no new reports regarding the Mexican situation had come to hand.

A TRAINED AND EXPERIENCED PUBLIC OFFICIAL
Chas. J. MORSE

Mr. Citizens: Just think carefully before you vote to retire from office a faithful and trusted official.

TO THE VOTERS OF LOWELL:—

I have builded your streets; I have constructed your sewers; I have improved your water department, and put it back on a basis of efficiency. I have worked Early and Late to make good on any job I have undertaken to put through, and have tackled a few big ones in my day. Even though I did celebrate my seventieth birthday last week, I am still young and vigorous enough to measure up to the requirements of office and render you honest and capable public service.

You do not need to be told my frailties and weaknesses. You are familiar with them. I am blunt, I admit, and lack a certain polish of mannerism, but I have done the ROUGH and CONSTRUCTIVE work of the city for years. AN EXPERIENCE THAT IS WORTH MANY A DOLLAR OF SAVING TO YOU BY MY CONTINUANCE IN OFFICE.

I have earned my salary many times over and have saved you many a dollar in knowing how to do a certain work in the right way the first time. You will pardon my frankness in bluntly telling you so.

I have no fault to find with honest criticism, nor has any fair-minded man, but I detest criticism based upon falsehood, and so do you. There are some men who may offer criticism upon matters, and even though in error are entitled to respect for their opinion. There are other men that criticism of their fellow-men should be the last privilege they would attempt to enjoy.

I have laid many a paving block on the streets of this city, but have never had one thrown at my head. The Pick and Shovel are more closely identified with my public service than Scissors and Horse Whips. So much for comparison.

I will not change much next year, if elected. I will simply go about my work in the same way as I have in past years, giving you AN HONEST DAY'S SERVICE, AND A GUARANTEE THAT EVERY DOLLAR PLACED IN MY KEEPING WILL BE WISELY SPENT. I ASK YOU TO TRUST ME WITH THE RESPONSIBILITY OF OFFICE AGAIN.

Signed, CHARLES J. MORSE,

Restrictions on Permits
LAREDO, Tex., Dec. 5.—Permits to cross the boundary into Mexico, heretofore voided by the Mexican consul at one point and good for all other border towns, have been revoked and beginning today they must be vided at each town, according to announcement at the Laredo Mexican consulate. This, it is said, will work a hardship on American salesmen visiting both sides of the border. The consulate gave no reason for the new regulation.

To Withdraw Americans
EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 5.—Border representatives of American concerns in Mexico today were preparing to carry out instructions for withdrawal of American citizens employed south of the Rio Grande.

While no immediate exodus of Americans of whom there are many hundreds, is expected, agents here are endeavoring to provide means for a quick movement north, if conditions become serious.

If the United States senate should adopt the resolution withdrawing recognition from the Carranza government, it was said, there would be an immediate exodus from Mexico leaving many mines and other properties idle and throwing thousands of Mexican laborers out of work.

Allies To Occupy Essen

LONDON, Dec. 5.—There was a persistent rumor in the stock exchange this morning that the supreme council of the peace conference had threatened Germany that, unless the final peace terms were agreed to, allied troops would occupy Essen and Frankfurt. Up to this time, the market has not been affected by the report.

Pock at Secret Session

PARIS, Dec. 5.—(Havas).—Participation by Marshal Foch in the secret meeting of the supreme council of the peace conference yesterday, clearly indicated that the council considers military action in case Germany should commit any new infraction of the twenty terms, according to newspaper here. During the meeting, says the Echo de Paris, Premier Clemenceau and Marshal Foch stated the unexpected departure of the German delegates from Versailles and the complicated points raised by the enemy leave no doubt whatever about the necessity of taking action.

It is remarked by the Petit Parisien that Germany considers it has gone too far and the newspaper says an unofficial note has been received from Berlin announcing that new negotiators will leave soon for Versailles.

DEPORTATION OF ANARCHISTS

Berkman and Emma Gold-

Probably Never To Return

Ordered Out of Country For Urging Overthrow of Government by Violence

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman, his companion in 30 years of anarchistic activities, were sent from the mainland of the United States today, probably never to return.

Ordered deported for urging overthrow of the government by violence, they were taken by ferry from the tip end of Manhattan to the immigration station at Ellis Island, where they will be held until a ship is available to send them to Russia, whence they came. Their liberty on bail expired when they were surrendered by their counsel at the demand of the department of labor. Berkman's career in America came to an end while Henry Clay Frick, whom he had attempted to assassinate, was being buried in Pittsburgh.

A stone's throw from the Statue of Liberty, the two most notorious anarchists in the country, probably will spend their remaining days in the

SWEEPING CUT IN TRAIN SERVICE

11,000 Tons of Coal Will Be Saved Daily by Greatest Reduction in History

Additional Industries Face Shutdown—More Drastic Conservation Rules

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Efforts of Governors of at least 10 states to have sufficient coal mined to provide for domestic consumers and absolutely essential industries, marked the progress today of the strike of bituminous coal miners.

Restrictions had been placed on consumption of fuel throughout the country from New York city to the Sierra Nevada mountains as the general situation at the mines showed virtually no improvement and the miners maintained their attitude of hostility toward the proffered 14 per cent wage increase.

Effective at midnight Sunday night, the most sweeping reduction of railroad service in history—reduction in passenger service of one-third in "train miles" on all railroads diverging west, southwest and northwest from Chicago—had been ordered. Regional directors of the central western regions estimated that that step alone would save 11,000 tons of coal daily. Other curtailments of railroad service were being considered today.

Drastic Conservation Rules

Additional industries faced shutdowns and more drastic conservation rules for cities that would bring them on parity with Chicago and Kansas City were in prospect. The strict supervision of the use of fuel and power, first ordered at Kansas City today, was surpassed at Chicago, which went on a six and one-half hour business schedule. Full force of the new restrictions here was expected to be felt today, after much confusion yesterday when they were only partly observed.

At the mines the situation generally

Body Warmth

It is hardly possible to insist too earnestly upon the supreme importance of an abundance of fat-nourishment during the winter to keep up energy and body-warmth.

Scott's Emulsion

is an easily assimilated fuel-food that is of particular advantage to those who feel winter's cold over-much. Scott's Emulsion nourishes the whole body and sustains strength.

Be sure it is Scott's.

Scott & Bower, Bloomfield, N. J.

was unchanged. A small addition to the net production was looked for, however, when Oklahoma put in effect the Kansas idea that daily is producing several carloads of coal—volunteer operation of mines under military protection.

Preparatory to state operation, 15 Missouri mines had been seized under a gubernatorial proclamation.

750,000 Face Loss of Work

Looking toward possible settlement of the coal strike on a state basis, the governor of Ohio has called a conference of representatives of the operator and the approximately 42,000 Ohio miners. Should the strike continue another 10 days it would throw out of employment 750,000 men in Ohio, it was estimated.

In Tennessee, Gov. Roberts had called a meeting for tomorrow of operators and miners to consider steps to end the strike without state seizure of the mines.

Relief for domestic consumers in Montana, where possibly the most actual suffering has been reported, was in sight with the announcement that coal was enroute from Canada. Portions of Wyoming and Nebraska still

Except for the order cutting off bunker coal from ships flying foreign flags, the first conservation measures along the eastern seaboard, were in effect today with the curtailing of the use of electricity at New York. No trains in the eastern region will be taken off unless "absolutely necessary," A. T. Hardin, regional director, announced.

Chicago's down town streets at night resemble those of a village so far as illumination is concerned. Only street lights are turned on. The confusion prevalent yesterday due to misunderstanding of the six and one-half hour business day rule was expected to be missing today, when virtually all business houses were due to open at 11 a. m., and close at 5:30 p. m. Office buildings were permitted to remain open only between 9 a. m. and 3:30 p. m.

Theatre box offices reported increased applications for seats. They ascribed the added business rather to the fact that many workers would not have to report for duty until late rather than to the fact that the number of performances had been cut to six a week, five evenings and one matinee.

General Advance for Bolshevik Forces

LONDON, Thursday, Dec. 4.—Bolshevik forces are making a general advance along the entire Denikine front, and have captured the towns of Koseletz, Romny and Borenia, while fierce fighting is proceeding for the possession of Bielgorod, according to a Bolshevik official statement received here. These towns are in the governments of Tchernigov, Poltava and Kursk, northeast of Kiev. On the eastern front, the statement declared, the Bolsheviks captured, on December 1, the city of Kairak, 150 miles east of Omsk. Many prisoners were taken, it is said. Southwest of Omsk, the Bolsheviks are said to have repaired the Siberian railroad near Akmolinsk, and are advancing toward Slavgorod.

Expresses Delight With Smooth Operation of Canal in Panama Address

PANAMA, Thursday, Dec. 4.—The night with the complete equipment and smooth operation of the Panama canal was expressed by Secretary Baker in an address given at the public reception held here tonight, in his honor. The secretary said he brought the thanks of the administration and the American people for the service rendered by employees in the canal zone, and for the part they played in the war.

The audience was assured by Mr. Baker that, as a result of the war, the freedom enjoyed by Americans would be made possible for all the people of the earth.

MODIFICATIONS IN PEACE TERMS WITH AUSTRIA

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The supreme council, in agreement with the Jugo-Slav delegation has conceded certain modifications in the peace terms with Austria affecting Jugo-Slavia, notably the advancing of the date for payments to the Jugo-Slav state on reparations due it. These modifications have been embodied in a declaration to be signed by the principal allied and associated powers and by Jugo-Slavia.

This will serve to meet the objections of Jugo-Slavia to the Austrian peace terms in sufficient measure, it is stated, to enable her delegates to sign the St. Germain pact, the treaty providing for the protection of racial minorities and the financial annexes to the peace treaty and will also assure the signing of the Bulgarian treaty of Jugo-Slavia.

Dr. A. T. Legg was in charge of the examination and he was assisted by Miss J. B. Merrill, Mrs. M. C. Low, executive secretary; Miss A. J. Haggart, clinic secretary, and Miss Robinson, were in charge of the secretarial work connected with the clinic. The nurses were Mrs. P. J. TO CUT MAIL RATES ON PUBLICATIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Reduction of second class mail rates on publications without changing the zone system of computing rates on advertising contents was proposed today in a bill introduced by Representative Fess, republican, Ohio, who said it was submitted to him by the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Congressional investigation of the cost of handling second class mail and the system of assessing charges also was proposed. Reading sections of publications would be charged one and one-quarter cents a pound under the bill, and the advertisement charges would be graduated, according to the parcel post zones, charges beginning with one and one-quarter cents for the first zone and increasing one-quarter of a cent for each zone traversed.

Theodore Roosevelt's Letters to His Children

Edited by

Joseph Bucklin Bishop

The nation, and especially the youth, was at about this time shocked by the fact that the president had casually invited Booker T. Washington, negro educator, to lunch with him. No public comment ever was made by Roosevelt on this act, which his closest friends always looked upon as an error of judgment. But in this letter to a man who knew the old southern negro as did none other, the president expresses the somewhat wishful hope that sectionalism might lose its bitterness through an appreciation of the child-like qualities of the real negro.

The Art of Uncle Remus
White House, Oct. 12, 1901.

My Dear Harris:
It is worth, while being president when one's small daughter receives that kind of an autograph gift. When I was younger than she is, my Aunt Annie Bulloch of Georgia, used to tell me some of the brer rabbit stories, especially the brer rabbit and the tar baby. But (and though I am of the brer rabbit stories I think I am even fonder of your other writings. I doubt if there is a more genuinely pathetic tale in all our literature than "Free Joe." Moreover, I have felt that all that you write serves to bring our people closer together. I know, of course, the ordinary talk is that an artist should be judged purely by his art; but I am rather a Philistine and like to feel that the "art" serves a good purpose. Your art is not only an art addition to our sum of national achievement, but it has also always been an addition to the forces that tell for decency, and above all for the blotting out of sectional antagonism.

A Ride and a Pillow Fight

Dear Kermit:
I was much pleased at your being made captain of your eleven. I would rather have you captain of the third eleven than playing on the second. Yesterday afternoon Ethel on Wyoming, mother on Yaganka and I on Kankana had a long ride, the only incident being meeting a large red automobile, which much shook Remus's nerves, although he behaved far better than he has hitherto been doing about automobiles. In fact, he behaved so well that I loaned over and gave him a lump of sugar when he had passed the object of terror. The old boy eagerly turning his head around to get it. It was lovely out in the country, with the trees at their very best of the fall coloring. There are no red maples here, but the Virginia creepers and some of the dogwoods give the red, and the hickories, tulip trees and beeches a brilliant yellow, sometimes almost orange. When we got home mother went upstairs first and was met by Archie and Quentin, each loaded with pillows and whispering not to let me know that they were in ambush; then as I marched up to the top they assailed me with shrieks and chuckles of delight and then the pillow fight raged up and down the hall. After my bath I read them from Uncle Remus. Usually mother reads them, but now and then, when I think she really must have a holiday from it, I read them myself.

Kermit Roosevelt, his wife and children. Quentin succeeded him as the baby of the Roosevelt family.

Study and Play

White House, Oct. 21, 1903.

Dear Ted:
I am really greatly pleased at your standing so high in your form, and I am sure that this year it is better for you to be playing where you are in football. I suppose next year you will go back to your position of end, as you would hardly be heavy enough for playing back, or to play behind the center, against teams with big fellows. I repeat that your standing in the class gave me real pleasure. I have sympathized so much with your delight in physical prowess and have been so glad at the success you have had, that sometimes I have been afraid I have failed to emphasize sufficiently the fact that of course one must not subordinate study and work to the cultivation of such prowess. By the way, I am sorry to say that I am falling behind physically. The last two or three years I have had a tendency to rheumatism, or gout, or something of the kind, which makes me very stiff.

Remus is behaving better about automobiles and the like. I think the difference is largely in the way I handle him. He is a very good-natured and gentle horse, but timid and not otherwise, and when in a panic his great strength makes him well-nigh uncontrollable. Accordingly, he is a bad horse to try to force by anything. If possible, it is much better to give him a little time, and bring him up as gently as may be to the object of terror. When he behaves well I lean forward and give him a lump of sugar, and now the old boy eagerly puts around his head when I stretch

by Olive Roberts Barton

Hello, little people! Did you ever have a pair of green shoes? "Nick" and "Nancy" have in "The Adventures of The Twins," the wonderful new story by Olive Roberts Barton. Today's story deals with the Magical Mushroom.

Nancy and Nick were very sad, for Jocko, their pet monkey had run away. He had taken his little black shoe button eyes, and his red coat, and his long, long tail and disappeared altogether. The twins (Nancy and Nick) were twins) looked everywhere for him, but all they could find were a few gains of sawdust on the porch, and a few more grains near the gate, and some more down by the apple-tree in the crooked lane. Jocko had a little rip in one side where the cloth was sewed and Nancy's heart ached as she thought of how careless she had been not to mend him, and how thin he must be getting.

"Why, it must be that mushroom talking," said Nick

you want?" "Oh, thank you," said the mushroom. "I never meant to grow in a cow field, I'm so afraid of being trampled. Didn't I hear you talking of a lost monkey? Perhaps I can help you for I'm magical, you know. So if you hide me back of that big stone, I'll tell you all about it tomorrow and by that time I'll have the green shoes."

After that it wouldn't say another word, and the twins left it wondering what a mushroom should want with shoes anyway.

They ran to the end of the lane and started through the meadow toward the woods. But half way across they out my hand. Blestein I have ridden very little, because I think one of his forelegs is shaky, and I want to spare him all I can. Mother and I have had the most lovely rides imaginable.

Quentin's First Fall

Dear Kermit:
Yesterday I felt rather seedy, having a touch of Cuban fever, my only unpleasant reminiscence of the Santiago campaign. Accordingly, I spent the afternoon in the house lying on the sofa, with a bright fire burning and mother in the rocking-chair, with her knitting, beside me. I felt so glad that I was not out somewhere in the wilderness, campaigning or hunting, where I would have to walk or ride all day in the rain and then lie out under a brush at night!

When Allan will come from the trainer's I do not know. Rather to my surprise, Ronald has won golden opinions and really is a very nice dog. Pickney loves him, and he sits up in the express swaggon just as it was what he had been born to.

Quentin is learning to ride the pony. He had one tumble, which, he remarked philosophically, did not hurt him any more than when I whacked him with a sofa cushion in one of our pillow fights. I think he will very soon be able to manage the pony by himself. Mother has just taken the three children to spend the afternoon at Dr. Rice's farm. I am hard at work on my message to congress, and accordingly shall not try to go out or see any either this afternoon or this evening. All of this work is terribly puzzling at times, but I peg away at it, and every now and then, when the dust clears away and I look around, I feel that I really have accomplished a little, at any rate. I think you stood well in your form taking everything into account. I feel you deserve credit for being captain of your football eleven, and yet standing as high as you do in your class. (To be Continued.)

Public Health Authorities Say Take Exercise

The death rate after the age of 40 is increasing in spite of more sanitary modes of living and greater protection against communicable disease. The expectation of life after 40 is less than it was 30 years ago. This is due largely to diseases of degeneration. The muscles, arteries and other organs of those who as a result of sedentary occupation or indolence take too little exercise degenerate. Heart disease, kidney disease and other ills follow.

Take exercise. Take daily exercise. Have a hobby that gets you out of doors. Walk to your business, to your dressmaker's, walk for the sake of walking. Join a walking club and keep your weekly score of miles. Keep chickens, make a garden, wheel the baby or play golf or any other game, but take two hours out door exercise every day. Gymnasium work is good for those who like it and can afford it, but you should avoid heavy athletics. Don't try to be a "strong man," the champion athlete often dies young. Be a moderate persistent, daily exponent of exercise. You may not burn the family carriage, as Benjamin Franklin suggested, but at least, as he advised, walk, walk, walk.

Answered
Q. My child was operated on four years ago for adenoids and enlarged tonsils, and though the tonsils give us no trouble the adenoids have returned. What shall I do?
A. It is unfortunately true that even after an operation, adenoids may recur. However, if the resulting obstruction is considerable, you will probably be well advised to follow the direction of your physician and have the child operated on again. The consequences of failure to remove the obstruction are more to be feared than the operation.

Q. Will you please tell me what is good for chronic diarrhoea?
A. It is not possible to say, offhand, just what is good treatment for chronic diarrhoea. Everything depends on the cause of the trouble and that can only be determined by a physician after a careful examination.
Be sure, therefore, to consult a good physician and follow his advice.

Edward Everett Hale in 1862 discovered what has been thought to be the first use of the name "California" in a Spanish novel, the Sergas de Esplandian, written about 1500, but now a scholar in Berkeley has found evidence that the author of the novel took "California" from the Chanson de Roland of the 11th century.

NO HEAT IN N. Y. CARS DURING RUSH HOURS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—New York's subway and elevated riding millions began this morning to carry their own heat with them as a coal conservation measure. Acting under orders of Public Service Commissioner Nixon, the subway and elevated managements abandoned for the rush hour periods their winter practice of heating trains. The explanation was given that when trains were crowded the passengers threw off enough bodily heat to keep each other warm.

The expedient was made effective for two weeks between the hours of 6.30 and 9.30 a. m., and from 4.30 to 7.30 p. m., daily. Officials of the companies said it meant a saving of approximately 1000 tons of coal a day, or 20 per cent. of the entire amount used by the lines.

Beginning tonight, it was announced the Great White Way in the theatrical district will go into a partial eclipse. Big electric signs will be operated only between the hours of 7.30 and 8.30 p. m.

SINBAD CLUB DANCE

One of the most enjoyable dancing parties of the season was held in Association hall last evening when the Sinbad club, an organization of popular Lowell young men, staged their annual social and dance. A large crowd turned out for the event. Miner-Doyle's orchestra was there, too. The committee in charge was: General manager, James Ahorn; assistant, James McFadden; floor director, Paul Dineen; assistant, Henry F. Doran; chief aid, M. Bradford.

71,000 K. OF C. MEN IN U. S. SERVICE

A nation-wide canvass made by the Knights of Columbus for data for their official history, now in process of publication, has just been completed. It reveals the fact that instead of 50,000 members of the organization having served in the army and navy during the war, over 71,000 knights were enlisted, and the proportion of enlistments was maintained everywhere on the basis of total membership. Newfoundland having the same proportion as New York state.

More than four hundred knights died in their country's service, the majority of these on the battlefield, and five Knights of Columbus secretaries lost their lives while in overseas service. The first American to be killed in the war, Lieut. William Fitzsimmons of Kansas City, was a Knight of Columbus and what is said to be the last death at the front was that of Rev. Chaplain John O'Flaherty, also a K. of C. Many distinctions were won by K. of C. including the first distinguished service cross awarded to Lieut. Henry Meyerling of Chicago; James Kelly of Washington, D. C., and Daniel J. Quinn of Maine, won the congressional medal of honor. Admiral William S. Benson and General John F. O'Ryan are among the high officers members of the K. of C., the long list of civilian members who rendered distinguished service includes John D. Ryan and Edward N. Hurley, Corporal Michael Hennessey, said to be Sergt. Alvin's York's runner-up as the bravest American, is a knight.

Four Members of Crew Drowned

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Four members of the crew of the two-masted schooner Mary E. Lynch were drowned today, when an unidentified tug struck and sank the vessel, which was lying off the foot of 32nd street in the Hudson river. The captain of the sunken vessel, Andrew M. Francis, was rescued. He and the other members of the crew, all negroes, live in Miami, Fla.

Nancy Doesn't Like "Lady" She'd
Rather Be Mrs. Astor

Lady Astor visiting a coal mine during her campaign. Below are Lady Astor and her husband.

BY ZOE BECKLEY

N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

PLYMOUTH, England, Dec. 4.—The first woman to invade the sacred floor of the house of commons in England, is an American "Gibson Girl," Lady Astor, who says:

"I'm proud of my Virginian blood." She hopes to get rid of the "lady" business before long, and become again plain "Mrs. Astor" or "Nancy" as Plymouth still addresses her.

She disclaims any ambitions toward a political career and goes to parliament to carry on her husband's work while he is trying to get rid of his unwelcome "viscount" title, so he can run again.

"And I shall not oppose him," says "Nancy."

Plymouth will now be represented in the house of lords by Lord Astor and in the house of commons by his wife.

The late Lord Astor is probably turning in his grave. He sacrificed friends, threw over his American citizenship and endured the scorn of the nation of his birth to get a British title.

His son, who stepped into the title automatically, doesn't want it and is moving heaven and earth to get rid of it—called by "Nancy."

"I find," says the new Lord Astor, "that it will require a special act of parliament." It is expected that this legislation will be introduced by his wife.

Although Lady Astor goes to parliament in the hope that her husband may soon replace her, she does not intend to simply "sit there."

She is a foe of slums, sweatshops and Bolshevism and, she says: "I will be fighting every minute for what I think is right, though I don't propose to be talking all the time." Her social work in Plymouth, where she is often formed "Lady Bountiful" and her happy personality made her popularity.

The old custom in the commons is for members to wear their hats, but to remove them when rising to address the house.

A woman can't be expected to be forever removing and readjusting her hat, so the house will probably pass a resolution cancelling the hat formalities in the case of women members.

Whether she will be called "the noble lady" or "the honorable member" remains to be settled.

"I don't care," says Lady Astor. A room has already been selected for the first woman member and it will be refurnished and refitted after centuries as the exclusive domain of man.

The coldest period of the day is usually a few minutes after sunrise. This is owing to the fact that when the sun first strikes the earth it causes the evaporation of a chilling moisture.

HIGHLAND CHURCH ELECTS OFFICERS

The Highland Congregational church people met last night for the annual election of officers and transacted of legal business at the close of the fiscal year. The pastor, Rev. Arthur S. Beale, presided as moderator and the work as reported was considered very satisfactory from the standpoint of progress.

James Bradley was elected a deacon for three years, to fill the place made vacant by the removal from the city of Frederick R. Cobb. Mrs. Fred Ingham and Mrs. Charles Morgan were elected deaconesses for four year terms. Alfred M. Caswell was re-elected collector and other officers chosen included: Frederick A. PILGRIM FAIR AT THE GRACE CHURCH

The three-day Pilgrim Fair now in session at the Grace Universalist church, which is being held in commemoration of the landing of the Pilgrims 300 years ago, will come to a close this evening with a splendid supper and the presentation of a romantic comedy in four acts entitled "A Rose of Plymouth Town" by an all-star cast. This afternoon an entertainment for children was given in which the Misses Marguerite and Verna Barr played the stellar roles.

Last evening's program consisted of several vaudeville acts in which both local and professional artists appeared. Among the local entertainers were Miss Dorothy S. Leeds, Miss Linda Weinbeck, Herbert S. Lewis, Miss Virginia Byam, Miss Margaret Martin and Mr. Ellis.

MUST SPEND 3 BILLIONS

New R.R. Equipment Needed
To Avert Still Higher
Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—New railroad equipment costing approximately $3,000,000,000 must be bought within the next few years if the American people are to avert a still higher cost of living, said Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, before the reconstruction conference of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents here today.

Mr. Elliott, who spoke on the subject, "The Efficient Transportation Machine a National Necessity," said that there could be no higher function for the great life insurance companies at the present time than to make it plain to all the people that "our railroads must not be crippled but on the contrary they must keep abreast of the times and be prepared to serve the great and growing future of the country."

The speaker said that without an increase in freight and passenger rates, a very large number of railroad companies would face bankruptcy and that very few of those who escaped would be able to pay stockholders. The year would end, there was every indication, he said, with a deficit of perhaps $350,000,000 for all railroad operations. The country cannot have an efficient transportation machine nor can investments in railroad securities be protected, he said, unless the roads are given higher compensation to maintain them efficiently.

The speaker said that the Association of Railway Executives in a recent questionnaire to some 6000 editors, asked them to express their opinion on government ownership and control, and that 53 per cent replied that their communities were in favor of the return of the roads to their owners. He said that everyone of the 53,223,731 life insurance policy holders in the United States were vitally interested in the solution of the transportation problem because among the assets securing their policies were nearly $2,000,000,000 of railway securities. These policy holders, with the rest of the 105,000,000 people in the country, he said, desired to see a continuous development of the railroads for the purpose of increasing the food and fuel supply and the production of articles necessary for clothing, shelter and our modern American life.

Declaring that even today, in the months of heaviest business, that the nation's transportation machine was operated virtually at capacity and that there was "a small margin of safety," Mr. Elliott said that the American standard of living must decline if the general development of the railroads were checked. "The people cannot survive without the railroads and our railroads cannot survive without our people," he concluded. "They go hand in hand for good or ill."

F.D. GARDNER

CHICAGO—Gov. Frederick D. Gardner, of Missouri, has called the governors of the bituminous coal mining states into conference to determine what action should be taken to insure sufficient production of coal. The conference recommended to the federal government a fuel board with an administrator for each state.

After working on a farm for 19 years without an accounting, a farmhand of Jefferson City, Or., suddenly sued his employer, claiming that his labor has been worth a dollar a day—"round." He admitted that he had received a little money, once in a while, "just to keep him going," but the boss, who is wealthy, never bothered about a definite settlement. A jury of Lane county farmers has awarded the farmhand $1200 and the attorney's fees for his 19 years' work.

The higher go the prices on shoes, the more money you save on every pair of Travelers. As you know, shoe prices have been continually increased, on all sides—and they're still going up!

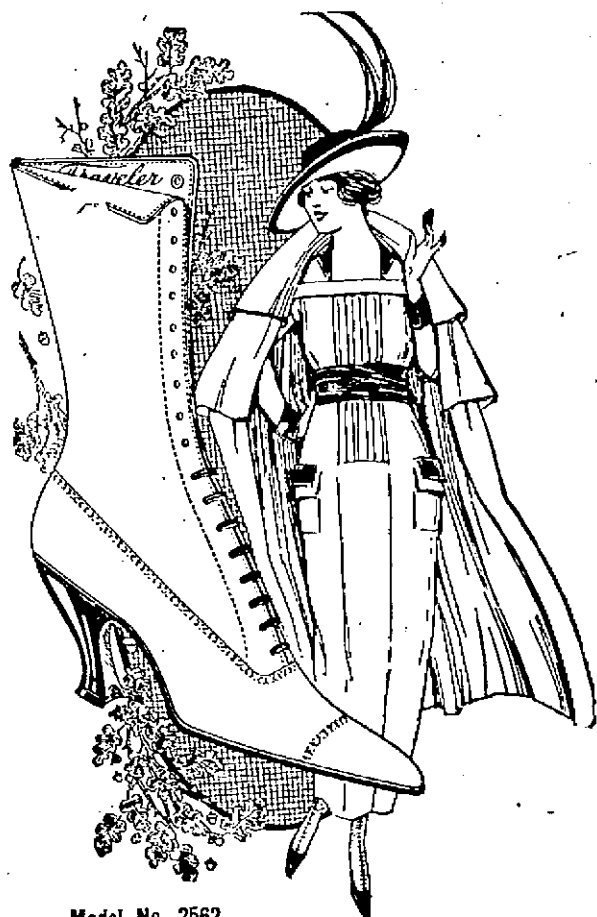

The difference between these prices and Traveler prices is getting larger all the time. So on a pair of Travelers bought today, you save more money than if you bought them early in the Fall.

During the last week, we've assembled a great gathering of new Winter Styles. And we've renewed our assortments on all the best sellers of recent weeks.

The Traveler Maker-Direct-to-Wearer Way saves you the extra price you pay in other shoe stores, and this saving to you is greater now than ever.

We figure the lasting good will of the wearer as part of our profit on every pair of shoes we sell.

Traveler Values never allowed to go down. Our percentage of profit never allowed to go up—not even now!

QUESTION RAISED BY VOTE FOR LICENSE

SALEM, Dec. 6.—In this city there has been raised a question which will undoubtedly attract wide attention throughout the state, especially in those cities which, at their municipal elections, voted license.

According to the legal department of this city, Salem, by voting for license Tuesday, resurrected for duty the license commission of the city, which commission under the law, must organize March 1 and are entitled in this city if they saw fit, to put in their claim, to $200 compensation each, with $100 additional to the chairman, even though, due to national prohibition, they cannot grant licenses.

The granting of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors is covered by chapter 100 of the revised laws. Section seven of the law tells the story in brief, when, after stating that if a city does not vote license, the powers and duties of the license commission are then invested in the mayor and aldermen, the following is found:

"If said city shall, at a subsequent annual city election, again vote to authorize the granting of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor, the obligations imposed by the provisions of the preceding section (relating to salaries, etc.) shall be revived and shall attach to said city from and after the first day of March next, following such vote and from and after said date the power and duties of the mayor and aldermen relative to licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor and licenses of inn-holders and common victuallers shall revert in the licensing board appointed in said city."

The voters of Salem Tuesday went on record in favor of a license regime for the first time in 10 years. However, with the national prohibition amendment working there can be no sale of intoxicating liquors and no licenses can be granted. What a license commission will have to do under the circumstances is a matter of conjecture. Intoxicating liquors cannot be sold, therefore, it is useless to grant any licenses.

Yet the law says that following a vote for license the license commissioners shall organize. But if the prohibition law prohibits the granting of licenses, for what could they legally collect their $200 fees to which, having organized for business, it is claimed, they would have a strictly legal claim as having complied with the law and being "ready for business."

It is declared here that unless the city council with the approval of the mayor, sees fit to change the salary of the members of the license commission, they will each be in line for $200 next spring, with the chairman, as secretary, drawing down $100 additional. This salary matter is covered in section six of the law, the power being vested in the city council "subject to the approval of the mayor." It has been suggested that they could vote to make the compensation one cent or something nominal.

INDIGESTION!

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. The pepsin, the most effective of all the digestants, helps to digest the food and the laxative properties act on the bowels. It aids the digestive organs to work naturally so that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

You can buy a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for 50c and $1, the latter sufficient to enable an entire family to enjoy food for months.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over 6 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 511 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

of three. So our party—which included H. C. Raven, Smithsonian naturalist, and Dr. H. L. Shants, government agricultural explorer, and myself—two had to walk. The lot fell to Dr. Shants and I. We walked 16 miles, to the elephant shambles and back—half the distance before breakfast.

Down in the "kloof," or valley, we were in the worst danger. For there the water holes that attract the elephants. Up the other side we went, all absolutely lost in the thorn jungle, except Mayor Pretorius—who seems to possess an almost supernatural sense of direction, an ability to find his way in the thickest and darkest bush.

Kafir boys armed with axes and bush knives went ahead of us, clearing a path. Our faces and hands were scratched, our clothes torn and our shoes looked as if they had gone through a buzz-saw by the time we reached the first elephant.

The giant lay on his side, a bullet hole under his right eye. The major had shot him at six paces. In his death agony the mammoth had thrashed the bushes down so that there was a clearing.

A crew of boys left behind had started skinning, and the place looked like a shambles. Elsewhere through the bush, between this spot and the place a quarter of a mile distant where another elephant had been killed, and for a greater distance, we laboriously followed the "spoor" (trail) of the one that had been wounded and escaped. Great, thick patches of blood could be seen. Trees and bushes had been uprooted, as if a steam shovel had ploughed through.

Two dozen Kafir boys were at work on the dead hulks. And, horrible enough, their first act was to open the carcass, scoop out double handfuls of blood and drink it! They think it makes them brave!

DANGER NEVER ABSENT

Thierry Lost in the Jungle—Mad Elephants All Around

BY EDWARD M. THIERRY

followed up the hunt the day after Major Pretorius had bagged three of the mammoths.

One huge bull elephant had escaped the day of the hunt. The major had wounded him in two places, probably fatally. The bleeding beast was roaming the bush, uttering terrifying screams and trumpeting forth a fear-some cry for revenge.

He had to be faced, though. When you shoot an elephant you can't bundle him into your game bag and go home. You have to leave him, miles from camp, and go out the next day, with skull, skeleton and hide have to be retrieved for scientific purposes. Tusks must be obtained for museums or commercial dealers. And the meat has to be preserved for food.

Horses were at a premium in Major Pretorius' camp the day after we had of the Smithsonian African expedition had grandstand seats at the slaughter

Order To Discontinue Strike Obeyed

ROME, Dec. 5.—The order for the discontinuation of the strike called after the recent disturbances following the opening of parliament, has been generally obeyed. The strikers as a rule resumed work here and in the other affected towns.

raignment today was George S. Ladd of Sturbridge, Mass., former master of the Massachusetts State Grange. As the coming legal battle draws nearer, there are indications that it will be a long-drawn out fight. An army of attorneys for the defense already is mobilizing, including Martin W. Littleton, who acted for Mr. Newberry in the New York grand jury proceedings.

Six hundred automobiles were built in 1900. The estimate for 1919 is 6,000,000.

PRES. WOOD PLANS TO BUILD NEW TOWN

ANDOVER, Dec. 5.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, announced yesterday some of his plans regarding the development of Frye Village, hereafter to be known as Shawshoon Village. This sparsely settled section of Andover, which has had only a few hundred residents for many years, will have, it is estimated, a population of 5000 inside of two years and the real estate valuation will be increased by nearly $2,000,000, it is expected.

Pres. Wood, who last year created Abertyle, a handsome estate consisting of a modern residence and garage surrounded by trees more than 30 years of age, clusters of birches, handsome shrubbery and an artificial lake where only a year ago was a hayfield, has enlarged his plans for the development of his property. What Pres. Wood has started will be continued by the American Woolen company.

Practically every old house in Frye Village Center has been removed to another location and remodeled, it being Mr. Wood's idea to provide as many comfortable homes as possible in the section which he is developing. In place of the older structures modern single and double houses have been built, many of them of brick, valued from $12,000 to $15,000.

A new postoffice building to contain a large general store and several offices. A community ice house and a community laundry are projected. The wooden bridge over the Shawshoon river is to be replaced with a wide, modern concrete structure, handsomely decorated. A new Boston & Maine railroad station is to be built at a point convenient for residents of the village. A brush and broom factory to replace the old mill at the village is being built and eventually a five-story yarn mill will probably be erected.

New streets are being laid out, sewer and water pipes laid, concrete walks constructed, and all electric and telephone wires are being put underground.

To provide homes with a view to relieving the acute housing problem, prompted Pres. Wood to start the houses and after beginning on a small scale he gradually elaborated the scheme until practically a new town is in prospect. It is understood that eventually many American Woolen company officials now at the Boston offices will have quarters in an office building at Shawshoon village.

Pres. Wood is selling the houses he is building practically at cost and makes arrangements whereby employees of his mills can pay for their homes by the month, the rent including a payment on the principal so that in a few years the parties will own their homes clear of indebtedness. One feature of the development of Shawshoon Village will be a handsome drinking fountain for animals in the village square a gift to the town from Mr. and Mrs. Wood, in memory of their daughter Irene, who died about a year ago. Speaking of the fountain, which is to be beneath some huge elm trees and which is to be unveiled in the spring, President Wood said: "Irene was fond of animals and I think she would have liked to have placed a fountain right in that spot for them if she had been spared us. My wife and I feel that it is something she would like."

Has He Found a Cure for Asthma?

Simple Prescription Gives Instant Relief—Makes Breathing Easy

In New England, where Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis and other diseases of the throat and lungs are so prevalent, remarkably successful results are being reported following the use of a new form of treatment known as Oxidaze, a physician's prescription.

Oxidaze is a harmless but powerful combination of curative essential oils concentrated and compressed into a small tablet. One of these tablets slowly dissolved before going to bed seems to have the effect of releasing the muscular constriction of the bronchial tubes, opening up the air passages and regulating spasmodic lung action. This enables the patient to breathe easily and naturally while lying down and to get a comfortable night's sleep.

So much interest has been shown that local druggists, including Lowell Pharmacy have secured a small supply and state that they are authorized to refund the money paid for the first package if in any case this new treatment fails to give relief. Oxidaze is pleasant to take, contains no harmful drugs and is not expensive. This makes their test an easy matter.—Adv.

POLO NOTES
Salem now right up there at the top will play Lowell at the Crescent rink tonight and a great game is expected.

Salem and Lowell are looked upon as two of the speediest teams in the league and all contests between these two clubs have been closely contested and strenuously fought right up to the final sound of the big horn.

Capt. Hardy, who is now playing at his best, has his club battling all the way and the fans down in "wichville" are confident that he will direct the team to the pennant.

WILL RIDE TO HOUNDS ON 13th
On Saturday, Dec. 13, the good people of Billerica will be aroused by the baying of hounds, the call of horns and the rumble of pounding hoofs, but be not alarmed, for it simply will be members of the Middlesex Sports Association riding to hounds on the trail of the fox. For that is the day on which the association has voted to hold its first annual fox hunt on the rolling land of Billerica.

The association now has more than 1000 members enrolled, but good neighbors of Billerica, they do not all ride to hounds on the same day.

NATIONAL CLUB WINS
The National club football team composed of boys from Lincoln street and vicinity defeated the Eagles of the Highlands on the Highland club grounds by the score of 58 to 14. The winners put it all over their opponents, showing wonderful form in all the points of the game.

They also displayed much class in executing the forward pass and in the tower of strength for the field running completely bewildered the Eagles. John Sullivan and Daley also showed much ability in playing their positions. The other members of the National club contributed their share to the great victory.

EAST AND WEST CLASH IN HAVERHILL STADIUM

Arrangements are all made, contracts are signed and everything is in readiness for what promises to be one of the biggest intersectional football games ever played between two high school elevens in New England when Englewood high of Chicago meets Haverhill high at the big stadium in Haverhill next Saturday. That the contest will be a hard fought one is assured, particularly when the record of both teams is concerned.

Englewood high invades the east with the enviable record of not having been defeated in the past five years. There are those, however, who believe they will have to look to their laurels as they are to compete with a team fully capable of giving them battle and it will be no great surprise if Haverhill pins another scalp to its long list of victories.

Haverhill high has played 12 games this year and have scored 166 points against their opponents 45. They defeated Dean Academy 2nd, Lynn Classical, Peabody, Brookline, Lawrence, Lowell, St. John's, Fitchburg and Adams. They played a tie game at the opening of the season with Dorchester and were defeated by Manchester and by New Hampshire state freshman teams.

Haverhill has been coming stronger every minute for the past six weeks and their final clash when they defeated Adams high, champions of the championship of western Massachusetts by a score of 34 to 0, evidences of that fact.

Carlson of Haverhill High is one of the greatest open field runners and dodgers who has been brought out by any high school team this year. He considered the Eddie Casey of school elevens.

Legasse is one of the most consistent line plungers and ground gamers ever seen on a high school campus and Carbone, captain of the team, is one of the best offensive and defensive full backs Haverhill has ever developed.

Englewood High is an undefeated champion and has scored 259 points on opponents 20. The eleven has won six games tied one, lost none. The weight of the line averages 161 and the back field 152.

Dixon at left is considered their star punter, while Polz at quarterback is said to be one of the fastest open field runners on any school-boy team in America. He is also a consistent drop kicker. Captain Mathis at center has been the star punter of the Chicago league and his defensive work has been spectacular.

Englewood is in perfect condition, according to a telegram dated Dec. 2, which also states that they are practicing for their game in Haverhill next Saturday. Haverhill also is in perfect condition and when the clash comes the supremacy of eastern and middle western football will be determined.

The stands at the Haverhill stadium accommodate 578 people while there is standing room for as many more. The game will be called at 2 o'clock sharp.

CARPENTIER WON IN FIRST ROUND

French Champion Knocks Out Britisher in 1 Minute and 14 Seconds

THOMAS B. LOVE VINDICATED

DALLAS, Tex.—In recognition of the injustice done him four years ago, when false reports deprived him of office, Thomas B. Love has this time been appointed Democratic national committeeman from Texas. He is working for McAdoo for president in 1920.

From the moment the referee, B. J. Angle, called time, Carpentier had the battle entirely in his own hands. Beckett never had a chance of hitting the agile Frenchman, who landed blows with enormous strength whenever he felt inclined.

Terrific Swing Lands Battle

Amid absolute stillness most of the spectators could hear the crack of the swing that put Beckett to sleep. There was a roar of cheering as Carpentier assisted Beckett to his corner, where the Englishman opened his eyes and saw his opponent being carried on the shoulders of some of the enthusiasts around the ring—and the Frenchman was smiling happily.

The contestants presented a notable difference in appearance when they stepped into the ring. Carpentier, who was white-skinned, with slight figure, Carpentier, looked about him as though he were a stranger in a strange land. Beckett, on the other hand, was a dark-skinned, heavy-set man, with a thick mustache and a serious expression.

As a fight the contest was not spectacular. Carpentier was fast on his feet, dancing in and out and playing havoc with the Englishman from the first round. With lightning swiftness Carpentier's left hand leaped out and caught Beckett on the face, and a suppressed sigh was heard all over the house. A quick breakaway followed, and the Frenchman landed two more hard lefts.

Winner Receives Ovation Beckett with a sort of bulldog determination forced Carpentier almost to the ropes. But this was a diversion for a moment only, for the Frenchman stepped back and then forward and, with all his strength and the right weight of his blow, swung his right hand to the Englishman's jaw and Beckett went down and out.

Carpentier helped to carry Beckett to the Englishman's corner as this was done and his second said to him: "Joe, you're out."

Beckett was unable to understand it all for a moment, but he seemed to comprehend when the crowd began to invade the ring.

Carpentier was hoisted to the shoulders of the first of the crowd that reached him. Everybody in the stadium was cheering, including the Prince of Wales, while tens of thousands of persons who had gathered outside the street were shouting their tribute to the victor.

After the fight Beckett said to the newspaper men: "I hadn't started to fight when I got hit. I didn't realize what had happened. I was just 'flying in' for the first round when he slipped in."

The betting was heavy before the contest, odds of 7 to 4 being laid on Beckett and most of these persons were losers, although Carpentier had plenty of supporters.

Carpentier's Career Georges Carpentier was born at Lens, France, Jan. 12, 1894. He began boxing when only 13 years old. This was in 1907, when boxing was beginning to be popular in France. He was both skillful and aggressive, and in 1909 scored many victories, defeating among others, Charles Ledoux, the French bantamweight champion.

Carpentier took on weight quickly, and two years later he was meeting and defeating men in the welterweight division. The Frenchman scored his first sensational victory when he knocked out Jim Sullivan, the English middleweight, in two rounds at Monte Carlo in 1912.

At about the following year, Carpentier, after being knocked down twice by Bonharder Wells, the English heavyweight, knocked out the British representative in the fourth round. The fact that a French lad, 15 years old, and only a middleweight, had knocked out the eleven-year-old heavyweight seemed to some of the latter's backers a fluke.

Carpentier dispelled this doubt, however, when he went to London and knocked out Wells a second time, ending the bout in the opening round. Forty days afterward Carpentier fought and defeated the English middleweight champion, and scored a knockout in the second round.

Joe Jeannette, the American negro heavyweight, defeated Carpentier early in 1914, but after that and prior to the declaration of war between France and Germany the French champion won decisively against the English and American fighters. In each case winning on a foul.

A few hours after the Smith fight, Carpentier, who was in England, returned to France on the night boat in answer to his country's call to arms and the following day was in uniform.

During his early ring career Carpentier grew rapidly from a bantamweight to a light heavyweight, and beat the European champions in each class as he progressed. His popularity among the French people was unbounded and he amassed a fortune variously estimated at from $200,000 to $500,000. Most of this money he invested in coal mines near Lens, where he was born, and lost everything there by the German invasion.

During the war Carpentier was conspicuously daring as an aviator. He was frequently commended by his superior officers and among the many decorations conferred on him was the military medal, the highest war honor that can be given to a French soldier.

Dempsey Ready LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, said last night that Georges Carpentier's victory over Joe Beckett in the first round was no surprise to him as he and his manager, Jack Kearns, had picked the French champion to win.

Dempsey said that Carpentier was more a clever fighter and harder hitter than Beckett.

"I am ready to fight Carpentier or any other fighter in the world, if I got my chance," Dempsey said.

"Carpentier, in all probability, will be my next opponent and the meeting probably will come off next spring."

A Simple Way to Remove Dandruff There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

ACCUSE BECKETT OF "SHEER STUPIDITY"

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Experts, in commenting on last night's fight, in which Georges Carpentier of France knocked out Joe Beckett of England, in the first round, concurred in saying that victory went to the best man and that Carpentier won by his speed and cleverness.

Beckett's manager says Carpentier "brought off a million to one chance," but this is not the view of expert onlookers, the Daily Mail's critic, writing: "He was superior in height, weight and reach. He is a great fellow physically, but the less said about his judgment the better."

Perhaps he was over confident, but anyway, he gave his opponent a chance which no novice would have offered. The blow with which Carpentier won, was too simple for words. It could have been easily avoided, and the counter to it would have been an extremely dangerous blow. Yet Beckett walked right into the danger zone. What he did was simple and stupid, and there is no excuse for him.

After Carpentier had been carried around the ring, the Prince of Wales cordially shook his hand and congratulated him. The prince also shook Beckett's hand, saying: "Better luck next time."

NO PROSPECT OF CUT IN COST OF LIVING

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Reduction of the high cost of living seems only a "remote possibility" to William A. Day, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York. Mr. Day describes the present situation as betraying "a passion for expenditure in the pursuit of pleasure and costly non-essentials which has no parallel in history."

These assertions were made by Mr. Day in the course of an address he delivered here today before the reconstruction conference of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

"The war," said Mr. Day, "thrust upon us an unnatural and unbalanced prosperity and has left us a legacy of inflation, speculation and excessive improvidence. A large volume of easy money has found its way into the pockets of many people to whom a substantial cash surplus was a new and tempting possession." This, he added, had been followed by a great passion for expenditure and pursuit of pleasure by those of improvident and self-indulgent tendencies.

Popular extravagance, he declared, had naturally led to governmental extravagance, as a result of which the average American family would be called upon to pay in federal taxes for the year ending June 30, 1920, about $235, compared with $167.50 in 1914, an increase of 50 percent. In this particular factor of the cost of living, high prices resulting from inadequate production and depletion of supplies have, he said, "but served to whet the appetite of the spendthrift." He protests vigorously as the provident man against the high cost of the necessities of life but he eagerly pays high prices for luxuries and other non-essentials, and for early service he is often willing to pay a premium above the market price.

"With so many people in this spendthrift mood, so many outbidding each other for some of the necessities and most of the luxuries of life, any material reduction in the high cost of living seems a remote possibility. Every individual and every organization of individuals," concluded Mr. Day, "must assist in bringing our people back to the practice of rational economy."

Despite what Mr. Day characterized as "the present unparalleled passion for needless spending," he said there had been an unprecedented increase in the amount of life insurance written in the United States in the present year. Statistics gathered for the Association of Life Insurance Presidents placed the total volume of new insurance for the year at $7,712,000,000, compared with $4,800,000,000 for the heaviest previous year, 1918. This amount, Mr. Day said, would exceed all the insurance outstanding in all the companies 20 years ago.

In explaining why this great increase occurred, Mr. Day said the heavy death toll from the war and the influenza epidemic had brought almost every household in the United States face to face with the uncertainties of life and had given a great stimulus to life insurance.

EXCITEMENT IN ITALIAN CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

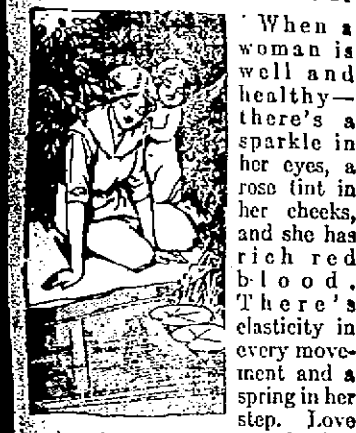

ROME, Dec. 4.—The chamber of deputies opened yesterday amid great excitement, socialist deputies being present in larger numbers than on Tuesday and the Catholic party members all appearing in their seats.

Socialist Deputy Treves resumed his protests against what he termed the indulgences suffered by his companions and declared he represented the wishes of all parties who understood the grave hour through which the country was passing.

Catholic Deputy Mauri, in reply, admitted the situation was serious and deplored reported violence, urging that a union of all parties was necessary to bring about a spirit of pacification.

All of the Catholics applauded, but the socialists denounced Mauri, crying: "Long live the pope-king," alluding ironically to the loyalty of the Catholics to the pope up to a few

NATURE'S MIRROR

When a woman is well and healthy—there's a sparkle in her eyes, a rose tint in her cheeks, and she has rich red blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in her step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health—but when she is pallid, dull eyed, languid, she has no magnetism nor does she appeal to any man.

Such a change in feelings and looks!

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

Premier Nitti, in a short statement, agreed with Social Deputy Treves that the hour was grave for Italy and declared it was for that reason he sought the union of all Italian forces.

Former Premier Vittorio Orlando then assumed the presidency of the chamber, to which position he was recently elected.

This retort aroused the resentment of the remaining members of the chamber and in reply to their expressions of disapproval, Socialist Deputy Barberis shouted: "If you don't like us get out. We will go on alone."

LOWER CAR FARES IN THREE TOWNS

As the result of action on the part of Mayor Perry D. Thompson, the public trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts

Sells Street Railway Co. have agreed to put into effect at once a reduced car fare rate in the towns of North Billerica, Tewksbury and Collinsville. From now on, or as soon as Manager Thomas Leers of the local division is able to put the new schedule into effect.

No More Catarrh

This Simple Home Treatment Has Stood the Test of Time

Every fall and winter, for more than twenty years, thousands of people have made it a daily practice to breathe the air of Hyomel and so keep themselves free from Catarrh, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat and Influenza.

This is certain and you should try it. If you will breathe Hyomel daily, as directed, it will free you and keep you free from all these troubles or it won't cost you a cent.

Any reliable druggist can supply you with the Complete Hyomel Outfit, including a hard rubber pocket inhaler and extra bottles of the liquid Hyomel cost but a few cents. A few drops of oil in the inhaler will last for days heating air, breathed deep in the air, should keep you free from colds, coughs, influenza and catarrh all winter long. Pleasant to use, takes but a few minutes daily and is guaranteed to satisfy or money back.—ADV.

fect, the car fare between those towns and Lowell will be 12½ cents instead of 15 as is now the case. The $1.00 ticket, good for 16 rides, which is in use on the local lines, will hereafter be good in the suburbs mentioned.

However, the trustees cannot see their way clear to comply with Mayor Thompson's request that the reduced rate also be put into effect in Chelmsford because of the loss sustained by the railway company alleged to be due to "unfair jitney competition between North Chelmsford and Lowell."

In his letter of last Monday the mayor also asked that the last cars on local lines leave Merrimack square at 11 o'clock on Sunday nights instead of 10.30 as is now the rule, but the trustees reply that this cannot be put into effect at once due to the coal shortage occasioned by strikes.

The trustees' letter as received by the mayor late yesterday afternoon was as follows:

Dec. 3, 1919.
Hon. Perry D. Thompson, Mayor, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir:

The public trustees have considered your request for reduced car fare for North Billerica, Tewksbury, Collinsville and Chelmsford, and directions will immediately be given to Manager Leers to put into effect experimentally a 12½ cent rate between Lowell and

High street, North Billerica; Lowell and Tewksbury Centre postoffice; and Lowell and Collinsville.

This reduced rate will be effective only by the use of the 16 for $1 punch ticket now in use in the Lowell central zone without transfer privilege.

On these three lines the conductor will punch the ticket twice for through passage.

We regret very much to inform you that it will be impossible to extend this reduced rate ticket to the Chelmsford lines on account of the loss sustained by the unfair jitney competition between North Chelmsford and Lowell.

You may have noticed that at a recent town meeting the people of Chelmsford decided not to accept the jitney act or to do anything to restrict the jitney competition, although our representatives clearly pointed out that if this wasteful competition did not exist the public trustees would be able to immediately reduce the fare between North Chelmsford and Lowell, and Chelmsford Centre and Lowell, from 15 cents to 12½ cents by use of the Lowell reduced fare ticket.

In regard to the later service in Lowell on Sunday night, we are obliged to inform you that on account of the acuteness of the coal shortage situation it would be impossible to take any steps in that direction just now as we feel sure it would not meet with the approval of the public officials in charge of the distribution of fuel.

We earnestly hope that the reduced rates for Billerica, Tewksbury and Collinsville will work out as successfully as you assured us the reduced rate local ticket would when we had our conference on your initiative in Boston recently. Very truly yours,

HOMER LORING,
Chairman of Public Trustees.

URGE PASSAGE OF WATER POWER BILL

Mayor Perry D. Thompson received a telegram today from Cornelius Y. Burns, chairman of the legislative committee of the New York state mayors' conference, now being held in Troy, N. Y., urging his hour to take up with the senators from this state the desirability of passing in congress the federated water power bill, so-called, as one means of conserving the country's coal supply.

The telegram says that a number of governors and mayors have already taken action in urging the passage of this bill and that by the concerted efforts of states and municipalities it can be put through. The telegram in detail follows:

"The serious coal situation confronting the nation today has brought to our attention most forcibly the need of conserving our fuel supply. This can best be accomplished by utilizing other and more economical sources of power. The foremost of these is water. It is nothing short of criminal to have the surplus waters of the country running to waste when their utilization would mean a tremendous supply of electrical energy, the absence of which at this time is placing in jeopardy our industrial life.

It is urgent, therefore, that the federated water power bill become a law without further delay. Concerted action by the municipalities and states can bring this about and, if it may, I would respectfully request that you urge upon your representatives in the senate the necessity of favorable action upon this most important measure. Many governors have already complied.

"CORNELIUS Y. BURNS,

SEALED VERDICT

RETURNED BY JURY

A sealed verdict in the sum of $521.25 was returned this morning by the jury in the case of Smith vs. Bernstein, which was tried yesterday at the civil session of the superior court. In the case of Bernstein vs. Smith, which was tried jointly with the other case, a verdict was returned for the defendant.

The next case to go on trial was an action of tort in the sum of $3500 brought by Mary A. Sawyer against Lucy A. Dennett. In this case the plaintiff claims that through a libelous letter sent by the defendant, she was greatly injured in her feelings and reputation and that she suffered great distress of body and mind.

ganizations as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Community Service club and Girls' Friendly societies.

As has been before stated Lowell's quota has been proportioned as $3000. C. B. Hedway of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, has been named treasurer of funds secured. Three-quarters of the local solicitation will be applied to work in Lowell, while the remaining one-fourth will go to the state and national work.

Campaign headquarters have been established in Room D, 155 Merrimack street where some person always will be ready to give further information. Rev. Arthur W. Lyons has charge of the Lowell drive as district manager for the section of the state which extends from Somerville, through Lowell and surrounding towns and as far as Lynn.

At present there is one anti-tuber-culosa nurse in Lowell, Miss Anna Beach, who has headquarters at the Lowell Guild, 17 Dutton street. It is proposed, however, to enlarge the work by securing a second nurse to operate with Miss Beach. Such a nurse would go from house to house, seeking out cases which demand attention and turning the patients over to nurses of the Lowell Guild. She does no actual bedside nursing. She will necessarily be an expert diagnostician and will follow up cases of dangerous health conditions by making arrangements for the transfer into the country of the person or persons whose health is endangered by such conditions.

This is distinctly not a Red Cross campaign and this national organization receives no benefit or return from the sale of the anti-tuberculosis seals. The Red Cross, as in other years, simply furnishes the seals for the National Anti-Tuberculosis league to sell through its state, city and town agencies.

UNUSUAL CASE AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

A case embracing four actions of tort, which are returnable in the superior court on the first Monday in January next, will be the first of its kind to go to trial in this city, according to several local lawyers. The plaintiffs are Josephine and Edmund Gondek, who are suing for $5000 each and John and Mary M. A., who are suing for $2000 and $1000 respectively.

The cases are the result of an automobile accident, which occurred at Lodge hill in Dracut on the evening of June 22, 1918, when an automobile owned by the Cudany Packing company of Nashua, N. H., and operated by Hector Larriee, crashed into a wagon owned by the Gondek family and in which rode the four above mentioned members of the family. The horse was killed, the wagon was demolished and the occupants of the vehicle were injured, while the operator of the automobile, Larriee, was killed.

Suits were brought against the Cudany Packing company by the Gondek family and the cases were tried at the local session of the superior court in November, 1918, verdicts amounting to $4600 being rendered for the plaintiffs. On the ground that at the time of the accident Larriee was intoxicated and was not in the performance of his regular duties, the defendant company appealed the cases to the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts with the result that the verdicts were set aside.

Qua, Howard & Rogers appeared for the Gondek family and through them the family is now bringing suit against several former Lowell liquor dealers who, it is claimed, sold the liquor, which caused Larriee's intoxication, the suit being brought in accordance with chapter 100, section 35 of the revised laws, which provides: "That any person who is injured in person or property by an intoxicated person or in consequence of the intoxication of any person shall have a right of action in his or her own name jointly or severally against any person or persons who by selling or giving intoxicating liquor have caused in whole or in part such intoxication."

It is claimed that on the night of the accident there were three other persons riding in the automobile with Larriee and that they testified at the inquest held over the death of Larriee that the latter secured liquor in

It is also claimed that on the night of the accident New Hampshire detectives, whose mission it was to trail New Hampshire people in this city in an endeavor to discover liquor being transported over the New Hampshire line, trailed the Larriee machine through Lowell. Another interesting feature in this case is that the man who purchased the liquor and the clerk who is alleged to have sold the liquor, are both dead.

shal Foch in connection with the peace treaty," is regarded by some morning newspapers as of considerable significance. It is printed alongside of the address made in Glasgow last evening by Andrew Bonar Law, in which he said he believed the allies had the power, and if necessary, will exercise it, to insure ratification of the Versailles treaty by Germany. This suggested that steps to exert pressure on Germany might be imminent.

"There has been enough solemn finger wagging at the Germans who have come to believe it safe to defy the allies," says the Daily Mail, in commenting on the situation. "A wise and merciful course would be to tell them plainly that if within a fixed time they do not comply with the allied conditions and fulfill the treaty terms, the blockade will be renewed."

12,000 U. S. Troops on Rhine

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The supreme council of the peace conference this morning considered further the note to be sent to Germany regarding the signature to the protocol of the peace treaty, but did not complete the document.

The secret meeting held by the supreme council yesterday with Marshal Foch and General Veigand, the marshal's assistant, in attendance, has provoked a great amount of speculation as to eventual military action across the Rhine in case Germany does not reply satisfactorily to the final note regarding the protocol.

The American troops on the Rhine now number about 12,000 men. No question has as yet arisen whether they would participate in any action undertaken by the French and British. Field Marshal Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, chief of the British imperial staff, arrived in Paris today.

Skating For Christmas

though absolutely safe, for the entire depth of water is frozen.

A number of new ideas may become realities this winter in connection with municipal skating. Of course, Shedd park will be the mecca as before and everything will be done there for the comfort of the skaters. A number of benches have been placed around the skating area and a big pile of dead wood has been collected for bonfire purposes. There will be no hut this year, for the department has found that such is not advisable unless a keeper is stationed there continuously and this is not possible.

If the Merrimack freezes sufficiently for skating, the park department may open the municipal bath house on the bonneted side of the river for the accommodation of skaters and this indeed would be a good move. The South common pond presents a different problem. There is ice there now, but it has been cut up and is not smooth. Last year, Supt. Kernan drew off that water and left the cement bottom bare for polo and the boys took to it so well that the same treatment may be applied this winter.

The ponds in the surrounding towns have shown a tendency to freeze, but in most instances at present there is just a skim of ice. A week more of clear, cold weather, however, will put them in excellent condition.

The park department issues a warning against premature skating on surfaces which are not safe beyond the semblance of a doubt. Shedd park always is safe, but the river never ceases to be treacherous and deplorable accidents may easily be averted if patience is applied and sufficient time given for a good freeze.

It is possible that the park department will attempt one or two ice carnivals this winter, after New Year's and if so, professional speed and fancy skaters will be invited to participate. One such carnival was held at Shedd park last year and was entirely successful when the brief time for preparation is considered.

For Mayor

JOHN J. GILBRIDE

Tax Rates Don't Count—in the Mayor's Office

The atmosphere at City Hall must be peculiar. Two years ago, when he was running for the honorable office of Mayor, Perry D. Thompson made many representations in connection with the tax rate of Lowell. It was to come down and all that sort of thing.

In his extravagant advertising campaign, he now assumes the jocular mood when he alludes to Lowell's tax rate of $26.00 on the thousand. He would laugh it out of court, so to speak. He says the tax rate is a stock argument, and he asks the voters of Lowell to pay no attention to it.

Lowell tax payers very well know (for they have recently had very good reason to know) that sound or unsound business administration invariably reflects itself in the City's tax rate. It is the one great test of the business efficiency or reckless financing. When Mayor Thompson came into office the tax rate was $23.40. Last year it jumped to $23.80. This year it is $26.00. It seems quite amusing to Mayor Thompson.

BUT IN ADDITION TO THIS UNPRECEDENTED TAX RATE IN OUR MUNICIPAL HISTORY, LOWELL PROPERTY OWNERS HAVE, WITHIN RECENT TIME, RECEIVED TAX BILLS INDICATING A VERY MATERIAL INCREASE IN THE VALUE OF THEIR HOLDINGS. IN OTHER WORDS, THE HIGH TAX RATE OF $26.00 IS IN REALITY MUCH HIGHER.

"The stock argument," as Mayor Thompson terms it, may be highly amusing in some quarters, but to recently stung tax payers, it is very different, and it is attributed principally to gross extravagance, flagrant mismanagement and a general misconception of the things that the Lowell electorate should have at City Hall.

MR. THOMPSON, DON'T JOKE ABOUT THE TAX RATE. IT IS A VERY SERIOUS MATTER TO MANY LOWELL PEOPLE.

PAWTUCKETVILLE

The people of Pawtucketville at their banquet on Wednesday evening gave a splendid demonstration of their devotion to the returned soldiers and of appreciation of the services rendered, especially by those who made the supreme sacrifice.

One very gratifying aspect of the movement is the measure of good will it has established among all classes in the district. In this respect, the people are following the example of Rev. Fr. Bally of St. Columba's church and Rev. A. G. Lyon of the Pawtucketville Congregational church, who have become fast friends and are in frequent conference upon the work of this movement and other matters of interest to the district.

The committee has set out to raise $5,000 for a monument to be erected on the parkway near the northerly approach to the new bridge, and judging from the unanimity and enthusiasm with which the project is taken up by all the people, it is quite likely that this amount will be exceeded and that the monument will be even better than that which the committee has in contemplation at the present time.

This movement for a monument in honor of the war heroes of Pawtucketville is combined with one for the beautification of the approaches to the new bridge on the north end, in order to make attractive location for the proposed monument. There is little doubt that the city government will comply with the popular demand for improvements in that locality. These necessary changes will benefit the city as a whole, while they should be made as soon as possible in deference to the people of Pawtucketville who will furnish the monument, the main attraction.

The community spirit shown by the people of Pawtucketville cannot fail to effect many public improvements if it be kept up and extended to other matters than the very laudable project now in hand.

SCHOOL DEPT. SALARIES

There is much criticism heard in reference to the action of the school board in fixing the salaries of members of the administration office of the department, as compared with the salaries fixed for special teachers.

For example, Mr. Thornton receives $2400 per year as attendance officer, while Henry L. Williams, in charge of the supply department, receives $2500. Looking down the list we find that Fred O. Blunt, special teacher in music, is to receive $2000 a year; Miss Hagan $1550; Miss Edwards, special teacher in drawing, also $1550, while Miss Lee, supervisor of primary schools, receives $1800.

The average reader on looking over these figures will naturally reflect that it is rather unfortunate that Mr. Blunt wasted time and money on a musical education when he might have secured a position in the supply department, or as attendance officer at a more lucrative salary. This is another instance in which the school board does not show a proper sense of appreciation of special training in technical branches. Mr. Thornton may be a very efficient attendance officer, and no doubt he is; and Mr. Williams has had considerable experience at the head of the supply department, but it would be an easy matter to find men to fill either of these offices very acceptably, whereas it would be a difficult task to find a special teacher in music, so well qualified for the work as is Mr. Blunt.

In regard to some of the other salaries paid to the teachers mentioned, it may be remarked that if the same positions were filled by men, the salaries would undoubtedly be pushed up to a higher plane.

It seems that wherever it is noised around that the school board has any intention of increasing salaries, there will be a few on the inside who will get more than they deserve while many on the outside will get less than they deserve. Justice does not seem to rule in fixing salaries in the school department.

HEALTH EDUCATION

From Boston we receive a circular setting forth the plans of a certain organization called the "Health Education Committee," whose aim is to promote an adequate health education program in our elementary schools. Already it has planned to secure the passage through the legislature of bills providing for a uniform public health campaign in the schools. It is the intention of the committee to secure, if possible, a measure that will make it compulsory upon cities and towns to furnish adequate instruction and supervision, so as to provide each pupil with a minimum of 60 minutes of systematic health instruction, physical exercise and recess play during each school day. The school committee, according to the plan, may arrange for the use of the school buildings and grounds after regular school hours as community centers for the promotion of healthy recreation.

In view of the overlaid school curriculum at present in force, we cannot see how an hour a day can be devoted to health education. It seems that while the motives of this committee are undoubtedly above criticism, yet the plans could not be carried out without eliminating some of the important branches now taught or at least cutting down the time given them.

Nobody will object to the opening of the schools as community centers for the promotion of healthy recreation. Indeed much good might be derived from some plan of that nature and if the children can be given physical exercise after school hours, so much the better, but to compel cities and towns to devote an hour a day to this work seems utterly impracticable under present conditions without a very radical change in the curriculum.

THE LICENSE VOTE

The unanimity with which twenty cities of Massachusetts voted in favor of license last Tuesday, is quite remarkable. No less than eight cities swung from the dry to the wet column, some of which had voted "no" on the license question for years. This vote indicates one of two things. Either dissatisfaction with the present war prohibition or else as a protest against the constitutional amendment on the ground that it is a violation of state rights.

This is not a verdict against prohibition, but against the methods of putting it in force.

The state of Rhode Island has shown a disposition to fight national prohibition as an unwarranted interference with her domestic affairs. Whether she is right in taking the stand will be decided in due time by the supreme court of the United States.

One of the provisions of the constitutional amendment is that the law shall be enforced by the concurrent action of the federal and state governments. Under this arrangement, if any state should refuse to concur in its enforcement, such for example as Rhode Island, then the federal government could not enforce the law in that state.

Whether this phase of the legal question will invalidate the amendment will be duly considered by the supreme court. It is well to await that decision before jumping to conclusions. "The mills of the gods grind slowly but exceeding fine."

SMOOT'S PLAN

Senator Smoot of Utah, ranking republican in the senate appropriations committee, is apparently bent upon a great shake-up in the War Risk Insurance bureau. He says: "I propose to save in one fell swoop, the salaries of 8,000 to 9,000 clerks and have the work done better." Smoot is one of the republicans who believe that nothing done by democrats can be well done. He approved the policy of spending vast sums to maintain "scolding committees" in continuous performance not only here but in Europe in search of democratic misdeeds as material for political capital. But they have not succeeded to any great extent.

They have discovered at great expense that the war expenditures were enormous and that in certain cases work of various kinds might have been done for less perhaps if there had been time to spend in dickering over sub-contracts and if there had been republican bosses in charge of the job. They did such a splendid "job" in the Spanish-American skirmish that they surely could have given a great demonstration of efficiency and economy in the world war. The republicans having lost their old tariff and gold standard shibboleths are apparently at a loss for an issue but in a whole year of persistent effort they have found nothing to serve their purpose.

DANIELS' REPORT

The annual report of Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, for the fiscal year, including operations and recommendations to December 1, 1919, is at hand and while its contents embrace an interesting review of the work of the navy during its stupendous task of transporting the army forces to and from France, the value of the report itself is secondary to the instant thought that it has been printed with extravagant waste.

The bound report contains 296 pages, 148 of which carry printed matter while 148 are blank. In other words, every other page in the report is a blank sheet of white paper, printing being set on but one side of a sheet only, undoubtedly for the convenience of newspapers wishing to print any part of the document.

Paper is exceedingly high in cost and newspapers all over the country have been forced to increase the price of single copies until the old fashion one-cent daily practically has passed out of existence. Not only could the secretary's report have been published for much less, if both sides of a sheet were printed, but in book form it would present a much more readable document.

BANDITRY DOESN'T PAY

The capture of William L. Carlisle, escaped convict, polished train robber and man of "letters" just about brings to an end the career of a bandit who may well rank with Fred Whitlock, who in 1886 held up a "Frisco train and relieved an express messenger of $33,000 and immediately began a literary career, ridiculing the efforts of posers to arrest him. Carlisle now faces the electric chair, or some other exterminating agency and when that day comes, this king of present day literary train robbers will pay the penalty of attempting to do two things well at the same time. Carlisle might well have patterned his career after the lives of the Younger brothers, the Cummingses, the James boys and others who rode with the band in the heyday of its existence and who were successful in train robbery but did not dip into literature. Such careers, however, are very short and then comes the penalty—death or a life of suffering in prison. The most simple minded can readily see that the business of banditry does not pay.

WOMEN IN POLITICS

The world now so widely interested in woman suffrage will watch with deep interest the course of Lady Astor in the British parliament. The question is whether she will display the breadth of view necessary to deal intelligently with matters of great moment. She will be a disappointment indeed if she does not prove quite as intelligent as her husband or some of the other "noble lords." Mrs. Glendower Evans went to England to defeat Lady Astor but she didn't do it. It was this same notoriety seeker who appeared at Lawrence as an advocate of the demands of the strikers, to lead the syndicalists, but she soon discovered that the people of Lawrence wanted no intervention from her or any of her kind. She did not get into the lime light in London. She should go over to Russia and help Trotsky and Lenin to extend the "blessings" of the soviet regime on the ruins of Russian civilization.

THE COAL STRIKE

If the coal miners now on strike hold out much longer it will be up to congress to adopt measures that will treat such strikes in the future as criminal conspiracies against the health and safety of the public. It might be well for congress at the present time to define certain public utilities in which strikes will be forbidden. The employees in such cases might be held under contract to obey the rules and regulations of the company same as firemen and policemen. The people of this country are not yet ready to submit to a form of autocracy that threatens not only to paralyze industry but to cause widespread suffering and death. It is incumbent upon the government to protect the people against the recurrence of any such calamity.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Mr. Otto Hockmeyer is a most enthusiastic advocate of Community Service as a means of bringing vast benefits to the entire community through organized effort.

His plans are for the good of Lowell, and if carried out, they would give us a better and a happier city.

Our people would know their neighbors and respect them as friends rather than hold aloof from them as if they were unworthy of recognition. This is certainly a movement calculated to unite all classes for their common good and the promotion of true Americanism.

It is going to take some pretty heated political argument to make any impression on these bleak, December days and evenings.

The first Christmas card was printed by a man named Jobbins, colored by hand, and sold by Joseph Cundell, London publisher, in 1846.

It's always been a lot of fun to play Santa Claus and this year The Sun and Girls' Community Service club offer an even wider and better opportunity.

Scandinavians invented the Christmas tree. It was due to a desire to get the forests cut down for plowing. German emigrants brought the Christmas tree idea to America.

A lot of people have claimed the discovery of Santa Claus, but a thorough investigation leaves it about 50-50 between the little boy and the individual who has toys to sell.

A Chicago hotel in the process of making sweeping reductions in the prices of rooms and food says "we are going back to a basis of reasonable profits." Boy, oh boy, what an admission!

Probably the greatest Christmas invention is that combination of the X-ray and mind reading device which may be turned upon a friend at this time and a clear picture of what he's going to give you for Christmas is made. This makes it possible for you to get him "something just as good." Also, it guards against foolishly wasting a lot of money on a fellow who is only going to send you a Christmas card. When the invention gets into the hands of our little boy he can stop prying open the closet door to see if Santa Claus is hiding anything there. And Friend Wife will know we're not going to buy that set of furs, but a comely chair for her, which we can use, too, of an evening, and then we bet she won't be treating us so fine before Christmas! However, this knowing-in-advance is going to take a bunch of joy out of pre-Christmas life, isn't it?

Eight Breeders

Rev. Charles Steble, staff writer on religious topics for the Newspaper Enterprise association of which The Sun has exclusive service here, writes as follows on "Words as Eight Breeders":

"As coals are to burning coals, and words to fire, so is a contentious man to kindle strife"—Proverbs 26:21.

Words create quarrels.

They are great fight-breeders. Frowns and scowling faces and wicked eyes help, and sometimes they are the beginnings of quarrels, but not until somebody uses words does the trouble begin.

They kindle the spark. Then they feed the flames.

Words—just words.

Sometimes when they are used with a smile they make the fire burn fiercer.

And when a sneer is added to the spoken words the fire rages.

Woe unto the man who knows how to keep the fires of hate burning because he knows how to use flaming words.

"As coals are to burning coals, and words to fire, so is a contentious man to kindle strife."

If no words are heaped upon the fire it soon goes out.

If no words are added to the flames of passion strife soon ceases.

But words—contentiously spoken—stir up the fires which bring hatred and malice into the hearts and faces of those who would otherwise soon be reconciled through silence.

Blessed is the man who can hold his tongue.

"The tongue is a fire."

It is hard to control it.

Once it gets started—and it is next to impossible to hold it back.

So—don't give it a start.

Check it. Hold it. Bridle it.

Anything—but don't permit your

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The death of Henry Clay Frick, the famous iron master and art collector, has a bit of purely local interest for this city in addition to the general interest which the death of such a widely known man inevitably produces.

Many Lowell girls especially those employed in our mills, will recall pleasant week-ends spent with Miss Helen Frick, the iron master's daughter, at one of the family mansions at Wenham, known as the Melville place and popularly called "the house with the iron railings." Miss Frick had taken a deep interest in doing things for others and many an enjoyable time was staged for girls from this city, Lawrence and Boston during the summer season. Mr. Frick's estates along the North Shore were generally conceded the most extensive and pretentious of that section of the state and more than one automobile party from this city has stopped to admire the extensive collection of buildings.

Conversation with a local cigar manufacturer yesterday brought out the information that the men in that line of business are experiencing considerable difficulty in getting cigar boxes in which to pack their products. The manufacturer with whom I was talking said that the shortage was affecting him seriously. It seems that the local manufacturers and indeed practically all of them in the state depend upon a certain Roxbury firm to supply the cedar boxes that keep the cigars in good condition for fussy smokers. On account of the recent strikes of cigarmakers in a number of cities, this firm had to let up to some extent in its output and now with the return to the weed rollers to their benches the box company finds itself swamped with orders. The demand is away ahead of the output and just to make matters worse a number of the employees went on strike the other day owing to trouble over the employment of one of their number. But it is expected that the trouble will be settled soon and that the business will go at normal stride.

The unprecedented demand for Personal Greeting Cards this year makes it imperative that orders be sent to us at once. Our engravers inform us that they will very likely have to refuse orders taken after this week. There is yet time to have plate made, cards printed and returned to you in season to be mailed anywhere in the country—but further delay can mean only disappointment.

RELIEVE MORE GUARDS FRANK C. AUSTIN DEAD

Motor Corps Last Unit in Boston To Leave Tomorrow—Police in Control

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Orders relieving the first motor corps of the state guard from further duty here at 9 p. m. tomorrow, were received today. The direction of traffic, to which the unit was assigned soon after the police strike was called on Sept. 9, will be taken over by the new police traffic division.

With the relief of the motor corps the work of troops in the police strike emergency will virtually be ended. A small number of guardsmen will be retained a few days longer, but they will be held in reserve. Police officials said today that every position made vacant by the strike had been filled and that there was a nucleus for a reserve force.

The motor corps, the last unit of the state guard to hold intact here, was one of the first to answer the call for troops to take over the guardianship of the city. It introduced several new features in traffic regulation, many of which, it is understood, will be permanently retained by the police.

The others who died as the result of drinking the concoction were the latter's wife, Mrs. Mary E. Austin and James C. Burns.

SPEAKERS AT STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

S. S. Watkins, general secretary of the safety department of the United States railroad administration, spoke before the students at the State Normal school on Wednesday afternoon of this week on the present campaign to prevent railroad accidents.

Yesterday, Miss Mabel Dragg, supervisor of primary grades in Newton, spoke on the nature of her work as it is being carried on at the present time. Both addresses were educational and greatly appreciated.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Key West, Fla.—"For five years I suffered from irregularities, with terrible pains and an awful weakness in my back. The doctor gave me different medicines but they did me no good. I am telling my friends about it."—Mrs. J. M. Camus, 725 Caroline St., Key West, Florida.

BANDEAU ENHANCED BY FEATHER FAN

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A feather fan is a lovely thing, but twice as lovely is the same fan when it is supported on tortoise shell sticks. It may be of green, white or black, in fact any shade to match a gown or suit a white. Another ornament capable of lending great charm at a ball or theatre is a bandeau such as shown in today's sketch with the fan. This bandeau is of greenish gold and brilliants.

10 TEAMS TIED IN 6 DAY RACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Ten teams were tied for the lead in the six day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden at 8 o'clock this morning, the 104th hour. Each team had covered 1885 miles and six laps, as compared with the record of 2051 miles and five laps, made by Fogler and Hill, in 1914.

The Belgian team of Buysse and Splenssens and the Italian combination of Brocco and Verri were one lap behind the leaders. The Canadian-American team of Spencer and Chapman, and the French-Belgian team of Tiberghien and Chardon were two laps behind the leaders.

Most of the riders showed signs of fatigue today as a result of the wild sprints in which they engaged during the night. Goulet and Madden of Newark are leading in points scored as a result of the sprints.

What Famous Actors

Do for Their Teeth

No class values appearance so much as those of the stage and films, and their teeth come first. They want them clean and highly polished.

Cecil Lean, who has the most perfect teeth on the American stage, uses Albodon Dental Cream. So do Cleo Mayfield, Emmy Wehlen, Moe Murray and the great star of the Follies, Eddie Cantor. They take no chances with potash and carbolic acid tooth pastes, with gritty things that wear away enamel.

Albodon is calcium carbonate, saponified and mixed with the well known antiseptic oils of cloves, cinnamon and eucalyptus, which authorities declare is the efficient and safe composition for women and children, and so naturally for you. It is in equal parts cleansing, polishing and antiseptic. A tube containing 85 brushings is sold everywhere with the guarantee that Albodon will satisfy your taste.—Adv.

HE HADN'T THOUGHT OF THAT

A Remarkable Cure

The following letter received today is really a remarkable one. That Consumption can be cured, can be established by the persistent use of Sister Mary's Compound, is evidence sufficient from Mrs. Willeke's letter:

Walte Park, Minn.,
Nov. 28, 1919.

Dear Sir: Enclosed find money order for which please send me another large bottle of Sister Mary's Compound. I am sure am thankful to you the way it has helped my wife. She is feeling better now than she has been for last two years. Her cough is almost gone now and I think another bottle and she will be all cured.

With best wishes,
F. C. WILLEKE,
Minn.

Mrs. Willeke began taking Sister Mary's Compound March, 1918. Discouraged at times, yet never faltering in the absolute faith placed in the Compound, she continued persistently to take it—the result of that persistency is plainly evident in the above letter.

Geles, medical director and business manager of the expedition.

William Stowell of Los Angeles, motion picture director of the expedition. The injured members of the exploring party are:

Pliny Horne, of Los Angeles, photographer, cut and bruised. Henry N. Kohler of Los Angeles, photographer, body injuries; not serious.

Edward M. Thierry, N.R.A. correspondent, head lacerations, bruises and shock.

Henry C. Raven, naturalist, and Dr. Homer Leroy Shontz, botanist, were not with the expedition into the Enge forest, but are in Rhodesia. Edmund Heller, naturalist, and George Scott, chief photographer, are in Belra.

The expedition, in a special coach, had left Sakania for Elizabethville with a freight train of six cars. A tank car was uncoupled at a siding 50 miles north of Sakania. The brakes became loosened and the tank car, running down grade, overtook and crashed into the rear of the freight train.

Native wood cutters extricated the injured and carried them to their huts where they remained for 16 hours without medical aid. Two hours after a physician had dressed their injuries, the relief train from Elizabethville reached the scene of the accident, and more than 24 hours after the accident the living victims were brought to the hospital in Elizabethville.

Stowell was alive when brought to Elizabethville, but died of spinal fracture after 30 hours. Dr. Armstrong lived half an hour, but did not regain consciousness.

Several natives were killed. White members of the train crew escaped with injuries.

Elementary Accounting Course To Be Given at Lowell Textile School

Arrangements have been made between the state department of university extension and Lowell Textile School as a result of which the school will this winter give a course in elementary accounting for the benefit of residents of Lowell, Lawrence and vicinity.

The class will be open to every person qualified to take such a course. The instruction will be free. A small charge will be made to cover cost of material and texts furnished the students.

The course will include instruction in bookkeeping, classification of accounts, trial balancing, interest and discount, business forms, adjusting entries and theory of depreciation, and for those ambitious to climb up this particular ladder, will be the first step in a three-year course which will qualify a student for the certified public accountant examination in this state.

The course will be given to meet an increasing demand in business for persons qualified for filling accurate income tax returns and for persons who understand the various systems of accounting.

Previously accounting courses have been available principally to those living near large educational institutions, but Lowell educators convinced the state authorities that there are many in Lowell, Lawrence and vicinity, who would appreciate opportunity to enter such a course.

Announcement as to the time when the class will meet and hours, will be made later. For the present, however, enrollments can be made by application to James A. Moyer, instruction department, university extension, state house, Boston.

John Brady of 592 Gorham st., Lowell, Mass. better known as Jockey Brady, for 10 years holder of the ban-tam-weight title of New England, and one of the most famous jockeys in the racing game has joined the ranks of Goldline boosters. This is the reason, as Jockey tells it, "I had stomach and nerve trouble for the last few years and couldn't do anything that would help me. I was so constipated and my appetite was so poor that I was so nervous I couldn't sleep well. When I did sleep I had the most frightful dreams. When I would get up in the morning I wouldn't feel any better than when I went to bed. I heard of Goldine and what it was doing for people, so I tried it. Now I sleep fine, my appetite is good and I feel strong in every way. The distress is all gone and I feel strong and rested after a night's sleep. It's a wonderful medicine. He has made several calls in the Centre village and in each instance he has shown a sweeping authority. People are warned not to allow him on their premises.

URGES LARGE AMERICAN PURCHASES AND INVESTMENTS IN CANADA

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Sir Henry Drayton, Canadian minister of finance, at the annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents here yesterday, urged larger American purchases and investments in Canada as a means of overcoming the present depreciation in Canadian exchange.

"While Canada is prosperous," said

P. S.—Something big on next week. Watch your step

THE OVERALL STORE OF LOWELL

the minister, "The Canadian dollar is at the moment at a discount, and a serious discount when the value of the Canadian dollar, the prosperity and assets of the country are considered. The depreciation, while very real, is merely the effect of present trade balances and does not reflect in the slightest upon the intrinsic value of Canada's obligations."

"The depreciation of the Canadian premium in New York funds is simply owing to the fact that we do too little business with you and do too little business with us. I wonder if the extent of Canada's purchases in the United States are realized. Your statistics show that your total trade with all Southern American countries amounted for the year 1919 to $969,276,605, the balance of trade against you being $167,473,303. On the other

Took RED PILLS nine years ago.
Still well

I took RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women nine years ago, as I was then suffering from general weakness brought on by overwork. I was sick in bed and was beginning to get discouraged, as I was growing weaker every day. I had gas on the stomach, and that combined with sore back made me suffer terribly. I had consulted several physicians, who were unable to help me any, and so I then took RED PILLS, which relieved me altogether in a very short time. I am now perfectly well and happy.

—Mrs. EMILIA DESILET
77 Clinton Street, Woonsocket, R.I.

Keeping her strength up with RED PILLS

Truly, RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women are the ideal medicine for weak and sick women who wish to keep up their strength, especially for mothers who have to bring up a family. I myself used them at different times during my life, and always with the most satisfactory results. They helped me at each confinement, and my children were all strong and healthy. Now when I see any of my friends who are weak and sickly, I cannot recommend them anything better than RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women.

302 Moody Street, Lowell, Mass.

Extreme Weakness

RED PILLS have helped me of extreme weakness from which I had been suffering. My mother had recommended them to me, knowing through experience of their beneficial properties, and now that I have become familiar with the good results obtained through their use, they have been my favorite remedy for the past sixteen years.

—Mrs. DELIA LAVIGNE
547 Silver Street, Manchester East, N.H.

A recent confinement had left me in such a weakened condition that several of my friends advised me to give RED PILLS a trial, stating that they were the surest remedy, and one which would be sure to give me prompt results. I had taken but a few boxes when I began to notice that I was getting stronger, and it was not long before I was well again and enjoying good health. Now, when the occasion arises, I am always anxious to recommend RED PILLS to Weak and Suffering Women.—Mrs. ETIENNE CHAMPAGNA
461 Rimmon Street, Manchester West, N.H.

RED PILLS are for Women only

They are always sold in boxes of fifty pills, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. See that the name of the "FRANCO-AMERICAN CHEMICAL COMPANY LIMITED" is on every box.

For the same year with Canada your total trade amounted to $1,282,677,819, and the balance of trade in your favor amounted to a sum no less than $314,763,213.

"We want to do as much business as possible with you and I think you want to do as much business as possible with us. I think we all realize that two of the very necessary essentials in any proper re-establishment are firm currencies and standard exchanges. I am quite sure that you would much sooner see the exchange situation righted by additional American purchases in Canada rather than decrease Canadian purchases in the United States. Temporarily, and from time to time, these adverse balances may be easily rectified by the investment of America's large surplus reserves in Canada, and this solution is one which is probably as much in the hands of the presidents of great American companies as in anybody's. The field for investment in Canada is very large. There is still great room in Canada for development."

10 KILLED, 100 INJURED
IN ITALIAN RIOTS

ROME, Dec. 5.—(By the Associated Press).—Ten persons dead, more than 100 wounded and a thousand under arrest sums up the result of the general strike in Italy, called by the socialists as a result of the demonstration made against them at the reopening of parliament in Rome on Monday.

Resentment over the strike has spread throughout the country. Notwithstanding this, however, and contrary to the announcement made Wednesday in the chamber of deputies by the Socialist Deputy Treves that there would be a cessation of the strike at midnight Wednesday, a small element of the socialists imposed a continuation of the walkout in Rome yesterday as a sign of mourning for the socialist, Zampa, who was killed during the disorder in the capital. Socialists and anarchists, carrying red and black flags and banners, participated yesterday in the funeral of Zampa.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The children's special matinee for the B. F. Keith theatre, tomorrow afternoon, should prove a big drawing card. Opportunity will be given to all kiddies to personally meet the elephant, the horse, the pony and the big dog. Capt. Gruber and Mlle. Adellina have four perfectly trained animals, and they will be most pleased to have the children meet their pets. The act of the animals is called An Oriental Spectacle.

This is one feature of the present week's big show. It is a highly entertaining one, too. But Eddie Borden with his friend "Sir" Frederick Courtney cause a lot of real laughter, and Olive Briscoe and Al Rauh, in their mixture of song and talk are sure winners. "A Wife Saver" is the title of the comedy presented by H. N. Roemer & Co., and it has many odd situations. McDermott & Heagerty sing their own songs well and score a big hit, and the Parsleys are international instrumentalists, with many good numbers. The Spanish Dancers are the very best ever seen on a local stage. And the most interesting pictures of Coney Island will strike home to many persons. It is, in short, a bill of many good points.

THE STRAND

You will laugh yourself tired at "Pair and Warner," the feature film offering at the Strand. May Allison, the screen star, was never more amusing than she is in this presentation. Peggy Hyland in "A Girl in Bohemia" is another high class picture offering and will surely appeal to the desires of patrons who favor superior grade of motion pictures. The rest of the bill is made up of excellent contributions. Don't forget that the Strand gives only special productions and not the regular run of program pictures. That's why the Strand staguard is the best.

In the production of successful stock attractions, one of the essentials is attention to details. Director Kirk is insistent in making the little things contribute to the success of all presentations and in this measure he meets a demand that has invariably helped in a successful stock season. In this week's production of "Within the Law," this fact is forcibly reflected. Order your tickets early and avoid disappointment. Next week George M. Cohan's musical comedy, "The Little Millionaire," will be presented. This is the first musical effort of the season by the Players and will be looked forward to with anticipation of pleasure by the patrons.

CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT

An excellent program of music and readings was given at the Central Congregational church in Chelmsford last evening. It was in the nature of an inaugural recital of the recently installed pipe organ and a large and appreciative audience enjoyed it. The capabilities of the new instrument were capably brought out by Wilfred Kershaw of the Lowell First Baptist church, while violin selections by Frank B. Charles, readings by Mrs. Lillian Dodge Haskell and orchestral numbers led by William E. Adams, rounded out a splendid entertainment.

Fresh Clean dish towels Every Day
without any bother of rubbing or boiling

"EVERY good housekeeper washes her dish towels every day!" Your mother and grandmother drilled it into you. Yet how you have always hated this particular household task.

Dish towels get so greasy you have to rub them so to get them clean—you have to boil them in soap or soda.

If you neglect to wash them, your supply runs short—you have to use soiled towels that leave the dishes smeary.

Now you can just soak your dish towels clean in bubbly, cleansing Rinso suds.

Drop them into the rich Rinso suds after the breakfast dishes are finished. Let them soak three hours. Then rinse them. And they will be clean and dry for the next dish washing.

Not a bit of rubbing—the pure Rinso granules are so high in cleansing value they loosen all the dirt. It rinses right out—even if you use cold water.

No boiling, except occasionally, if you wish to sterilize.

And your towels last twice as long as when you rub them so. And keep their crisp cross-bar coloring, that boiling fades so fast.

Use Rinso always for dish towels, and other especially hard things to wash. Use it for all your washing—it saves you endless work—it saves the clothes.

Get Rinso from your grocer. The easy directions are on the package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux.)

I have a splendid assortment of Holiday Goods, all bright and new, and it would be only fair to state that a visit to my modest little establishment will convince you that it is quite necessary to buy or select your Xmas Gifts early or have them reserved for you on a small deposit until wanted. You will also agree with me, the last days for shopping are usually over rushed, and shopping is not a pleasure but a hardship in a great measure. ACTIVITIES OF REDS IN MASSACHUSETTS

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Dec. 5.—Of the 43 states in the Union, Massachusetts ranks third among the centers where the activities of reds, Bolsheviks and other forms of communism and anarchy are the most pronounced.

This was the statement made today by a state official who for the past year has been making an investigation into the efforts of the radicals to overthrow the government of the United States and substitute in its place the soviet form of rule or misrule which now exists in Russia.

In the soviet movement. A compact organization exists in all sections of the country, each section working in harmony with the other and all being under control of the central officers in Chicago.

In Massachusetts there are organizations in each industrial center in which the principles of Bolshevism are explained through lecture courses, literature printed in all the tongues, and even in schools maintained by the organization.

The leaders, who are sent here and there throughout the country by their directors in Chicago, are men of ability, who are adept at the art of winning converts through plausible, pleasing reasoning. The larger part of them are in the movement for all the money they can get out of it, while others are men and women who have endured political persecution in foreign countries, and still others are the intellectual radicals of this and the rest of the states.

They appeal to the wage-earner for their support on the ground that if the "cause" is successful all money will be shared equally among the people and measures taken which will forever continue this in effect. They declare that the high cost of living is due to capitalist oppression and picture the wealthy, when the proletariat comes into power, as being forced to do the most menial work. Their hearers are impressed with the slogan: "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity."

to these arguments have any knowledge of the present form of American government or the possibilities it holds for the happiness of the people. They cannot understand English. They cannot read the daily newspapers. They cannot even talk with their fellow American workmen. Practically their only source of information is that which they may acquire from the Bolshevik agitation.

The principal exponents of the movement are Russians, Finns, Estonians and Lithuanians. It is made plain, however, that in referring to these nationalities no attempt is made to charge that all or even the greater part of the population of these races here in Massachusetts hold sympathy with the agitation.

Officials have difficulty in suppressing the activities of the radicals because of the rights of free speech prevailing in this country, but they have been able of late to check them to a considerable degree through the enactment of laws designed to that end.

A remedy suggested is the establishment of forums by the state at which competent instructors would explain to the foreign-born workmen in their own tongue the principles of American democracy. It is pointed out that few of those who attend the Bolshevik meetings are those who have had the advantages of American public or parochial school education. A campaign of education, it is said, would

The annual parish supper of the First Universalist church was held last evening and proved one of the most enjoyable events of the present season. Incidentally it marked the beginning of Rev. C. E. Fisher's 25th year as pastor of the church. Among the speakers were Dr. R. Perry Bush, of Chelsea; Rev. W. H. Morrison of Nashua, N. H.; Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the First Primitive Methodist church; Dr. Chauncey J. Hawkins, Rev. J. M. Cairns, Rev. H. E. Benton, Rev. A. R. Hussey, Rev. Appleton Granis, Rev. J. M. Craig and H. A. Thompson, chairman of the board of trustees. Dr. A. S. Macleod acted as toastmaster. The musical program was provided by the church choir and Boyles' orchestra.

The supper was served under the efficient direction of Mrs. L. A. Derby, chairman of the United Workers' society of the church. Assisting Mrs. Derby on the supper committee were Mrs. W. O. Dickerman, Mrs. Eugene Dunbar, Mrs. William F. Hinckley and Mrs. A. E. Macleod.

well received. Mayor and Mrs. Thompson were among those who enjoyed the evening's pleasures.

The committee in charge of the affair included: W. E. Turnbull, chairman; John P. Mehan, secretary; John J. McMahon, treasurer; Joseph Gilley and James E. Lowney.

To Ward Off Winter Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all winter, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Rough, chapped or discolored skin, inevitable in this weather, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off morning. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear conspicuous at this season, because of alternated expansion and contraction of the skin, due to changing temperatures. You are advised to try this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drugstore and use like cold cream. This will help any complexion at once, and in a week or so the skin will look remarkably youthful and healthy. — Adv.

LOWELL ELKS HOLD LADIES' NIGHT

Lowell lodge of Elks again came prominently into the limelight last evening when it staged its first ladies' night of the present season and gave pleasure to a large number of members and their friends. The program was adapted to the tastes of all and those present voted the affair one of the most successful the Elks have ever staged.

The evening's program opened with a concert by Broderick's orchestra and intermingled with dancing were some features with the Dan sisters. Commissioner James E. Donnelly, in the honors, Mrs. Alice McLaughlin, accompanied and also gave a number of piano solos. Miss Agnes Cotter in dancing specialties was also

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Estimates of $6,000,000,000 as the yield of the present revenue law for the first 12 months of its operation will be closely approached if not fully realized, Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper said yesterday in his annual report.

Payments of the first two installments, March 15 and June 15, brought into the treasury a total of $2,600,782,000, Mr. Roper said, while reports already in hand of the third installment, payable Sept. 15, fully support the bureau's estimate.

Commissioner Roper said the tobacco industry had developed into one of the greatest sources of federal revenue, the total receipts from this source alone for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, being $208,003,000, an increase of $48,500,000 over those of the preceding year.

An enormous increase in the number of cigarettes manufactured was shown by the reports, the total for the last fiscal year being approximately eight times larger than in 1910. In that year, 8,500,000,000 cigarettes and 8,000,000 cigars were manufactured, while in the last fiscal year the manufacture of cigarettes had increased to 45,500,000,000, while the number of

During the year ended June 30, approximately 99,000,000 gallons of distilled liquor were produced from materials other than fruits, this figure representing a decrease of nearly 75,000,000 gallons from the previous year's production.

The effect of wartime prohibition has presented a problem which is causing revenue officials "serious embarrassment," Mr. Roper said. Holders of heavy stocks of liquor in bond were forced, under provisions of the last revenue act, to pay an additional tax Sept. 15. The law closing the saloons for the period of the war has left those interests with their products and without means of obtaining money to make the tax payments, he said.

"Under the law the discretion of the bureau is limited to extending the time for payment of these taxes seven months," Mr. Roper explained. "Serious embarrassment has resulted as to the course of action which should be taken in these cases to protect the interests of the government without imposing undue financial hardships on the taxpayers which presumably were not intended by congress."

The report revealed a menace in illegitimate traffic in drugs between this country and Canada and Mexico. Mr. Roper urged that some temporary arrangement be established which would put a stop to this smuggling.

Expenditures of the bureau during the last fiscal year, Mr. Roper said, were $20,673,771, an increase of $12,003,214 over the previous fiscal year. On this basis, he said, it had cost the government 0.543 per cent to administer the revenue laws and collect the second greatest tax bill the nation ever has laid.

AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY GIVES ITS POSITION ON LABOR UNIONS

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—In connection with the strike in the Assabet mills of the American Woolen company at Maynard, where several hundred weavers are on strike, as noted, Raymond S. Bartlett, chairman of the labor department of the company makes the following statement:

"The public is entitled to know the facts about the origin of the strike at the Assabet mills, at Maynard. The United States Textile Workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, demanded that we discharge some 45 of our employees who are members of the Amalgamated Textile Workers, a rival labor organization. This we refused to do. It seemed to us unfair and unjust."

"All our employees of whatever union or non-union, stand the same with us. We will see no injustice done to any. But because we refused to discharge these Amalgamated union men, simply on the ground that they were members of a union the United Textile Workers did not like, a strike has occurred."

"We must maintain our ground. We

NUCOA

What it is -
How made -
Why white -

NUCOA is table butter. It displaces cow butter—and does it without a single apology. If it were less buttery than that which you have been brought up to call butter, it would fail utterly. It is a great big success. Our five churning plants have a daily capacity of 300,000 pounds. Just think of it! Enough butter to spread nine million slices of bread—liberally. Never let anyone tell you that Nucoa isn't butter. What else could it be when it butters all this bread every day?

Let us tell you how it is made. We import the meat of the coconut from Ceylon, Java and the Philippine Islands. This is crushed and refined into a cream white butter. It could not be finer. It does not contain a trace of water. It is just pure coconut butter. Highly refined, rich, peanut oil is added. This is just like olive oil in color and texture. The richness and mellowness of peanut oil makes it very valuable. These two products are churned with cultured milk that has first been pasteurized. When it leaves the churn it is worked and salted the same as creamery butter. The one secret is efficiency and care.

Nucoa is white because the Dairy Interests succeeded in passing a law that took from us the use of the very color that all cow butter contains. We supply this color free. Process of coloring simple and easy. It takes but a minute. Directions surround each print. Branded oleomargarine to satisfy an old Federal Law passed before Nucoa was made. Work with your Congressmen against these discriminations.

Be Prepared For Influenza

CUT THIS OUT

Many medical men say we will probably have another epidemic this fall. Let us all hope and pray we will not. But at the same time let us be well prepared.
The flu as it is called, usually starts with a cold and tightness in the chest. If you even suspect there is a chance that you may be getting influenza take a good dose of laxative tea, such as Dr. Carter's K & B Tea or Celery King and send for your physician. While you are waiting for the doctor rub Begg's Mustard on throat and chest. Rub it on freely and never mind if it does feel good and hot. It cannot blister even the tenderest skin.
But don't stop at throat and chest; get some one to rub this enemy of inflammation over your entire back and especially between the shoulder blades. This is one of the most sensible precautions you can take against pneumonia which often quickly follows the flu and is just what the doctor tries hard to sidetrack.
You can get Begg's Mustard for 30 and 60 cents in yellow boxes all ready for use at any drug store.
Remember it is made of real yellow mustard. Use it for sore throat, coughs, chest colds, pleurisy, bronchitis, lumbago and all aches and pains.

BRIEF REPORT OF THE INTER-STATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The annual report of the Interstate commerce commission, submitted to congress yesterday, is comparatively brief and makes few recommendations.
Federal control of railways during the last year, having taken over many functions of the commission, the report renews mainly recommendations made in previous years.

It is recommended that the power to award reparation for unreasonable or unlawful charges be placed wholly in the courts; that the powers of the commission be extended to holding corporations as well as those which actually operate interstate transportation lines, and that railroad operating rules be standardized.

The commission reports again that in many cases its work has been obstructed because necessary records and data could only be obtained from holding companies.

From its investigations of train accidents the commission's investigators concluded that the failure of engineers to obey signals and failure to provide adequate flag protection for trains continued to be the principal causes of collisions. The use of automatic train control was again recommended.

WORSE THAN AIR RAIDS

Wild Elephants Charge
Scares One Stiff, Says
Sun Correspondent

By Edward M. Thierry
N. E. A. Staff Correspondent With Smithsonian-Universal Expedition
IN CAMP KENKELBOSCH, South Africa—Wartime German "frightful-ness" had nothing on the wild elephants of the Addo Bush.

The mammoths pursue the same policy. They scare you stiff.

I've been in air raids in France. And
I've heard the hideous trumpeting of
wild elephants outside the flimsy
wind-break of piled up branches around Major Pretorius' camp here.

And I imagine the former is preferable. Here in this dense thorn bush
there is no escape from the enraged pachyderm. If he doesn't see you he sees you. And there is no escape.

You cannot outrun him. The almost impenetrable bush holds you. There are great areas of a dense growth of mimosa and prickly pear, inextricably bound together with strong creepers.

Thorny branches are interlaced and
stuck with barbs ranging from the almost invisible thorn to those that are five and six inches long.

These are the things Major Pretorious is up against in his campaign to exterminate the 200 wild elephants
menacing civilization in South Africa.

The first night I was in camp with
the Smithsonian African expedition the major was absent. He had been hunting all day, spending the night at his other camp at Addo station, 16 miles
at the other end of the thorn jungle.

In the middle of the night a couple of the kafr sentries came running in with the news that the elephants were near. Simultaneously we heard a frightful noise in the distance—mad trumpeting and an ear-splitting
screaming.

The man who knows only the circus
and the zoo elephant cannot conceive
the terrifying volume of sound one
mammoth, or a herd, can develop.
There is no simile that is faithfully
descriptive. It's like all the fiends of hell turned loose. It beggars description.

Cold chills ran down our backs.
There really wasn't much danger of
an unprovoked attack at night; that is to say, it would be against precedent, for, while elephants are essentially nocturnal prowlers, they rarely charge unless they are shot at, even if they do pick up the scent of human belongings.

But we didn't stop to think of that.
We spent a quaking half hour till the
trumpeting and screaming died away
and the camp dogs quieted down to the point where it seemed certain the elephants had rambled off in another direction.

Anybody who has been in the Addo
Bush knows what real fear is. Big game hunters have shied away from hunting here because the odds are all
against the hunter.

Nowhere is the bush more than eight
to 12 feet high. There are plenty of trees, but they are low and squatly.
They look substantial, but they bend
under the slightest weight like so much rubber. These are the "spekboom" tree or elephant tree. The huge beasts eat
the soft, rubbery leaves and branches.

Climbing into one of these trees is time wasted. The elephant can reach
up with his powerful trunk and drag
his victim out.

Though the elephant's eyesight is
poor, his hearing and sense of smell
are acute. And he covers about 12 feet in one stride.

When he grips his victim in his
trunk he crashes him to the ground.
Then, if he has tusks, he jabs great holes through the body. Whereat he kneels on the victim. Then he wheels
ponderously and sits on the body, rolling his tremendous avoirdupois back and forth, utterly squashing it. Finally he stamps on it, battering it into
the ground.

TWO SINCERE POLITICAL MOVEMENTS IN TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE (By the Associated Press)—There are only two sincere political movements in Turkey,
one for American help, the other for
an independent country which should be left alone, says Halide Edib, Turkish woman novelist, poet and nationalist. "All the rest are movements fed
by foreign money," she told the Associated Press correspondent.

Small, handsome, a brilliant conversationalist and speaker, Halide Edib,
a fiery advocate for a new and better
Turkey, is the best known woman of her country. A graduate of Robert College for Girls, an American institution, she speaks English well and has used it since the armistice to try to convert Americans here to her hopes.
In the war she worked with her husband a physician, in the Red Crescent
or Turkish Red Cross. One of her novels, "New Turanla," a Turkish
"Looking Forward," has greatly moved
her people by its patriotic appeal.

"I don't think any nation in Europe

except perhaps Belgium would be disinterested enough, or would be permitted by the other powers, to take over the work that must be done here,"
she said. "So we have organized an American propaganda which is evident
in all parts of the old empire. Even
the humblest people realize the truth
of our contentions, and for that reason
it has been easy to persuade them to favor an American control."

"The Americans haven't encouraged
us, and other nations have discouraged us, either by deportations or censorship of our press. We can't send anyone to America, because the armistice prevents us from traveling.
Moustapha Kemal Pasha, who is an honest, sincere patriot, believes as we do."

"What Turkey needs is peace, modern agricultural development, as our
soil is very rich, territorial integrity,
wherein there are equal rights to Moslems and Christians and education. We need a uniform school system. There is a vast desire for education and many parents make many sacrifices while children educate themselves rather than go uneducated."

"The woman in Turkey is much more
emancipated than is believed abroad,
and her education is part of our program. It is true that in the past we have ourselves been influenced by the Persian influence which took from our women their old freedom. It must be remembered that all our women are not to be judged by those of the city,

who don't count for much. In the country our women have all the family responsibilities, they till the soil,
they care for the children, while the role of the man is more that of the soldier."

"Women in Turkey have their vani-
ties, too, just like women elsewhere.
In my novel in which I pictured Turkey
as she should be, I planned a new costume without the veil
somewhat like that of the Quakeress,
but after a time it was no longer
worn, because it wasn't found becoming."

"Much has been said of the Pan-
Islamic and Pan-Turanian movements.
Politically, I am for neither. The first
refers to religious union and the second to the racial union of peoples inhabiting north Africa and Asia. These peoples are, loosely, Turks, Arabs, Tar-
tars and Kurds. When the new Turk
idea started the old imperialists objected that by it we would lose Arabia
and Syria. We appear to have done so by the war. I believe in a cultural union of these peoples, however, and a continuance of our economic relations
with Arabia, which were always close
and natural."

"The national idea is to maintain
the integrity of the Ottoman Turks,
who are people who change neither religion nor other ideas, and for that reason have always been the champion
of the religion of Mohammed. We want also to see an independent Armenia, as we believe the latter will never rest until they have it. We want for
our boundaries the lines of the armistice, that is Thrace, Asia Minor, to the Russian frontier, thence to the trading centre of Bagdad, which is about one-half Turkish though it is also inhabited by Persians, Kurds and Arabs
and thence to the Mediterranean."

"Inside of this territory we want Greeks, Armenians or anyone, so long

as they do not agitate politically.
There should be no religious discin-
tions, we should abolish the old courts
and have them uniform. We should take our patriarch out of our political cabinet and let him merely be head of our church system. The sultan should continue in his dual capacity as sultan,
politically, and as Caliph, religiously."

"With growing economic prosperity
Turkey would become a better country
but to accomplish what we need we can't go alone. We realize that we must have outside help, which would be respected by our people and the Christians, and which in reforming us
could bear any blame for the reforms.
Coming from an unprejudiced source
they would be accepted."

"The sultan has been frightened by
the nationalist movement and by the suggestion that Americans would make us a republic, eliminating him politically. We are not so pro-Bolshevik as to wish to overthrow him, and for many years it would not be attempted.
It is believed the British want Turkey because they have many Moslem subjects once independent who looked
to the Caliph here, and that it is not in their interest to have the last Moslems independent. To make these last
a subject people they would adopt the pretext of defending him, as in the case of the nationalists starting trouble."

The Expression of the Artist

YOU'VE HEARD PIANO PLAYERS—GOOD, BAD AND IN-DIFFERENT. Nothing is so thoroughly enjoyable to a lover of music as a beautiful composition artistically rendered.
Nothing is quite so distressing to the sensibilities as discordant notes and expressionless drumming.

EVERYONE AND ANYONE CAN FAITHFULLY PRODUCE
THE COMPOSER'S GENIUS and the artist's touch on one of these Player-Pianos. A child or a novice can perform with a master's execution. Then, too, one of these fine instruments is a wonderful decoration to the home—a Christmas gift of enduring pleasure, entertainment and luxury.

These are just two sample letters, picked at random from a score or more already received at the Santa Claus Bureau at the Girls' Community Service club. These two have been investigated and found to be sincere and worthy. Will you help all such stockings on Christmas morning?
Although the Girls' Club is making this wide appeal for a generous reflection of Christmas spirit, it is not standing idly by waiting for support. Already several plans are formulated for entertainments, bazaars, and the like for the securing of funds for the Santa Claus Bureau. But the demand will far exceed the supply of money and gifts unless the public co-operates.

Be a volunteer Santa Claus and have a part in this Christmas spirit. It has been said that all the honors conferred by a thankful people upon its soldiers for deeds well performed in the world war, never will arouse or kindle a feeling of appreciation in the heart of the service man to equal his own, individual sense of satisfaction for service given. He did something and got nothing and that is the service which really counts. Bring unto yourself this same feeling of satisfaction of "getting" by giving. Send your name, address or contribution to the Guild Community Service club, Runnels building.

Recently Mr. C. L. Davis, the well known proprietor of Grand View farm, Chelmsford, Mass., walked into the Boston office of Weldona and told how he recovered from rheumatism after being almost helpless from the disease.

Mr. Davis said: "It was understood around my neighborhood that I would never be able to work again. I had tried doctor after doctor and they told me there was nothing they could do for me and advised me to sell my farm.

"Almost every joint in my body was swollen and stiff, my hands were knotted, bent and deformed, my feet so painful, my knees swollen and stiff and refused to bend. My arms

DECISION IS REVERSED

Privy Council Finding in Sinking of Empress of Ireland—1024 Lives Lost

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The judicial committee of the privy council has reversed the decision of the Canadian supreme court in the suit involving the sinking of the steamer Empress of Ireland in the St. Lawrence river.

The court gave the passengers of the sunken vessel the preference in the distribution of the proceeds from the sale of the Stordred, the collier which rammed the liner.

In its decision the privy council decided that the Canadian Pacific Co. shall share in the proceeds of the sale.

The Empress of Ireland, bound from Montreal to Liverpool with a passenger list and crew totalling 1205, collided with the Stordred at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of May 29, 1914. A total of 1024 persons, among them many notables, lost their lives when the vessel went down. Twenty-one Americans were on board, six of whom were saved.

The catastrophe occurred off Father Point, in the St. Lawrence river, near the mouth of the Rimouski.

"I heard about the wonderful work this new remedy Weldona was doing and decided to try it. I managed to get help into the wagon and my wife drove down to the drug store. I wanted to personally talk with the Weldona man there. The only way I could get from the wagon to the sidewalk was to be assisted by sliding down a plank. The least move would make me cry out with the pain and the short distance from the wagon to the store seemed hours of agony.

"I commenced taking Weldona immediately and in a short time began to improve. The pain and stiffness soon left my joints, my hands got so I could use them and I have recently husked corn as rapidly as any man on my farm and working every day as well as ever, greatly to the surprise of my neighbors.

Mr. Davis has full use of his knees and to demonstrate this ran up and down stairs to prove it. He says he can climb an apple tree as quick as the next one. Mr. Davis states that hardly a day goes by but what some one stops to ask him about his remarkable recovery, with the result another skeptic becomes a Weldona "booster." If you are a skeptic and want to know what Weldona is doing for rheumatism call on Mr. Davis or write to him. He is always glad to tell other sufferers how he recovered. Remarkable results are being reported about this new remedy Weldona.

Weldona does not contain alcohol, opiates or narcotics.
A wonderful book, "Germs of Rheumatism—How They Live—How They Die" will be mailed free. Address Weldona, 122 Bay-lon St., Boston. Weldona can be had at Dows' drug store.—Adv.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT BOARD HEARINGS

The industrial accident board, with W. W. Kennard, presiding, held conferences on a number of accident cases in the mayor's reception room at city hall today and disposed of all of them without formal hearings. One of the most interesting cases was that of Michael Crumney vs. The American Woolen Co., in which Mr. Crumney sought to obtain compensation for the loss of the ends of four fingers. It was brought out that through the terms of the compensation law a man is entitled in some instances to both disability compensation and what is known as specific compensation. Disability compensation is based on the degree of disability and the length of time that a man is kept from work. Specific compensation is for the loss of certain members of the body. In connection with Mr. Crumney's case the interesting point was brought out that if he had lost only one finger instead of four he would have been entitled to the same amount of specific compensation. Other cases which were settled were: Mary Grandosky vs. Massachusetts Cotton Mills; Charles Pappas vs. the Walter L. Parker Co. and David Nichols vs. the Lowell Textile Co.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT DRAWING NEAR

The Saco-Lowell shop strike will come to an end today and the men will return to their work on Monday morning if the conference of shop officials and a committee of 20 strikers with a department of labor conciliator produces a favorable and acceptable basis of settlement.

Two similar conferences already have been held this week and it is learned that considerable progress was made toward settlement. In fact, after the conference on Wednesday, when deliberations were postponed until 2 o'clock today, it was general opinion that the end was in sight. As the situation stands today, it is a question of production on the side of the officials versus a question of wages by the operators.

A report of the conference will be returned to the body of strikers at a meeting in Gratton hall tonight and either accepted or rejected at that time. If accepted, it is probable that the strike will be called off and the shop will resume full operation on Monday. If this is the case, the strike will have been in force for three weeks lacking one day.

LAFAYETTE CLUB ELECTS DIRECTORS

There was a large attendance at the annual meeting of the members of Club Lafayette, which was held last evening in the quarters of the organization in Waanaland street. A list of routine business was transacted and a very interesting report showing that the club is in a very prosperous condition was made by the treasurer, Dr. George E. Calise. In the course of the meeting, which was presided over by President F. N. Labelle 32 new members were initiated and several applications for membership were received. A feature of the meeting was the election of three directors, which resulted as follows: Omer J. Smith, Telephore Beauparlant and Clovis Belanger. It was announced that the new board of directors will organize on the first Monday in January. At the close of the business session a social hour was spent during which an entertainment program was given.

ZAPATA, Tex., Dec. 5.—Mexican bandits last night raided the Clareno ranch on the American side of the Rio Grande, 11 miles south-east of here, escaping with provisions from a store on the ranch.

The number of bandits in the raiding party was not determined, but they were reported heavily armed. The only person molested was the storekeeper, whom they bound and gagged before looting the store.

All provisions in the store were taken. The bandits packed them on several horses taken from the ranch and then crossed the Rio Grande again into Mexico. The ranch is owned by Serapio Vela of Laredo, Tex. No clue to the identity of the bandits had been obtained up to noon.

FUEL FOR MEAT PACKERS

Order Virtually Classifies Meat Packing as an Essential Industry

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—T. W. Proctor, regional coal director, today announced that fuel will continue to be furnished meat packers in Chicago and the west and northwest to operate slaughtering, refrigerating and packing plants. The order virtually classifies meat packing as an essential industry. The instructions prohibit the use of coal by the packers for the manufacturing of any by-products and, as a result, all their soap, glue, leather, hair, drug and other by-products plants were closed.

The big Chicago packers reported today that they have no surplus supply of coal and are depending upon daily deliveries.

Chicago needs 500 cars of coal daily to continue on its present 8½-hour business day basis.

Unless this amount of coal is forthcoming each day, Chicago may have to be put on a four-hour business day basis. The coal situation was reported to be more serious here today than at any time since the beginning of the coal strike.

Hundreds of additional manufacturing plants closed today because of their inability to obtain fuel and many more thousands of men were idle. The fuel regulations were being rigidly enforced and, as a result, the loop district was quiet as Sunday during the early morning hours.

Continued

United States, of which Berkman never became a citizen.

The woman, claiming to be a citizen by an early marriage, will make a last legal effort to remain here and Berkman also will seek a writ of habeas corpus on the claim that this country's right of free speech permitted him to urge his anarchist ideas freely.

Harry Weinberger, counsel for Berkman and Miss Goldman, received a letter today from Anthony Caninetti, commissioner general of emigration, denying the request that his clients be permitted to select their own destination and pay the expenses of their deportation.

"As to your request for the written assurance of the department that neither Mr. Berkman nor Miss Goldman will be deported to any part of the world where their lives are actually in danger," the letter said, "the bureau would state that you already have the assurance that they will be deported in the usual way attending deportations by the department of labor to soviet Russia."

The letter also refused a request for three months' delay to permit the two radicals to prepare for their deportation.

As soon as they were surrendered, Weinberger's associates started habeas corpus proceedings in the United States district court on the ground that the government has not the right to deport Berkman and Miss Goldman for an "attitude of mind" or for the holding of political, social or economic views. The petition set forth that they were legally admitted to this country more than 30 years ago and neither of them was an anarchist at that time.

The petition contends that they cannot be deported to soviet Russia because the United States has not recognized the Bolshevik government and that to deport them to territory held by the White Guards would be a sentence of death. The claim also is made that Miss Goldman is an American citizen, having become so by her marriage to Jacob A. Kersner.

"I am going to fight against deportation," declared Miss Goldman, "on the ground that I am a citizen. If I am deported it will affect thousands of foreign born American citizens. My deportation is a club to break the militant labor movement."

"There was nothing in the outward appearance of the ferryboat at 11 o'clock to indicate their radical beliefs," Miss Goldman wore gold rimmed spectacles and a set of furs over a tailored suit. Berkman wore a flowing black tie, a dark suit and heavy tortoise shell spectacles.

Berkman predicted a revolution in the United States within five years and said that he did not mind being deported so long as he was sent to soviet Russia.

Miss Goldman also predicted a revolution in this country, but added that she would not call it a danger, but a working out of evolution and a blessing.

BUSINESS PICKING UP

From Rag Dealer to Position of Wealth

PARIS, Thursday, Dec. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Among those who have risen from a comparatively humble position to considerable wealth during the recent past in this city is a rag and bone dealer, who formerly gained a meagre livelihood by picking over garbage boxes. He bought a large number of waterproof coats for 2000 francs at a liquidation sale of American army stocks and made a profit on the resale of 160,000 francs. This sum he invested in further purchases from the liquidation stocks, buying boots, shoes and blankets. As a result of his business acumen he now has a bank account of over one million francs.

Carroll said he considered the question of law involved so important that he would refer the matter to the rail bench, and set Dec. 15 as the last date for filing briefs in the case. In Brooklyn, as in other cities, the municipal government took action against the jitney busses on complaint by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., that it was operating its service at a loss because of jitney competition, and must withdraw its cars unless the busses were eliminated.

Judge Carroll said that while he had no doubt as to the rights of the mayor and aldermen of Brooklyn to regulate traffic on the city highways and to say that the interests of the public must be served by the street railway company, he was troubled about the fact that the aldermen in revoking licenses to jitney operators had failed to give them a hearing.

The mayor and aldermen of Brooklyn claimed that under the city ordinance they could revoke jitney licenses at their discretion. The city solicitor held that the jitney owners had lost their rights by not appealing to the public service commissioners.

Attorneys for the jitneys contended that the board of aldermen had arbitrarily and illegally discriminated in favor of the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Co.

WILL STAMP OUT "JAKE" TRAFFIC HERE.

Commenting on the "JAKE" traffic of three Lowell people as a result of drinking a mixture of "JAKE" and alcohol, the police department declared today that a vigorous campaign will be instituted here to stamp out the traffic in this so-called beverage which has been going on since the advent of prohibition.

"Franklin," said a vigorous action against dealers who are selling Jamaica ginger for beverage purposes will be taken by the police department," said the chief. "This traffic must be suppressed and the police are going to see that this menace to the health and lives of the people of the community is stamped out in Lowell."

"I shall ask for direct sentences in all cases of 'jake' selling which come before the court in future," he added. "The liquor squad has been ordered to redouble its activities in ferreting out dealers who are selling Jamaica ginger as a beverage, several of whom have already been convicted here."

ASSAULT WITH DANGEROUS WEAPON

Convicted of assault with a dangerous weapon on Antonio Tetti, who was found unconscious in an Elm street house on the evening of Nov. 11 with a ragged stab wound in his forehead, Michael Putignano was fined $50. Michael Sarano, also charged with assault on Tetti, was discharged.

with Mexico, also will be presented to the president.

Senator Hitchcock, it was learned at the White House, communicated with Secretary Tammuly late last night regarding the conference and said it was not necessary that the president see the senators immediately but the president decided to have the conference today.

The senators will go to the White House after the president's cabinet has held a special meeting at which the Mexican situation will be discussed. The meeting was called today by Secretary Lansing, who spent nearly two hours before the foreign relations committee yesterday, discussing the Fall and Hitchcock resolutions and the Mexican question generally.

The request of Senator Hitchcock that the president see the senators, was referred to Mr. Wilson and approval of the conference was given by Rear-Admiral Grayson, the president's personal physician.

Chas. J. MORSE

Mr. Citizens: Just think carefully before you vote to retire from office a faithful and trusted official.

I have builded your streets; I have constructed your sewers; I have improved your water department, and put it back on a basis of efficiency. I have worked Early and Late to make good on any job I have undertaken to put through, and have tackled a few big ones in my day. Even though I did celebrate my seventieth birthday last week, I am still young and vigorous enough to measure up to the requirements of office and render you honest and capable public service.

You do not need to be told my frailties and weaknesses. You are familiar with them. I am blunt, I admit, and lack a certain polish of mannerism, but I have done the ROUGH and CONSTRUCTIVE work of the city for years. AN EXPERIENCE THAT IS WORTH MANY A DOLLAR OF SAVING TO YOU BY MY CONTINUANCE IN OFFICE. I have earned my salary many times over and have saved you many a dollar in knowing how to do a certain work in the right way the first time. You will pardon my frankness in bluntly telling you so.

I have no fault to find with honest criticism, nor has any fair-minded man, but I detest criticism based upon falsehood, and so do you. There are some men who may offer criticism upon matters, and even though in error are entitled to respect for their opinion. There are other men that criticism of their fellow-men should be the last privilege they would attempt to enjoy.

I have laid many a paving block on the streets of this city, but have never had one thrown at my head. The Pick and Shovel are more closely identified with my public service than Scissors and Horse Whips. So much for comparison.

I will not change much next year, if elected. I will simply go about my work in the same way as I have in past years, giving you AN HONEST DAY'S SERVICE, AND A GUARANTEE THAT EVERY DOLLAR PLACED IN MY KEEPING WILL BE WISELY SPENT. I ASK YOU TO TRUST ME WITH THE RESPONSIBILITY OF OFFICE AGAIN.

Signed, CHARLES J. MORSE,

Mexican question. Decision to have the senators visit the White House was reached by the committee after Secretary Lansing had told it that the president had not been consulted in the present diplomatic exchanges with Mexico regarding the Jenkins case.

Immediately after arrangements were made for the conference, Senator Fall began assembling the evidence on which his charges against Mexican government representatives were based and preparing an abstract for presentation to the president. The senator plans to take all the evidence to the White House so it will be available for the president should he ask for it.

Although private advices received here yesterday said Carranza was preparing his reply to the latest American note, renewing the request for Jenkins release, state department officials said today they had received no official information on the subject. They added that no new reports regarding the Mexican situation had come to hand.

Restrictions on Permits

LAREDO, Tex., Dec. 5.—Permits to cross the boundary into Mexico, heretofore used by the Mexican consul at one point and good for all other border towns, have been revoked and beginning today they must be used at each town, according to announcement at the Laredo Mexican consulate. This, it is said, will work a hardship on American salesmen visiting both sides of the border. The consulate gave no reason for the new regulation.

To Withdraw Americans

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 5.—Border representatives of American concerns in Mexico today were preparing to carry out instructions for withdrawal of American citizens employed south of the Rio Grande.
